PLAYGROUNDS TO OBSERVE JULY 4

lic Fine Program for Boys Celebration.

A modern Fourth of July celebration will be the exercises at Mosswood Park to commemorate the country's natal day. Fireworks and other noisy manifestations of patriotism that are liable to result in accident will be carefully eschewed, but there will be a lot of noise and sparkle in the events of the Fourth of July program.

An all-day tennis tournament will take place to claim the attention of the devotees of the sport of net and racquet. Trophies furnished by the Mosswood Tennis Association and the Maxwell Hardware Company will be awarded to the winners of the men's singles, the ladies' singles and the men's doubles. The entries will be registered by Mr. Kline, president of the Mosswood Tennis Club.

A band concert, from 10:30 until 1 o'clock will be an event that will attract the musically inclined.

Then for the athletes, there will be a program of races with a prize offered for the winner in each event. An exhibition of tumbling and acrobatic work, together with pyramid building, will be presented by the Mosswood classes in tumbling and gymnastics.

Camp Fire Girls in Indian costume will recall the days of the aborigines while they delight the audience with their performance of dances, aesthetic and symbolic. Folk dancing novelties will be introduced by the Women's Outdoor Club, the members of which will also meet in a competitive game of basketball, volleyball and baseball.

A patriotic address in the afternoon by a speaker whose name has not yet been announced, will be followed by a gigantic flag march.

At 3:30 p. m. two of the best ball teams from the grounds will cross bats to determine the question of supremacy in the national game.

With these as units, competition in organized and individual work will proceed. Track and field work, strength tests, baseball, volleyball, basketball and basketball will be some of the games of special interest in this local competition.

Sierra Club Will Take a Trip to Valley
Members of the Sierra Club will leave today to enjoy a trip to the valley. According to the plans of Fred E. Parker, leader of the trip, the party will leave San Francisco on the 8:15 a. m. boat for Tocoloma by way of Sausalito. They will walk from Tocoloma by way of Olema to Bear Valley, and after lunching here, they will return by way of Point Reyes. Ten miles in all will be covered by the hikers.

Many Oakland people will accompany the party. The officials of the Sierra Club urge members to bring their friends in order that the work of the club may become known. Besides affording health and recreation to its members and others, the Sierra Club is doing a valuable work in educating the public to respect the treasures of nature and to refrain from the wanton destruction that too often characterizes parties of picknickers.

Following the custom established several years ago in the Durant school of this city, the girls of the June graduating class, made and designed their graduation dresses, which they wore at the commencement exercises, June 10, when a large class was graduated. The majority of the boys and girls of the graduating class will register in the local high schools. The pictures show the entire graduating class.

Poplar Street Cubs in Defeat by De Fremery Nine

By a score of 14 to 8 the Cubs of De Fremery Park defeated the Poplar Street Cubs in a game on De Fremery field. The teams lined up as follows:
De Fremery—Pitcher, cf.; Carter, c.; Lee, 2b.; Mullen, p.; Wells, 3b.; Larson, 1b.; Heon, 1b.; Carter, ss.; Miller, r. Poplar Street—Pitcher, cf.; May, 2b.; Stuart, ss.; Hogan, 1b.; Pacheco, 2b.; Peters, 1b.; Vecchio, rf.; Leslie, c.; Bua, p. BUSHROD SENIORS WIN.
The Bushrod Senior baseball team defeated a team from Poplar Street Playground in a one-sided game that terminated with a score of 19 to 3.

MOSSWOOD JUNIORS DEFAULT.

The Mosswood Junior team failed to put in an appearance at a scheduled game in the Playground last Saturday, and so defaulted to the Bushrod Juniors. By default, the Bushrod team wins the championship of the west of the lake division of the league. This team will now meet the east side winners in a series of three games to determine the championship of the city. Their opponents in this series will be the fast team from Bella Vista Playground.

EL ARMONIA CLUB IS HOSTESS AT BIG MASQUE

The El Armonia Club of the Melrose Playground entertained at a successful masquerade ball on Wednesday evening at the Melrose hall. The affair was given under the direction of Miss Crist, supervisor of girls' activities at the Melrose playground.

The young people appeared in a variety of costumes, from that of the French chef to the Yama Yama Girl. The prizes for the best-sustained characters were presented to Mr. Maker, representing a P.N. Islander, and Miss Russell as a Highland lassie. About two hundred guests attended the very enjoyable affair.

Tompkins Team Is the Winner in Two Contests

The Tompkins Bantam team figured in two contests with the fast Magnolia team last week and emerged victorious on both, the first time, on Monday, by the score of 7 to 6, and the second time, on Tuesday, by 7 to 1.

The first game was a nip and tuck affair, each of the teams alternately holding the lead until the eighth inning, when the tribe of "Skippy" Gomez came up from the cellar and won out by gathering three runs. The Tompkins team used two pitchers, Gomez relieving Luisa Gomez when the latter's offerings proved to be too acceptable to the opposing side. Archie Magnoli pitched a consistent game for the Magnolias team. MacDonald at first, and Paul at the receiving end of the battery also did excellent work.

In the second game, the Tompkins aggregation accomplished the feat of scoring seven runs on but four baseballs. Errors by the Magnolias, coupled with skillful base-running, were responsible for this stunt. The Magnolias, with six baseruns, were able to score but once.

Waring, of the Magnolias, was the heaviest stickler of the day, getting three hits, one of them a two-bagger, out of three times at bat. His sensational catch of Gomez' fly in the fourth inning, was another thrilling play. Luisa was also credited with a two-bagger.

The lineups were:
FIRST GAME.
Tompkins—Castro, cf.; Field, c.; Luisa, Gomez, p.; Dominguez, 2b.; Gomez-Luisa, 1b.; Morgalla, ss.; Viera, 2b.; Swartz, 1b.; Cabral, c.

PLAYGROUND PROGRAM PLANS ARE UNDER WAY

The members of the Women's Outdoor Club and their husbands, and the Mothers' Club of the Melrose School are working in conjunction with the playground supervisors on a program which will take place on the Melrose playground on July Fourth.

Games and races for prizes will form an important part of the day's fun. A band, a speaker for the occasion, and a merry-go-round will add to the enjoyment of the public; while for their refreshment, there will be booths from which ice cream and cake, coffee and sandwiches will be served.

GIRLS' LEAGUE FORMED AT ALLENDALE GROUND
A Girls' Athletic League has been formed at the Allendale playground, which have their headquarters on the grounds will contest in the games of the league series. The older girls who attend the playground have been fitted with special enthusiasm over the competition that will be secured by this plan. The girls will meet in games of basketball, baseball, volleyball, and other sports.

Playground Games Show Diversity of National Pastime

The Tompkins Juniors defeated a team from De Fremery Friday afternoon by the score of 10 to 9. Magnelli, for the visitors, pitched shut-out ball, while Towne, of De Fremery, was hit freely by the visitors.

The Poplar Street Junior team easily defeated a team from Tompkins Playground in a practice game played Saturday on the Poplar Street diamond. It was a big day for Poplar, and the visitors were powerless to resist the assaults of the home team's batsmen. The final score was 23 to 1. Most of the Poplar runs came in the third inning, when Pitcher Retoni indulged in a bit of whiffographic aerobatics and let in fourteen tallies. The teams lined up as follows:

The Mosswood Intermediate team defeated the Tompkins Intermediates in a seven-inning game Wednesday at Tompkins field. The final score was 11 to 4. During the early innings, the work of Pitcher Magnelli for the home aggregation was very loose. Later, he tightened up, but his support failed him at critical moments. The Mosswood team played a creditable and consistent game. Intelligent work with the stick was a prominent feature of their performance. Gillespie showed up well in the box and enjoyed good support.

The batteries:
For Mosswood: Gillespie and Langfield; for Tompkins, Magnelli and Vaughns. Umpires: Demont and Hunter.

BLUE BIRDS' AFFAIR TO MOTHERS TOMORROW

The Big Blue Birds of Park Boulevard Playground will give a party to their mothers, and the Little Blue Birds Club of the same playground, on Monday afternoon in the clubhouse on the grounds.

The program will be followed by refreshments and out-of-door games for the dollies.

The other members of the Big Blue Birds are: Margaret Williams, Margaret Palmer, Norrine Bailey, Mabel Shaw, Adeline Emmons, Helen Hook, Vivian Hooy, Mildred Antoni, Beale Palmer, Marie Townsend, Norma Harmon, Gertrude McArt and Naomi Thompson. The girls are led by Miss Evans, a First teacher of the "Blue Birds."

Athletic Trophies Are Now on Exhibition

The cups and medals which will be awarded to winners in the athletic events that are to take place at the Bushrod Playground Fourth of July celebration are on exhibition this week at the Edwards' jewelry store. All these prizes have been secured through the aid of the Bushrod Improvement Club, an association of property holders and men interested in the improvement and welfare of the Bushrod play center. Prizes to the value of $100 have been secured, including medals for the 50, 100 and 220-yard dashes, silver cups for the winners of two ball games, and a suit donated by M. L. Harris which will be awarded to the winner of the baseball game between the Laurel Club and the Grove Street Merchants.

Besides regular athletic and freak contests, such as three-legged races, sack races, etc., the Fourth program which is under preparation at Bushrod Park will include a monster circus, with a regular circus parade in the morning, with troupes of acrobats, and scores of fair dancers and funny clowns. The Avalon team will meet the Ashbys in the afternoon game, and the Grove Street Merchants and the Laurel Club team will try conclusions in a second contest.

DE FREMERY LADS WIN INTERMEDIATE VICTORY

"The Infamous" will soon shine as a ball player in the new West Oakland Playground League, the teams in which will be called the Brownies, the Pignoles, and the Cubs, and who must measure, respectively, to the heights of 4 feet 8 inches, 4 feet 6 inches and 4 feet 4 inches. The lads composing the teams will be under twelve in most cases, although there is no age restriction for the divisions. Games in the new league will start on Wednesday, June 21. Beside the very small teams who will compete, the Bantams League will also have their games. The arguments between the Cubs and the Pignoles will be decided in the forenoon, while all the Brownies and Bantam games will be played in the afternoon. The grounds that will enter teams in the new league are De Fremery Park, the Poplar Street Playground, Tompkins School Playground and the Prescott School Playground.

OAKLAND GIRLS WILL RETURN FROM OUTING

A crowd of fourteen sun-tanned and happy Oakland girls will return today from a week's vacation which they have spent on a ranch in the Santa Clara Valley, near San Jose. ### New League Games Will Begin Wednesday, June 24

A championship game between the Intermediate teams representing Bella Vista and De Fremery Playgrounds, resulted in a victory for the De Fremery lads by the score of 9 to 7. Until the fifth inning the East Oaklanders appeared to have the game safely stowed away, leading by a score of 8 to 1. Demont and Louie Luisa formed a strong battery for the Tompkins side, while Bertola and Abrew, for Poplar Street, worked in fine style. The game took place on the Poplar street diamond, and was for five innings duration. The line-ups follow:

The only run in the Allendale game was made by Taylor Dolphin of Park Boulevard. He was walked to first, stole second, and brought home by Spread's hit.

A game of the same team with Mosswood resulted in a defeat by 8 to 3. The team has signed up for the summer league and expects to make a good record.

The lineup is: Spread, p.; Dolphin, c.; Horton, ss.; Foley, cf.; Corpele, 1b.; C. Abrew, 2b.; Cammire, 3b.; Bertola, p.

OPEN AIR SCHOOLS TO BE CONSTRUCTED SOON

CHICO, June 20.—Plans and specifications for the new open air schools for the Chico State Normal have arrived and President Ware expects to have a crew of carpenters at work on the construction work within two weeks. As already told, these rooms will be arranged on the open passage way between the training school and the main campus.

The rooms will be screened in with canvas and will be equipped with every appliance and furniture necessary to the maintenance of a well-regulated school. It will be the first open air school room constructed in connection with the Chico State Normal in the State.

GIRL GETS SHARK WITH LIGHT LINE

Refusing Help, She Plays Monster and Lands Him Alongside.

SEATTLE, June 20.—Miss Edith Jackson, the 15-year-old daughter of Mrs. L. H. Jackson, society woman of Vancouver, B. C., landed a huge shark after a two hours' battle, according to the officers of the North-west steamer Cuzco, arriving from Newcastle-on-Tyne, via South American ports.

Miss Jackson was a passenger on board the Cuzco. While the Cuzco was lying in the harbor of Puntas Arenas, Costa Rica, Miss Jackson noticed several large sharks swimming near the ship.

She secured a light line and hook, she baited it with a piece of salt pork and threw it overboard. It was instantly seized by one of the largest of the sharks.

The shark darted away from the side of the ship and Miss Jackson wrapped the line around the station of the guard rail. When the shark came to the end of the line he tore the station from its socket, but the line and rail still held.

REPTILES HELP
Capt. J. E. Miller and several of the crew rushed to her aid, but she waved them away, saying she would fight the battle alone. When the struggling fish would slack away for a moment she would reel in on it until he started away on another effort to get free. In this manner she played the big fish for fully two hours, until the shark was nearly exhausted, and her hands were cut and bleeding from the line. She finally brought the shark alongside the ship, where it was dispatched by Captain Miller.

At Local Playhouses

(Con. From Preceding Page)

West, as he is also the father of the girl with whom Gormly is in love. Mrs. Martin comes upon the scene. The action in the city is a battle between business and corrupt politics, as the attempt to extend a legitimate industrial enterprise and the effort of those who control the sinuous avenues to franchise grants to hold it up; to enforce a colossal contribution to those who, to quote a famous admission of a famous New York boss, are working for their pockets all the time.

Mr. McRae has a fine role in that of George Fordyce, who in camp was one of the several to become interested in the only woman in the place and who, when she had shot, and as was believed had killed her husband, and gallantly assumed the blame by leaving a note to the effect that he was the murderer. His association with Mrs. Martin ends just as it begins, and with a crack on the skull. Under the name of Gormly, Fordyce comes to New York, and when we see him a dozen years later, he is a successful business man. It is when he attempts to lay back through the section of shanties, land which he had leased, that he feels the power of the Gotham Trust Company, a concern which controls the city administration. When Gormly decides to go into politics his troubles begin. The head of the Gotham Company is a man who had known Gormly in the day and the members prepared a surprise for her. They gave her a "post-card" shower.

Those taking part in the program were: Belle Herr, Myrtle J. Hunt, Sarah J. Jordan and Josephine E. Gaudin.

On Friday the sewing bee met at the home of Sister Callie Eton for an all-day meeting. A large number of ladies were present. A social hour at luncheon was a pleasant feature. Many social features are being planned for the near future.

UNITED ARTISANS.

The regular business of Golden Gate Assembly was held last Monday evening. Several important questions were discussed. There were several members reported ill.

The drill team and officers rehearsed for installation, to be held in July. The ceremony will be public. Sister Edna C. Kirk paid a visit to the Petaluma Assembly last Thursday evening.

PYTHIAN SISTERS.

Tuesday evening Caliente Temple held the regular business session, when M. E. C. Christina Steadley presided. One candidate was admitted to membership and plans made for future drill work for the team. The members will attend the ladies' night to be given by Dirigo Lodge. Arrangements are now complete for the memorial services to be held today. Visitors were present from Oroville and other temples.

ALCAZAR.

This week the Alcazar Theater will offer one of the distinct novelties of the present dramatic season, when it will present, for the first time outside of New York City, a magnificent production of "Winthrop Ames' Little Theater success, 'Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs,' a fairy tale play founded on the familiar story of the same name by Jessie Bramham White. Dainty little Bessie Parricello will have one of the greatest opportunities of her entire career of Thurston Hall, as will also Louise Brownell, Edna Lowe, Nevada C. Hickman, A. Burr Weaver, S. A. Burton, and many more of the Alcazar favorites. Besides, there will be a lot of beautiful little children in the fairy roles, and they will all dance and sing and make merry in their parts. Special music for the production, written by Edmond Rickett, will be a feature. It is going to be a trip in fairyland all next week at the pretty theater in O'Farrell street.

SOCIETY

GERTRUDE ATHERTON is far and away one of the most notable women of modern times. She is one of the greatest women novelists the century has known and one of the best-known women who have ever come from the Pacific Coast. Mrs. Atherton dearly loves a row—not a slight difficulty, not a little unpleasantness—but a good, old-fashioned "row." She is always throwing down the gauntlet. She is always the center of a great war of words. She is the right b'ds fair to be bitter, for the courageous Mrs. Atherton is now in New York, and in the big dailies whole pages are being devoted to Mrs. Atherton's opinion. She is

MISS ALICE WATSON, A BELLE OF THE YOUNGER SET.

She has come to New York from Butte, Montana, where she has been writing a novel of the Northwest which she hopes will be a classic. American women seem, indeed, to be welcome to Mrs. Atherton's opinion of them: for she is not at all backward in expressing it. Among other things approaching Mrs. Atherton's convictions are the following:

"In Europe, where I have lived a great deal, we are always meeting rich and beautiful American women of obscure origin; they are presented at court; they enter society; they are charming and exquisitely dressed and we hear people asking again and again, 'Who is she anyway?' 'Oh, a miner's daughter! Her parents kept a little Western boarding-house and some one 'struck it rich.' There's a story behind her.' Our novelists are content to take her when they find her, to set her down as coming from Oshkosh or Kalama-zoo and let it go at that, to miss all the real romance that lay behind her. There's no story now in the social success; the story is in the beginning. It occurred to me to study one of these women from the ground up, and I went to Butte.

"And then, too, the public in America is so uneducated," she went on especially the women

"Barring those of special advantage—American women are the most un- headed in the world.

"European women are often dull and stupid, but they are not silly. American women aren't half

"They go to school, but they don't study. In Butte the high school girls were painted like trollops. One couldn't fancy them studying. And in the West I was told that only the school teachers read even the serious fiction of the day. In Germany and France the dullest girl is thoroughly educated.

"American women know less than the men, because less is required of them. Their minds are as good, but they are not trained. They don't have to use their brains."

And Mrs. Atherton adds: "It will take fifty years to train women to men's executive ability," she explained. "They have the mind, but they need both education and practice. Suffrage is splendid for women. When I went back to San Francisco, after the state had been granted equal suffrage, I found women really thinking about conditions instead of talking hats and gossip. They asked me how I was going to vote instead of how I was going to have my winter clothes made. Suffrage is a great cause; women need it, and it is doing them good.

"It may take even more than fifty years, though, to get women to work together. I believe that their distrust of each other will be overcome. But it will take a long time.

"This empty-headedness of so many thousands of our women is the secret of so much that is criticised in our literature.

"Certain novelists find it vastly profitable. Empty heads want erotic sentimentalism and risqué adventures in—Society."

Gertrude Atherton's novel, "Julia France and Her Times," was a splendid study in English militancy—though she does not now approve of the militant development in England.

But California women are accused to smile when Mrs. Atherton is connected with California suffrage. It never had her support in its initial days; but in the end, when the battle was won, Mrs. Atherton was a late convert, as were a few other well-known women, now its most ardent supporters. But the wise California woman says little of that. She whispers softly to herself the old adage, "better late than never."

Mrs. Atherton's new novel is a story of Montana and is entitled: "Perch of the Devil."

Gertrude Atherton has definitely arrived along many lines and she is the center of much attention in the smart sets of London, of New York, and of the large cities on the Con-place of the lieutenant-governor, it augurs well for the growth of public opinion that such leading women have been thought of and that the entire plan is considered seriously and is in the range of possibility.

Mrs. Joseph R. Knowland is making friends everywhere for Mr. Knowland, and among the bright women who make very clever talks these days are Mrs. Gerberding, who is an aunt of Mrs. Egbert Stone; Miss Maud Younger, Miss Ethel Moore, Miss Anita Whitney, Mrs. A. C. Posey, Mrs. J. R. Scupham, Mrs. C. S. Chamberlain, Mrs. Daniel Easterbrook, Mrs. Chabot, Miss Trevor, Mrs. Wallace Everson.

HERE'S NEW WORD IN SOCIAL USE—"HOOKER."

smart sets of England and America are using a great deal lately and one that bids fair to be fully incorporated in our language. It is the word "hooker," which eludes definite analysis. Some people might call a "hooker" a hanger-on, only that the "hooker" has not the sense of humility nor the gratitude nor the respect of that character. Of course, tainly we must admire his exorbitant talent for visiting, borrowing, getting invited to other people's homes and always acquiring something. There never is a minute that the trained hooker isn't in it.

"Hookers" are of both sexes—but there is more excuse for the feminine kind. And one finds more of them in London and on the Continent, for in America we still live up to the early tradition of the nation, that all men must work. A many may be a millionaire many times over, but he is still expected to live up to the American tradition of work.

CROCKERS ARE GUESTS AT LONDON PEACE BALL.

The William H. Crockers are in London, and they were joined there ranks of the smart set for something original, something new in social entertainment, and so a well-known Parisian hostess, the Countess de Broglie, gave a "jewel ball" in the blue grotto of her home. Guests were expected to wear the most costly jewels they had, and the gowns were planned to match the jewels. One of the drawing-rooms was arranged to represent the blue grotto at Capri, and as the guests passed through it the effect was quite wonderful. It has not yet been decided whether the emeralds or the pearls scored the greatest success. The hostess wore emeralds. The Baroness de Rothschild wore pearls valued at a million dollars. Mrs. Ogden Mills wore diamonds and Mrs. Harry Lehr rubies. Mrs. Mills is from New York, but it often practices here. It is interesting to learn that a California girl is playing remarkable tennis abroad. From Paris comes a cable that America has secured two successes in the world's hard court tennis championships at Saint Cloud this week, both won by the same lady, Miss Ryan, formerly California champion. Miss Ryan has been playing a lot of championship tennis on this side in the last two years. Some weeks ago she won the championship in the French mixed doubles partnered with De Cugis, the famous French player. Miss Ryan has a remarkable cork-screw service and an astonishing cut, which many players on this side find untakable to play. De Cugis says he asks for no better partner. Miss Ryan says she will stay here until she can bring back the world's championship to America.

more attention than the 'rah, rah rah,' to which they gave vent in the sacred shadows of Westminster Abbey."

None but venturesome Americans, and Far Western Americans at that, would ever dream of giving a college yell "in the sacred shadows of Westminster Abbey." How strange, indeed, must have sounded the picturesque old-time Berkeley yell—"Oski Wow Wow"—roared out by loyal Berkeley students in white straw hats!

PROMINENT WOMEN GATHER AT LECTURES.

Every Thursday across the Bay, one meets prominent women from all the bay cities at the lectures given under the special direction of the women's board, Panama exposition. The lectures are of exceeding interest, and they presage what one may expect a few months later. It was the turn of the social science department last Thursday, and the speaker gave one many thoughts to remember. Among other things, he said that the Chicago exposition stirred a great civic sentiment—that cities were directly benefited thereby. The St. Louis exposition resulted in much benefit to the homes of the land, and it is expected that the San Francisco exposition will directly benefit the individual. And that is only in the order in which things are being evolved in other ways. It has come to be recognized that individualism counts for much. Social leaders still depend, in a large way, on a money-backing, but it is a notable fact that many members of the smart set are not dependent upon money for their social success. There is something due to charm of manner and to intellectual superiority. Both of these characteristics are to be found in a large degree among women of the smart set. Almost every woman has something in which she is vitally interested—something that takes her straightway off the category of "Idle Wives."

It is quite true, as Mrs. Atherton has told us, that women are taking a great interest today in politics, for beautiful California is the land of woman's opportunity. Two great questions are of absorbing interest in these early vacation weeks. One concerns itself with woman's work for the exposition, and the other with the political questions of the day. Out of the latter are evolved certain well-established conclusions. Women do not care so much for politics as men have always considered them; but they care a great deal for principles, for civic betterment, and for those questions which affect the real welfare of women and children.

It is a remarkable fact, of which the rest of the world will no doubt soon take notice, that three very ernor. They are Mrs. I. Lowenberg, Mrs. Lovell White and Mrs. Williams.

Mrs. I. Lowenberg is one of the most brilliant women on the coast. She is a woman of great culture, a fine conversationalist, and well versed on the great problems of the day. Mrs. Lowenberg is exceedingly modest and retiring, and whenever she can, keeps in the background of private life. But her work is so big and broad, and comprehensive; she has such tact, such judgment, such good breeding; she is so womanly at heart, that she stands out in a wonderful fashion from a background of everyday life. Mrs. Lowenberg has much literary ability, and her latest book, "A Nation's Crime," being an able discussion of the divorce problem, scored a great success, and incidentally stirred the men and women of the nation to deep thought. Mrs. Lowenberg was the president last year of the Women's Press Club and brought it to a most enviable standard. She is also the first vice-president of the women's board, Panama exposition, and her work on the board has been most effective.

But Mrs. Lowenberg would not accept any political place in the gift of the people, and so, sadly, they regret that she will not be the next lieutenant-governor of the state. It would have been a fine thing for next year, when all the world will be coming to visit us.

Mrs. Lovell White founded the well-known California Club, and it is due to her efforts that great Sequoia redwoods have been saved from the axes of the lumbermen.

Mrs. Williams has worked along political lines and is one of the best-known women in California. While there may not be a woman in the

How to Banish Wrinkles Quickly

If your face is disfigured with wrinkles, no matter what the cause, you can quickly dispel every line, even the most obstinate, by using a simple, home-made wash lotion. Merely dissolve an ounce of powdered salicylic acid in a half pint witch hazel— inexpensive ingredients found in any drug store. Bathe the face in this, and— presto!—you scarcely believe your own eyes when you look into your mirror and behold the marvelous transformation! The remarkable astringent action of the salicylic acid tightens the skin, wrinkles are literally pressed out. Best of all, this result is not purely temporary, for the lotion also has a healthful tonic action, which tends to strengthen and tone up the weakened tissue, and added beneone finds the "hooker" in all the classics; he seems to have existed from the earliest days. Balaac's famous "Cousin Pons" is a notable example, and one finds the "hooker" in the heart of Homeric days. A clever modern writer analyzes the "hooker" for us:

"The modern hooker is blithe, gay, and often condescending in his accepting of the goods the gods provide. In these days, when potatoes and tomatoes are sold by the pound and an extra place at dinner means about six times what it used to, the manner of the hooker is, if anything, a reproach to anyone who would allow for a moment the sordid question of the cost of things to agitate the atmosphere. He is a scientist. He runs up no actual bills. He contracts no real debts. He takes with apparent indifference. Frequently he the forty-eight states were all represented by such well-known people as the Duchess of Marlborough, Lady Decies (Vivien Gould), Mrs. Sharon Leslie, who was pretty Miss Ide of California. The Crocker girls also represented states, and one hears they were altogether lovely.

"Britannia" was over six feet high, and all her assistants were taken from the tallest women in London society.

"Britannia" reviewed all her daughters—very lovely they were—from Australia, South Africa, India and New Zealand. And then came Columbia and her states. They do not admit in England that for beauty, distinction, poise, and wonderful gowns, Columbia's daughters carried off all the honors. But the little bird who always tells the truth has carried that message over the sea.

U. C. MEN MAKE GOOD ABROAD.

The University of California "College Glee Club" is touring the Continent, and they are undoubtedly making their presence known in the leading cities. From London comes the following news of them:

"Londoners this week gazed in astonishment at the straw headgear of a party of youths from the University of California, members of the College Glee Club. The hats were of a high-crowned variety unknown here, which some American hatmakers are advertising as the limit. In these unsummers-like days few Londoners have yet ventured to don straw headgear, and the Berkeley boys' courage attracted

An announcement of last week was that of the engagement of Miss Marion Gay of Sacramento and Dening Garrow Machine, son of Mr. and Mrs. James MacIlise of Vernon Street, Oakland. The betrothal was told at a tea given by Mrs. Willis Payne in San Francisco last Thursday afternoon. Both Miss Gay and her fiancé are graduates of the University of California. No date has been set for the wedding.

MOTOR TO TAHOE.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Hunt will leave for a motor trip to Tahoe next week. They are enthusiastic motorists and have enjoyed a number of week-end trips returning from their honeymoon. Last week they motored to Santa Cruz with a party of friends.

INFORMAL DANCE.

Miss Isabel Porter was hostess at a jolly informal dance given at her home in Twenty-first street a few evenings ago.

THE CHILD PROBLEM
AND ITS DIFFICULTIESOld Fallacies, Old Methods and Old Systems Fail
in Modern Times

"MAKE your daughter your chum," advised Annie H. Eckstrom, well known writer on sociological topics, recently, in the Atlantic. Miss Eckstrom, in her advice, was considering a few minor matters, and in doing so gave some advice that applied to matters far more important. In fact, she sounded a call to parents that, if obeyed, will protect a large percentage of girlhood from the pitfalls of this world. She probably knew it. It's a pity, however, that she did not sound the call louder.

them as they are forced to keep their dogs and horses at home and care for them. He believes there should be a law to punish parents who allow their sons to run at large and grow up in crime just as there is a law which punishes a man for persistently allowing his horse to loose on his neighbor's lawn.

Make the parents responsible for these little fellows and they will not be found roaming stores.

Whipping children does not reform them, according to George E. Dieckman, a noted educator, nor does it educate of it is a mooted argument, and St. Louis is trying the experiment, at least so far as schools are concerned. The St. Louis Times, in discussing the matter, says:

ON WHIPPING CHILDREN.

A great many people are going to admire the manner in which Mr. George E. Dieckman is going about the task of putting a stop to corporal punishment in all institutions in St. Louis where children are confined.

This statement, credited to Mr. Dieckman: "The children in the industrial school, are bad, otherwise they would not be there. Few children are angels, but it is wrong for men, physically their superiors, to take advantage of them."

There's the whole case, admirably stated.

What man is there among us who, despite the fact that he honestly confesses that he is at fault in some manner or another every day of his life, would consider his condition bettered by an attack from superior physical forces? "Oh, but we are men grown," is the probable answer to such an argument. To which we would respond that we have never encountered a "man grown," if being a man grown means complete development and an absence of the need of further education and the learning of new lessons.

Human beings do not advance by epochs, or decades, but by the imperceptible development of each day.

When one man beats another on the street, acting on the conviction that the man he assaults has behaved badly (from the point of view of the man making the assault), there are courts waiting for him, to deprive him of his money or his liberty. But the principle in such a case is not different from the instance of the child's experience at the hands of a champion of croquet.

Men demand the right to be reasoned with. Why deny the same right to children, who are often more amenable to reason than their elders—and rarely less so?

It is a cold-blooded proposition in logic, it is good for children to be beaten, why is it that John "sees red" whenever his boy is spanked by Neighbor Smith? The answer is that on such questions, but the answers are all based upon a sort of sophistry, or upon that sort of logic that disdains to go any further for bases than an ancient tradition.

The truth is that there is something of the brute left in most of us, and that when we yield to the impulses of the brute we find it easy to whip those who are weaker than we are, or who are dependent upon us.

Mr. Dieckman has a big field into which to carry his wit and his sense of fairness. We wish him all the success in the world.

"They didn't do that in your father's time!" is the oft-repeated admonition to the bad boy of today. And the bad boy of today, however much enlightened, disbelieves—and loses respect in his parent. The youth of today isn't deceived by the old tales his father was deceived by in his boyhood—that's about the only difference between those times and now, so far as his concern. Wherefore it does him no good, and considerable harm, to hand him this story, according to the Spokane Spokesman-Review, which, considering the matter, says:

THE OLD STORY.

From the first born boy to the present-day youth has enjoyed an advantage denied to age. This is the privilege of being advised by the sire and grandfathers.

The seniors set forth the shortcomings and needs of the juniors with painful frankness. The juniors ought to become the wisest of men and make no mistakes in life. The accumulated and hoary wisdom of ages is lavished upon them. The lessons of experience are theirs to command without need of any without price.

But Laertes is as human as Prometheus. The son scoffs and disregards as did the father. Each prefers to learn for himself and to cut his teeth on the hard crusts of his own experience. The precepts of the past mean little or nothing to the children of the present.

Lord Roseberry, a sage and reverend gentleman of Scotland, is the latest actor in the role of Mentor to Telemachus. He has told a set of British schoolboys that the seventeenth century was notable for the superiority of its manners and that it bred the greatest Englishmen of all time. Then came the corollary that the manners of the young men of the twentieth century are sadly inferior to those of the preceding centuries.

The seniors might have asked how he knew, since he was not living in the seventeenth century and could speak only from hearsay. They could have retorted that they had read that the Roseberys of that century complained of its deterioration in mood breeding. But they were silent perhaps. Roseberry enjoyed the sweet satisfaction of the ancient sage who can say disagreeable things and hear only the assenting echoes of his own voice answer.

But Ben Jonson was of that seveneenth century, and it is his name that could be summoned to the witness stand, would repeat the testimony of Roseberry. "Rare Ben" spoke severe words about the English boys of his time. The cartoonists of the day held the youth up to ridicule. They pictured the father as grasping the spear, the son as holding the wine flask.

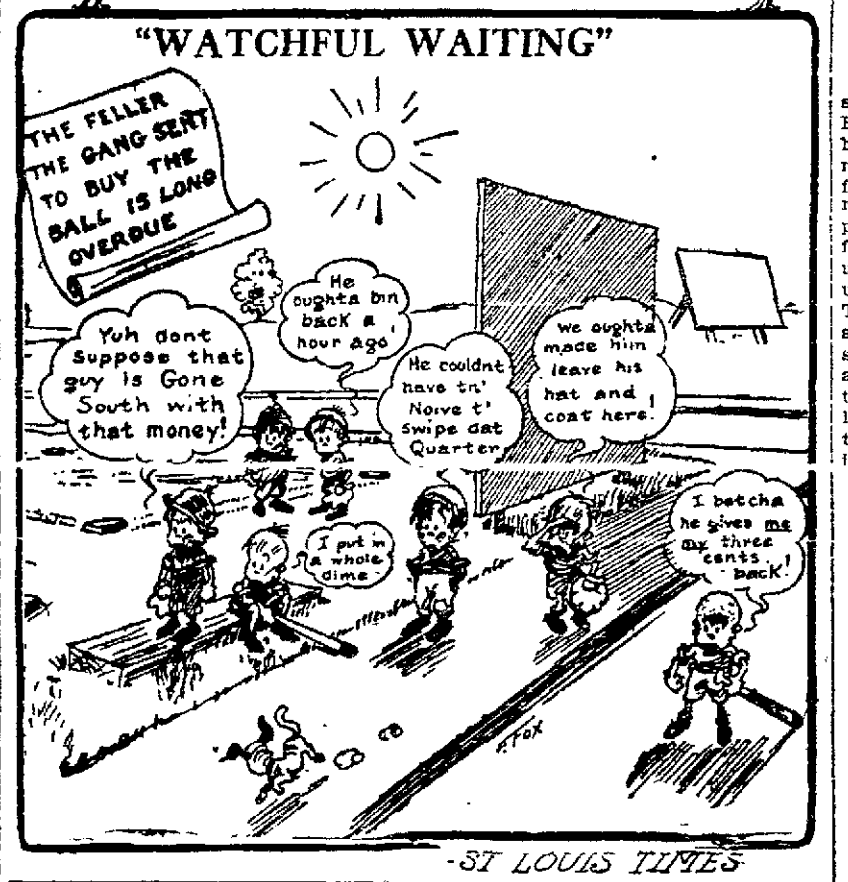

Really, Muse of History, were there ever such fine manners in any era as we are told? The seventeenth century was less humane than the nineteenth century.

There is nothing in a girl's education more profitable to her than contact with able and honorable men much older than herself. While it is commonly recognized that sons grow apart from their fathers as manhood is forming; it is less understood that at a somewhat later period daughters undergo a similar, though less noticeable, change with reference to their mothers. The father who takes pains in educating his daughter is saving her present unhappiness and educating her for marriage. Girls so reared and so befriended are recognized at once by the expert; they have a certain poise, initiative, penetration, detachment, a superiority to petty feminine wiles.

scathed. The safest way and indeed the only way to regulate any form of commercialized recreation is to make it wholly amenable to the law. Genuine decency should have nothing to fear from this arrangement, and it is surprising that it should find any ground of protest against it. By far the better way would be to avoid those features of the dance which the law forbids, and assist the authorities in repressing them where they do absolute and extensive harm.

German-Americans Offer Tribute to Poet of Their Land

PROBABLY no more fitting tribute could be paid a great man than that which was paid Goethe, the greatest of German poets, when his countrymen, in a foreign land which he scarcely knew during his lifetime, these countrymen many of them now owing allegiance to the new land, erected, in a city grown to greatness Goethe never dreamed possible, since his death, a monument commemorating his work and his achievements. The German people have a prominent place in America; that they should erect this monument in their adopted land is fitting; for it brings with it a message from across the sea—the message of their Fatherland poet, and it marks another bond between two great nations.

The Chicago-Record-Herald, speaking of the erection of the great statue to Goethe, says:

In the unveiling of the Johann Wolfgang von Goethe memorial in Lincoln park tomorrow tribute will be paid to a man who more than any other embodies the spirit of modern Germany. Goethe, greatest of German poets though he is, belongs to the world almost as much as to Germany. His is a universal appeal.

The memorial which is to be unveiled is a colossal bronze figure designed by Prof. Hermann Hahn of Munich, after a competition which included the leading sculptors of Germany. It is a gift to Lincoln park from the Goethe Memorial Association. The unveiling takes place under the direction of the more than one hundred German societies in this city.

Chicago, with its many thousands of men and women either of German birth or of German parentage, has a definite interest in keeping German

MALARIA ON U. S. SHIPS PREVENTED BY SCREENS

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Proof of the efficiency of screens for preventing malaria has been amply illustrated aboard the ships of the Atlantic fleet at Vera Cruz. Medical reports which have reached the navy department show that on the fleet-at-large there is a percentage above normal of malaria cases among the crews.

On board the Des Moines, however, when it became necessary to strip the ship, seventy cases of malaria immediately developed. In the entire fleet only seven other cases have been reported. Two per cent of 20,000 men on the ships are under medical care.

The Tango Stopped? No! Not Even by the Dancing Masters

They've stopped the twisted tango now. For strictly modest: So dancing teachers say, but still they tango, too, you bet!

WHAT happened when the dancing masters modified the dances of the modern age. They modified them, and they decided to teach no more tango. Still, the tango still tangoes—and they can't stop it. The tango is a dance, for conservation of the interests of a dancing master's bread and butter is self-defense—they just have to teach it!

Even when they decreed that the tango must die they weren't taken seriously. This is proved in an editorial in the Portland Telegram, published the day after the decree. It follows:

The boss dancing masters have decided that their heads together and we get the resultant announcement that society will be led away from the dips and glides and kangaroo shins of modern tangoism. These gentlemen who are presumed to lay down the law for the guidance of the merry-merries conclude that what society needs is a return to dignity and the poetry of motion; hence the ban is to be laid on the hop-skip-and-a-jump wogue and there is to be grace and ease and success from violent exercise as we trip the light fantastic.

Some wit said not long since that "people used to go to dancing school to learn the steps, but nowadays they go to learn the holds." That shaft carries a little caustic on its point because it is true. Perhaps it has hit and rankled in the bosoms of the boss dancing masters. Who knows? At any rate what the boss dancing masters propose to do is to turn to the steps; to get the dancer back to the art that is in that form of social recreation. Can they do it?

Whether the decree of the dancing masters will carry or not will depend in large measure upon the weight and influence of those gentlemen in society's select circles. If they were dressmakers or milliners we would have no hesitancy in indulging in a little favorable prophecy, but this business of laying down the law for dancing is comparatively new, and we apprehend that the authority of those who attempt to lay it down is not so well established as it might be.

Yet there will be a great, full-sized, moderate-minded hope that the phase of the dance masters will have the punch behind it. This hope will be entertained particularly by those who have an eye for the grace and beauty there is in dancing. The strictly modern dance takes no cognizance of these; and in that respect, to say nothing of any other, it needs to be revamped. It shows that styles may be made, but not unchanged. Some time ago, about seven years ago, they invented, or imported, rather, peg-top trousers for college boys, and cost money, the tailors said, and they decided to change the fashion. However, the boys demanded the baggy trousers, and didn't buy the others. Only this year the tailors succeeded in changing the style.

Of course, some of the dances might be just as well left alone, and can be handled by the police rather than by dancing masters. Speaking of unregulated dances, the New York Sun says:

In all sincere effort properly to control commercialized entertainment, the regulation of the public dance is the most embarrassing. Unregulated, that dance is fraught with evil, and the nature of that evil and its consequences are too well known to need special mention. Men and women who have to do officially with the consequences realize the necessity for legal regulation that it will be difficult to evade and for that reason an ordinance has been enacted in this city which puts all public dances under official supervision. The law is drastic concerning those dance practices which decency and a healthy moral sentiment forbid, but excepting these practices it leaves a wide field for the dance.

Strange to say, there are fraternal and benevolent organizations in the city which protest against compliance with the law. These organizations conduct dances for money. The purpose, however, is not private gain. It is philanthropy in a way, or at the least it is for the social advantage of those organizations that stand sponsors for the dances. Presumably, it is upon this basis of philanthropy that the protests are made.

Organizations ought to realize that if an ordinance of this sort is enacted with a hole in it, the rank-and-file members of the law will growl through that hole and get the ordinance out of their minds. But the "trial separation"—that is a different matter. It is based upon wisdom, rather than upon a sentimental philosophy.

WOMANHOOD AND NEW CULTS

Dividing Line Between Two Extremes Is Sought

The New Womanhood and womanliness improved. The Spokane "Spokesman-Review" suggests it. The militants are used of opposing arguers as a proof that the "Review" wasn't considering all angles of the case.

and not militant. The little editorial started a small flurry of editorial comment. Wherefore it may be interesting, and is hereby quoted:

"Through motherhood and motherliness women have until now made their greatest contribution to human culture. The helplessness of the infant and the loveliness of the child evoked sympathy and tenderness from the mother. These qualities in the woman have been the basis of her growth into character and moral personality."

"Women on the whole have shown their superiority to man in the fields of sympathy and self-sacrificing unselfishness. The old-fashioned woman, when at her best as a Penelope or a mother, was the loveliest of human nature that the world has ever seen. She was at peace with herself and possessed joy, because she knew that motherhood not only was her greatest joy, but her supreme duty. To conserve the best in the life of the soul and heart was her function."

"True conservatism of women, this tenacity of tenderness, piety and faithfulness, is one of the bedrock reasons why the believers in the new woman have no anxiety as to the outcome of the feminine development now in progress. This conservatism of nature and instinct in the most cultivated and advanced woman keeps the good in the old ideas from being swept away by the new ideas. The recognition of the men of the new woman to get on their own responsibility will result in women learning fearless love of truth, intellectual integrity and public spirit that gladly shares the large interests of man's whole world. The sole reason why few women have yet reached the greatest heights of achievement that men have attained is that but few women have ever yet had the chance."

Owen Johnson says women are becoming agnostic. "The Ohio State Journal" handles this as follows:

"Women are swiftly becoming agnostic," says Owen Johnson, the author. They have been for years the mainstay of the church, but now they are dropping away. They begin to doubt, and to doubt religion from the skeptical standpoint. What is bringing this about is the fast age, the fashions, the shows and other things that play havoc with the thoughts. It is hard to conceive of a woman dressed in ultra fashion and plunged in the social frolics of the age being a Christian.

"Mr. Johnson says the church will have to depend upon the men in the future. A reaction will soon set in against the social extravagances followed by women. He says:

"I predict that the next generation will see the men closer to the church than they are now and the women just the opposite. The women are going to throw all customs and conventions to the four winds. They are going to attempt to make their revolt complete. It will be social, industrial, moral, in its scope."

"That is a violent prediction and one which hardly admits of being pessimistic is becoming the habit of women. We may be prepared for almost anything."

And the "Chicago Record-Herald" believes that whether woman is agnostic, militant, womanly or New-Womanly, she has "the same right to quote from the editorial in question."

WOMAN "ARRIVED."

That maxim of French politeness of the last century, "Make room for the ladies," is one of which American men have little need to be reminded today. As an admonition it has become practically superfluous. American women no longer need to have the way cleared for them, their interests or their affairs. They have cleared it for themselves, thank you.

As evidence of the fact take the new pages of yesterday's Chicago morning papers. Take those of "The Record-Herald" as most convenient to its readers. Aside from the routine news about parades, money-making and sports, which are still largely masculine concerns, fully half of the space was devoted to women, their interests, their affairs, their achievements.

Of course this is partly due to the fact that a great national convention of the nation's most progressive and active women is in session here, but only partly. The records of that convention and its work are not the only needs of women that are so important and important that they clear their way to preference over deeds of men in the contest for publicity.

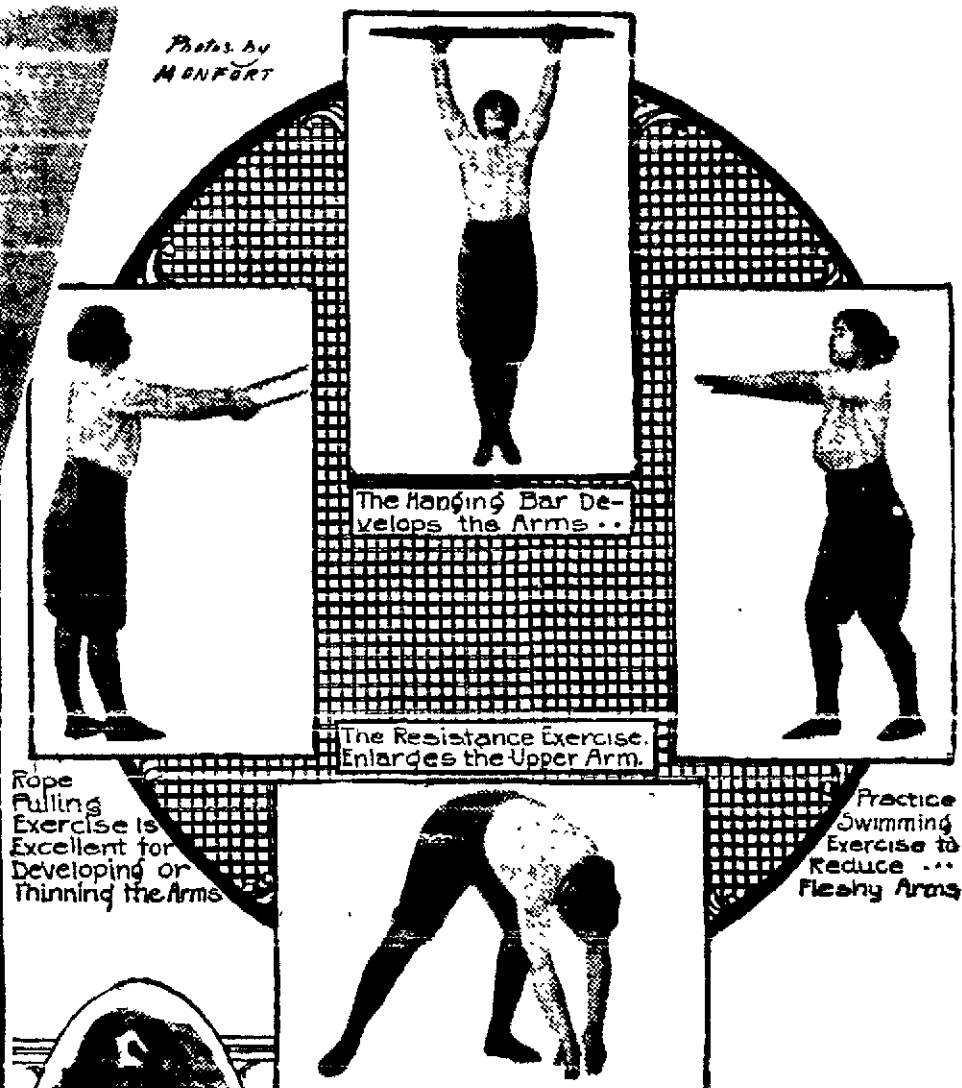

The victory of women in leading a state legislature to reject a bill granting masculine practices inferior to the social values—the claims of women in coming forward as candidates for certain public offices whose male incumbents have made a most sorry mess of their business—these are found on one page.

On another we read how the women of Peasop Massachus have won their way to their hardships for themselves and other noncombatants, and how the Danish parliament is likely to be dissolved because the opponents of the bill to give the women the right to be elected by the upper house without a majority. Then an editorial comment upon the superior common sense of women in their choice of

DARE YOU WEAR your ARMS BARE?

Asks Lillian Russell

To be sure that your arms are presentable, hold them high above your head, clasp your hands, and notice if the flesh is loose and flabby on the underside of the upper arms. If they are firm and smooth you can wear the bare arms successfully. But if the flesh hangs loosely, you cannot wear the sleeveless gown.

arm need not be done with an actual weight in the hands; in fact, it is much better for girls to control the resistance regulating it according to their own individual strength, which varies from day to day. Take a long step forward and bend to the floor, with the hands touching the floor, take a deep breath, clench the fists and pull the arms up, as if lifting a heavy weight, as you lift, carry the weight of the body slowly to the back foot, flexing the back knee; keep the elbows high and twist the fists until the palms are up, elbows back as far as possible; now forcibly expel the breath, at the same time shooting the arms forward and down, bending again to the floor, every muscle relaxed. Repeat three times to the right, and three times to the left; follow by three deep, slow breaths.

There is an important back muscle in the upper arm which is not reached by lifting weights. An eminent piano teacher recommends a movement for this muscle to increase facility in octave playing. Take position with arms front, shoulder high, the backs of the hands together. With a strong tension contract all muscles vigorously, slowly twist the hands around, moving the forearm only; when you come to the point where the hands can go no further, pause a moment; then twist the entire arm as far as possible; come back to position in the same way, twisting first the forearm and then the upper arm. Repeat till tired.

To increase the size of the forearm, open and close the hand rapidly with tension, increasing the number of times daily. Also bend the wrist back and forth as far as it will go being careful not to use too much vigor, as the wrist is delicate and should not be strained. The exercise of clenching and relaxing the fingers, given for development of the forearm, will also develop the strength of the hand.

Swimming exercises for arms: Stand with the feet about eighteen inches apart, shoot the arms directly forward, incline the whole body forward, straighten the left leg and throw the weight on the right, which should be bent. Then sweep the hands and arms outward in a horizontal plane.

Remember: Beauty of the arms includes not only their appearance, but their action.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

MRS. R. G.: There surely must be some cause for your hair turning so dry and losing all life. I would advise you to consult a scalp specialist and find out what is the matter with your hair. One so young as you should not have dry, lifeless, and gray hair. If you wish them I shall gladly send you the tonic and massage if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

MISS G. J.: Here is the formula for a lotion which is used to soften the water for bathing purposes: Five ounces rectified spirits of wine, one ounce of ammonia, and one-half dram oil of verbena. Add a teaspoonful of this lotion to about a basin of water. Where the water is hard or contains a limy deposit, some kind of a softener is almost imperative if one would have a soft, delicate grained skin.

MRS. W. W. W.: The "pitted" condition of your face may only be enlarged pores caused from removing acne. I am sure this can be remedied. I should advise massage with a good skin food and an astringent lotion. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I shall be glad to send you complete instructions for facial massage, formulae for the skin food, and astringent lotion.

MRS. B. C. D.: I am sorry, but I could not possibly give you the information you ask through the columns. Dyes eventually will ruin the hair and I do not advise any one to use them. It makes the hair dry and brittle and causes it to fall. It is almost impossible to keep hair that has been dyed an even color, for the dye will wear off near the roots, leaving hair you will forever be a slave to the shampooing even. I cannot give names of dyes through the columns.

NINE evening dresses out of ten are worn sleeveless. The fad has taken hold of the fashionable world, and with few exceptions it is prevailing. Do you realize then how important is the appearance of the arm and hand? The arm if too thin looks angular, and if it is too fat it looks vulgar. The youthful arm is firm and plump, dimpled at the elbow, and tapered from the shoulder to the wrist, the skin is spotless and of a creamy whiteness. Therefore, to appear in an evening dress of the latest fashion one must have youthful arms.

To begin with, exercise is of the greatest importance. The athletic arm is always firm, the muscles are developed, all fat disappears, and there is no need to fear anything. Fasten a piece of rope on the wall anywhere, and then pull that rope as hard as you can, bracing your body firmly so that all the strain is on the arms. A circular rope is best, with a pad at the pulling side, which prevents the hands from becoming blistered. This exercise is excellent for the whole body, but especially fine for developing or thinning the arms.

When the arms are exposed from shoulder to finger tips, one should be as careful of their appearance as of the appearance of the face. They should be carefully bathed in hot water and cleansed properly, then bathed in cold water in which a little tincture of benzoin has been dashed. That solution hardens the flesh. In using powder upon the arms one should be careful, because nothing looks so careless and vulgar as made up arms, especially when the greatest part of the make-up is left upon the coat sleeves and shoulders of the dancing partner. Many a beautiful girl has been blamed unmercifully by her ardent admirers for being whitened upon her arms at a dance.

If the arms are to be truly beautiful they should never be rough or too hairy. Rough arms indicate a coarse skin, neglected. Cold cream should be rubbed on the arms at night before retiring, as carefully as it should be rubbed upon the face, and for the same purpose, to smooth and beautify the skin. When the arms are too hairy a depilatory may be used carefully with success. To be sure that your arms are presentable hold them high above your head, clasp your hands, and notice if the flesh is loose and flabby on the underside of the upper arms. If they are firm and smooth you can wear the bare arms successfully. But if the flesh hangs loosely you cannot wear the sleeveless gown.

If your arms are a little thin a white tulle scarf gives a soft and round appearance to them. If they are a little over plump a black tulle scarf will give a thinner appearance to them. Above all, do not cover your arms with bracelets, anything around the wrists destroys the symmetry of their beauty. In beautifying your arms do not forget your hands, they must be a fitting finish to a perfect arm. The line should taper from the shoulder to the tips of the finger nails.

At all times the position of the arms is most important. They are beautiful when held behind your back as low down as possible. All motions of the arms should be round, no angles are beautiful. Arm exercises of the Delorme school give grace to all movement. The wrist should be loose, and the fingers closed, never sprawling.

In the muscular development of the arms girls are much inferior to boys. Nearly any boy can pull himself up by a bar till his chin touches his feet, but few girls are able to accomplish this feat. There is a close connection between the arms and the muscles of the front and back of the trunk that any exercise that develops the arms will also develop these upper trunk muscles.

A splendid resistance exercise for the arms, which should be taken slowly, is as follows: With arms at side inhale deeply, clench the fists, flex the elbows, bring fists to shoulder, moving the lower arm only, and resisting the movement partly. Now, with fists shoulder high and held there, bring elbows slowly out and up to shoulder level; the third part of the movement is to carry the fists close under the armpits and back as far as possible. Then lower them easily to the sides. Every part of the exercise includes resistance.

WHEREWITH shall we be clothed in hot weather? It is a question that every one must answer well or ill. There is no shirking the responsibility. If we would live happily in this climate, we must ponder over the dress problem. There may be those who advocate, seriously, not humorously, the adoption of a uniform fashion, but they do not go so far as to advise the same one for summer as for winter. We live in a country of extremes, or as Thackeray put it: "It is a country where blizzards of cold are followed by blizzards of heat."

It must be properly clothed for both extremes, and that alone taxes the American woman more than the women of other countries can understand. Again our chances are not permanent. The gown which served well on Monday is an agony to the flesh on Saturday. We suffer at the touch of fabric on Wednesday, and cry loudly for a cape on Thursday.

These other women need only a few slight changes of apparel for the larger part of the year. The Americans must have at least a half-dozen for each season. Here is where much of the high cost of dressing oneself comes in. One frock or suit or wrap won't serve for three or four months.

It is with men as with women. The immense amount of money that goes out every year into the clothing business is spent by the women. Men are not as extravagant by half as they were in the days when they prided themselves upon brilliant plumage, but considering how much and unattractive is their apparel it is always an astonishing fact that they spend as much as they do.

The reason the summer exhausts the wardrobe is that one needs a vast number of changes not only because the weather changes from the heat to chilliness, but because the heat is so de-frock longer than a day. A woman is lucky if she comes home with half the gown after a strenuous evening of maxixe and one-step. It is a pity that the tango is so much into fashion over here, for it would have cut a woman's dress outlay in half.

The dressmakers, by the way, say their workers are exhausted repairing the ravages made on a frock by dancing one evening. It is necessary, they maintain, to put the gown into condition after the first or second dance, because the wearer always contends the dressmaker has made some mistake in the lining or the drapery, or the gown would not tear as it has, and this goes on all the season.

There are other tales which are not so creditable, but which the dressmakers are quite willing to tell. One of them is that women have a gown sent home on approval return the next morning saying it does not fit, and it bears plainly the marks of dancing. Not pleasant, is it? It is a common experience among women to make believe to themselves that they can shave down the number of summer clothes they usually have, and counting on it not being very hot, go on buying that spring suit. This belief, mind you, coming when the first warm winds and cool nights of early spring, make the spring suit comfortable.

It is so easy to reckon on a cool summer and an economical purse when the thermometer is pointing to temperate heat. Then how one's well-formed opinions dissipate with the starch in our clothes, and how frantically we rush to the most convenient shop and order the gown that is within the price we set. Is the color we like, and has a stylish cut, is alluring, but every woman will tell you that satisfactory clothes are not bought in that way. When the time for alteration comes, the trouble begins unless we have it done by an expert, and even then it is not necessary.

The then of most women's minds is a gown. No one denies that. It has probably raised the standard of good dressing a hundred fold and saved women thousands of dollars. There is a saying in the motto with the shop: the trouble in the wardrobe is that few women can dress. It is with a woman like a dog's nose, that she knows what it goes for.

or rather it is the necessary adjunct to one, for one cannot depend on an attenuated wardrobe like one suit in summer. We each and all know the trouble about them. It will wrinkle like a dog's nose, that she knows what it goes for.

the rare and trained mind can succeed under such conditions and this type of mind usually recognizes the danger too well to yield to it.

The shops offer wonderful bargains at this time of the year and the woman who is in touch with them and who does not have "a love of a seamstress" and plenty of time, will find life made much easier by taking advantage by what they offer. But not under pressure.

Surely there are days when the hours are not crushed together like so many leaves and when one's mind is free to determine on what is best as befits the purse and the figure, for one considers that far more these days than the face. One looks now at the waist drapery where one used to look at the color under the chin.

WHAT TO BUY FOR HOT WEATHER.

The American long ago found the qualities of linen, and since then this cool, airy, and comfortable fabric has been placed annually in the wardrobe of women, if not of men. The latter consent to wear it in the tropics, but refuse to stand the expense of it in the city. In the far south, where laundry is reasonable, one sees more of it than elsewhere in America, but the men of other parts of the country cling to woolen suits no matter if the thermometer registers ninety degrees.

Men are far more given to tradition than women are, and it would be a brave man who would be seen on the streets of a large city wearing white linen or pongee. No one would think of breaking their unwritten tradition concerning the first appearance of a straw hat.

How they stand the heat in the clothes they insist upon wearing is neither here nor there in this story of hot weather raiment. The question is: What is best for women to wear?

First, a suit of linen or pongee is such a happy choice that no woman should or rather it is the necessary adjunct to one, for one cannot depend on an attenuated wardrobe like one suit in summer. We each and all know the trouble about them. It will wrinkle like a dog's nose, that she knows what it goes for.

Selecting Garments Within Set Price One of Problems Confronting Women of Today.

Feeling of coolness in broiling sun or humid haze that no other material, except Shantung, can give.

The reason that women prefer the Chinese silk to linen is its reliability under adverse circumstances. It keeps a smooth surface, no matter what is brought up

There are too many designs from which to choose, and too wide a diversity in figures for a stranger to advise any one kind, but it is wise to remember that few of the present styles offered in bulk have much chance of lasting very long, and none are to be reckoned with as available for next summer.

Fortunately, the theory that a gown bought in the latest style had any chance of being worn the next season is a dissipated by experience. One is lucky if the style lasts for three months. There is no wisdom in buying on the theory that one is impervious to quick changes. We are all human and we are more or less distressed if the world swings away from the things we possess.

So, when choosing a suit of linen or Shantung, come as near a short coat and a skirt with a long single tunic as your figure will allow. If the three tunics that drop downward in the back, which assist in making up one of the most popular models of the summer, are becoming to you, buy that skirt. It is in good taste.

The short coat is still the fashion, although the lengthening of the waist is going on all around us. This kind of jacket is entirely suitable for summer and the fashion will last as long as the heated season. The fronts are crossed in some fashion, usually with two buttons, or they go around to the back and form a kind of girdle.

Don't touch up such a suit with color. Let others buy the red and stripe collars and girdles. You keep your suit white or cream or pale tan, the natural color of Shantung. In linen, have the bleached weave. The unbleached threads are unbecoming to the majority. If you yearn for color, put it in the shirtwaist. Fashion has given us the gayest colors in the spectrum to play with in blouses.

Sealing wax red, the orange of a Turner sunset and Irish green are some of the subdued tints that wash fabrics come in for the making of waists to wear with colorless suits. A watermelon pink linen makes an attractive combination.

DRESSING CHILDREN'S HAIR AN ART

HAIR dressing for the little girl between the ages of four and fourteen has become an art. Tightly plastered locks and starched pig-tails belong to the child of the past. Miss Up-to-Date, with clean complexion and rosy cheeks, has her face set in the softest frame of fluffy tresses, and her mother has no small task to keep them light and glossy.

In the first place the care of the hair itself has developed into a duty of no small magnitude. When a child's scalp is healthy, the hair should be washed once a week with pure castile soap and lukewarm water. This gives it a loose, fluffy look that is so essential. The best and quickest method of shampooing is to shave a small piece of the soap into very hot water and allow it to become thoroughly dissolved. Temper the water gradually until it does not burn the back of the wrist. Then, with the aid of a soft nail brush, which is kept expressly for the purpose, it is only a matter of five or ten minutes' work for a mother to cleanse the scalp and hair.

Whatever the age of the child, this simple shampoo is most effective. Care should be taken, however, that the hair and scalp are thoroughly dried, using plenty of dry towels and fanning vigorously at the end. To prevent any danger of colds, many mothers wash a child's head just before putting her to bed.

Should the scalp show any signs of dandruff or if it is naturally dry, a reliable tonic should be applied regularly and the weekly shampoo continued as above. Borax of ammonia should be diligently avoided in these frequent washings if the hair is to be permitted to grow long and luxuriant, as they dry out all natural secretions.

As patent as this shampooing process may seem, it is unquestionably the secret of the extremely pretty hair of the little girl of today and lays the foundation for beautiful silken tresses when she grows to womanhood.

In the matter of the daily dressing of the hair, mothers have no end of little girl coiffures from which to choose. For the child with perfectly straight locks, the Russian style, cut short and bobbing around the ears and neck, has long been a genera favorite. Practical and comfortable as it unquestionably is, the one objection to it is the extremely boyish look which it gives.

The latter is relieved somewhat by a slight pompadour effected by parting the hair on either side of the head at the front and tying the intervening locks at the left of the head. Or for the very young child, the hair is parted on a perfectly straight line with the nose. Several strands on either side of the forehead are caught each in a small bunchy bow of soft ribbon. This style of hair dressing is becoming only to a child with rather low brow.

The particular charm in either of these rather severe styles lies in the freshness and brightness of the bow or bows that set them off. The modern little girl has to have hair ribbons galore and a with a coat and skirt of natural tinted Shantung.

The easiest and simplest word to use for all these dead tones is "parchment." It exactly describes the tone of many of the new materials intended for summer use.

Chinese Crepes Are Cool and Comfortable.

Women have found out that cotton crepes are not cool in service, no matter how they appear. The shops are full of them, and they serve well for a moderate day, but when real heat or any humidity starts in, it is better to avoid muslin with starch, or cotton crepe without it.

The Chinese have the science of dressing for such weather. Their expert fit every year, and they cannot escape it, so they fashion their clothes of the materials that stand it best.

One of these is that quality of crepe which we call crepe de chine. It is deliciously cool to the eye and the touch, and it deflects the rays of the hottest sun. It comes plain and with a printed figure, and one can take one's choice for a frock. It will serve for a suit, but it is better to let the other fabrics do duty there.

An everyday frock of this crepe de chine, either in white or a dark color, can be simply made and touched off with organdie, the fashionable fabric of the hour. In deep blue it serves for morning and afternoon.

One had better take advantage of the style for loose bodices while it lasts and use these materials which cannot be made otherwise. Chinese silk is good for a gown that makes no pretensions and takes the place of muslin for the morning hours. Foulard has had no return to fashion this season, although there are many well-dressed women who will always wear it on hot days.

The hot suns have brought about the fashion for larger hats. The small ones are still in the ascendancy, and the bravado of them, makes the flat garden hat appear old-Victorian. But women like it, and it certainly coincides with the ruffled skirts and tight bodices that we see gaining ground every week.

WAISTCOAT IS SMART AND POPULAR

and fly in untidy fashion in front of the eyes.

The child with a very high forehead should have it concealed by bangs, which are again returning to favor. They are cut with a horse-shoe curve that slopes up on either side. If the bangs are short, the hair behind the crosswise part is puffed up underneath to relieve a flat look on top of the head. If the head has quite a decided bump on top, the part is made well back, thus effecting a very long bang.

A last and important point about children's hair is that the very short locks at the side of the ears should be trained to grow up. If a mother is troubled with their fringing down on the cheek, they should be soaped in place each night. In a few months' time they will stay in place of themselves.

Plain Talk to the Greeters

The Greeters of America paid a visit to the Italian-Swiss colony in San Dimas county last Sunday. The Greeters is an organization of business managers and assistant managers of the hotels and the tourist states. They visited San Francisco en masse, following their annual convention in Los Angeles, and the trip to Asti was part of the entertainment provided for them in this part of the state. They went to the beautiful colony by special train and lunched at the Sbarboro villa. There were speeches during luncheon, and one of them was made by Mr. J. Pontieri, owner of the villa. Mr. Pontieri is a big man in our community. He has been long in the state, chief among them being the Italian-Swiss colony, the California Wine Association, the California Fruit Cannery's Association and the Italian-American Bank. I mention these interests so that my readers of M. F. Fontana, for he is not the sort of man who seeks the public prints or takes any other steps to impress people with his importance. He is a modest and genial old gentleman, is M. J. Fontana, a man not given to speechmaking at banquets. However, he made a little speech at the Asti luncheon. He talked very plainly, very bluntly, in fact, when he arose to greet the Greeters. It would be too bad if daily papers did not record what he said, so it is my pleasure to supply the omission.

M. J. Fontana had fire in his eye when he talked. It was the fire of indignation kindled by the attempt of the Prohibitionists to make California dry. He told the Greeters that the Italian-Swiss colony, where wine is made, has one of the best attended churches in Sonoma county. He told them that intemperance was unknown in the colony. He told them that it was the abode of peace, contentment and happiness. And then he had something to say about personal liberty and about the men who spend their lives in the pernicious attempt to infringe upon the sacred rights of others.

"The three states which have done the most mischief in so far as personal liberty is concerned," said M. J. Fontana, "are Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska."

"Don't include Nebraska in that category," interrupted a Greeter from Nebraska.

"I only include Nebraska on account of William J. Bryan," replied Fontana.

"Please acquit us of any responsibility for Bryan," returned the Greeter from Nebraska.

Bryan is best known, he is least liked, and hasn't been elected to any office. He hasn't elected any candidate to any office for years."

"I do not care what your politics may be," continued Fontana, "but I wish to say that conditions are becoming worse and worse on account of the narrow-minded bigoted intolerant Bryan and his little dog Wilson."

And M. J. Fontana sat down amid great applause.—Town Talk.

Escargots a la Hanlon

When Attorney Charles F. Hanlon's stenographer entered his private office two mornings ago she took one look about her, shrugged, and fainted. She was just recovering consciousness when Chief Clerk Cousins made his appearance. Cousins looked around the room, but did not shrink or faint, as he is undemonstrative by nature. But he became very pale, and followed the stenographer out of the room in something like a panic attack. In the outer office the two held a consultation.

"What can they be?" quavered the stenographer.

"I have no idea," said Cousins, "but I suppose we had better add and out."

So the two summoned all their courage and returned to the inner office. It is a sumptuous office. There are desks, sofas and chairs of mahogany. Bookcases of mahogany filled with de luxe editions line the walls. Above them are oil paintings and autographed photographs, mostly of celebrated stars of the stage. But the blank spaces of the walls were covered with little black crawling things. There were little black crawling things on the desks, on the sofas and on the chairs. In fact, the little black crawling things were everywhere; there were hundreds of them in possession of Charlie Hanlon's inner office. The stenographer, very pale, looked at Cousins, also very pale. The boys looked at the little black things shuddered and hurried out of the room again. In the outer office they waited for Hanlon. When he arrived their appearance told him that something was wrong.

"What's the matter?" he said.

In silence Cousins and the stenographer led the lawyer into his sanctum.

"Oh," said Hanlon easily, "these blamé snails have escaped from their box. We've got to nut 'em back."

It seems that a Los Angeles friend had sent Hanlon a box of escargots or blamé snails, and he had left them in the office overnight, intending to give his friends at the Press Club an epicurean treat the following day. They had escaped from the box and had taken possession of the room. It was an hour before they had all been impounded.

"Do you mean to say that people eat them?" asked Cousins.

"Certainly," answered Hanlon. "I've seen pictures."

Amenities of an Interview

Peters, his fame as a movie star not having preceded him to this region. Peters spoke with a very broad accent, and it meant something of his personal history. Miss Treawell asked:

"You are an Englishman, Mr. Peters?"

"Yeh, no," returned Peters, with the same sort of mixture of being surprised and being scornful.

Miss Treawell regarded him for a moment.

"Please do not misunderstand me," she said. "You know, these are the days of a number of Americans who pretend to be English."

"Yeh as well as yeh do," returned Peters.

ARE THESE OUR GREAT—GREAT— GREAT— To THE Nth POWER GRAND FATHERS?

A N artist and an anthropologist walking in the footsteps of Darwin have just given the human race a chance to realize pictorially the advance of man through the ages, from the tree-climbing ape through the dark and silent centuries to the dawn of history. These busts, which the two men have presented to the Belgian academy, are the work of the two men.

serious and trustworthy attempts to model actual representations in accordance with the fragments of prehistoric man found in different parts of Europe.

To get the greatest amount of actuality and truth, M. Rutot and his artist friend, M. Louis Mascré, began by reconstructing the skulls of these million year old ancestors of ours, then the muscles of the face and arms were added, according to the established laws of anatomy. It then remained only to cover the skeleton with flesh and hair, and to give to their features such expressions as the culture or occupation of their age would warrant. In addition, M. Rutot has as often as possible put in their hands the implements which have been found with the bones, indicating the work of the period, and so the state of civilization.

The faces are none too bright or gay, but in those far off days, when ideas came slowly if at all, would the features express anything but the preoccupation of an animal existence?

The first bust represents the first man of whom anything is known. His features are indubitably apelike, and he is of the pretertiary period, when man ceased to live exclusively in trees, but was beginning to find occupation and sustenance in the fields. It is the time of the half human, half simian creature which is just beginning to walk upright, but without a trace of conscious thought on the mask of a face.

The second bust is of the quaternary period, and shows the first carnivorous man. This bust was reconstructed from the fossil skull discovered by Menier at Heidelberg. With his prowess and cunning at catching the wild animals has come the suspicion of triumph into his face—a sort of lighting up, which relieves it from the deadness of the first race.

The First Thinking Man.

The third figure is, according to M. Rutot, the first representative of the thinking man—the brute in whom instinct to reason and direct his operations is becoming apparent. He is already proficient in fashioning instruments for defense. Around his neck, held in place by a vine cord, is a stone, which was the beginning of ornamentation and showed prestige and authority. From this early beginning came the necklaces of polished stones, later of ivory, and today of pearls.

The fourth example is the short-headed man of the late quaternary period, and he shows a remarkable advance owing to the fusion of an outside race.

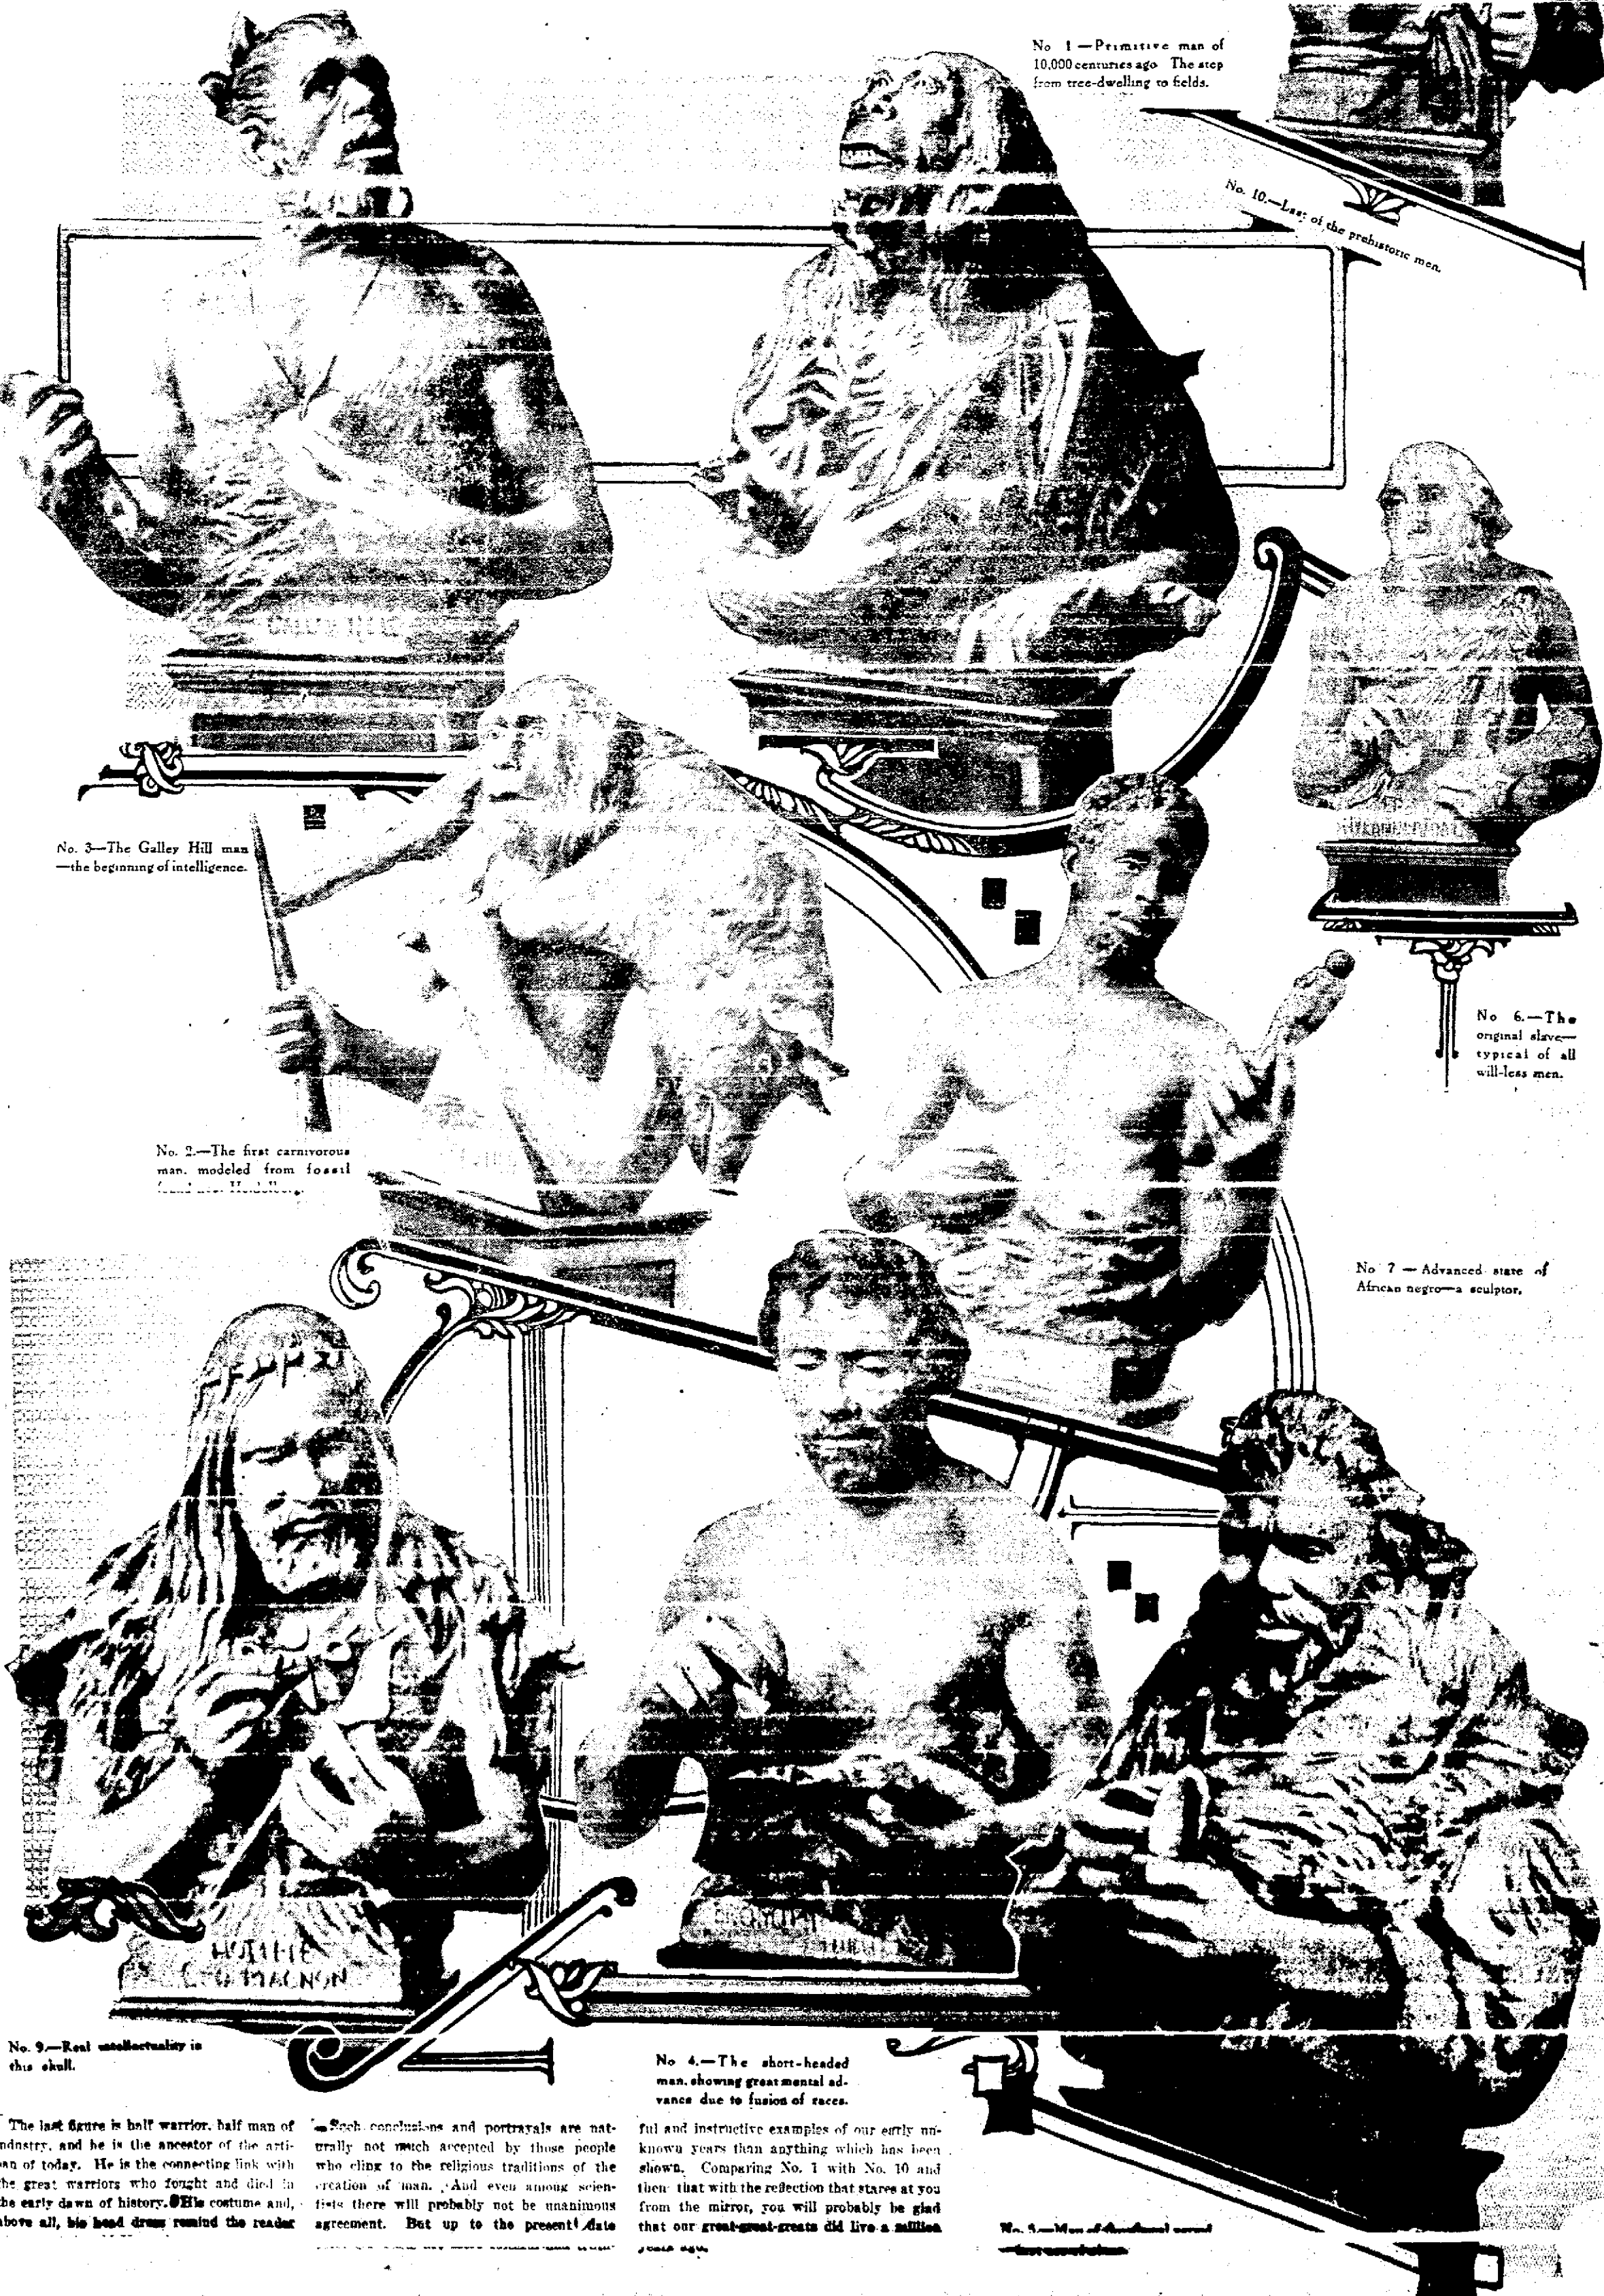

The fifth man, dating from the mousterian era, is the first to wear skins. He evidently belongs to the glacial period, and the string of shells around his head is the primitive beginning of crowns and diadems.

With No. 6, the man of Neanderthal, comes retrogression. This man's features are not much in advance of the early tree dweller. He is representative of slavery, and shows in features and expression that he is the dog of the thinking man. And yet the expression of his lips would seem to indicate that he is trying to fashion the half articulate words which he has heard his masters use. He is in many cases a cave-man, driven into the caves in a vain attempt to free himself from the domination of his master.

No. 7 and No. 8 show the early intrusion of negroid types, remnants of which have been found in lower Austria and on the Riviera. How is it that these types, which are so distinctly separate from European types, could be found with them, and yet no more decisive traces left on our civilization? Science explains this by the numerous upheavals of our planet, and says that the negroes were in lower Europe at the time that Sicily was a part of Italy, and there was no outlet at Gibraltar, and the Mediterranean only an inland sea. Both of these types show refinements that were slower in coming into European culture. They are both ornamented with bracelets and head dresses, and the man holds in his hands one of the most finished bits of sculpture of this early period, showing that the knowledge of the craft and of its implements was far advanced.

The Beginning of History.

With the busts of 9 and 10 we touch the borders of the prehistoric. In figure 9 the splendid proportions of the skull presuppose a real intellectuality. According to the debris found in the caves of Périgord, these men possessed great skill in painting and engraving. Their implements of the chase and of warfare were skillfully finished, so much so, indeed, that they were able effectively to chase from their midst the negroes who were rivals in art. This bust shows the art of sewing. Evidently a crude sort of needle has been introduced into the making of the fur

MINNERS ANGEL CHILD

MAY RECOVER COIN FROM MINER

Paper of Defunct California Safe Deposit Company Suit Basis.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—John Treadwell, former millionaire mining man who, with his brother James, fathered the famous Treadwell mines in Alaska, has been served in New York with papers in a $2,000,000 damage suit filed against him by Frank J. Symmes, receiver for the California Safe Deposit and Trust

Treadwell has been making his home in Europe ever since the failure of the California Safe Deposit and Trust Company in 1907. He has made several trips to New York, and it was on learning of his habit of going there that Symmes decided to take advantage of his presence and attempt to recover damages.

Despite the fact that the responsibility for the wrecking of the financial institution was placed squarely upon the shoulders of President Walker and J. Dalzell Brown and Walter J. Barnett, of the board of directors, there was no opportunity to bring legal actions against them. All were held criminally responsible and were arrested, but none of them could be touched in the civil courts. With John Treadwell, however, the situation was different. He endorsed notes and stood as guarantor for paper representing nearly $2,000,000 of the bank's assets. The money was used in the following companies: The San Francisco and San Joaquin Coal Company, the Carnegie Brick and Pottery Company, the El Dorado Lumber Company, the Trinity Bonanza King Mining Company and the Trinity Bonanza King Power Company.

All of these corporations are either insolvent or are now going through the bankruptcy court. James Treadwell has also passed through bankruptcy and is believed to have recovered but little of his fortune. John Treadwell, on the other hand, is reputed to have built up another fortune and to be a man of considerable means. Whether or not Symmes will be able to recover some of this money for the depositors is a question which will be of supreme interest to the 12,000 men, women and children who lost their money when the big bank closed its doors.

Attorneys de Laveaga and Magee are representing Symmes in the action. F. D. Magee said tonight that he did not know what the outcome would be.

"We are hopeful certainly of recovering some money from Treadwell, but how much I do not dare to say. Mr. Symmes heard that he made frequent trips to New York and I understand that he has succeeded in serving him with the papers."

J. Dalzell Brown was the only one of the directors to serve a term in prison. He received a sentence of eighteen months in San Quentin after pleading guilty at the hands of Judge Connelley of Madera. Subsequently he went into business in Los Angeles, and is now in London. He is reputed to be very wealthy, but the bank holds none of his paper.

Walter J. Barnett is in New York, and President Walker died several years ago.

STANFORD REAL MOVIE PIONEER

College Founder Spent Fortune in Experiments, Lecturer Asserts.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, June 20.—Leland Stanford spent over $50,000 in the development of the motion picture and was the pioneer in its development, according to Harry C. Peterson, curator of the Stanford museum, in an address before the California Library Association in San Diego yesterday. Here are some quotations from his talks:

"The first motion pictures were taken to show the action of a horse's legs when running or trotting over thirty years ago. Twenty-four cameras were set in a row and strings attached to the shutters were stretched across the track.

As the horse ran over the track he broke each string, causing the shutter of each camera to open and close. It was from that beginning that the great motion picture industry of today started. It is interesting to note that the same shutter used long ago is still used on motion picture cameras. After all experiments of later days, a better one has not been found.

Six billion dollars were expended last year by the people of America for the privilege of watching the movie plays and nearly 22,000 miles of film were printed in the United States. To such enormous proportions has the industry grown that one film lately enlarged its plant and is now prepared to turn out 7,200,000 feet of film every six days. Nearly 100,000 people are employed in the industry. One hundred plays are produced and released for us every month."

SAVE, NOT RESTORE. He spoke to the librarians in the interest of the Landmark League: "It would cost in the neighborhood of $5,000,000 to restore the missions, but it will cost only $500,000 to preserve them," he said.

"Missions are an asset to all California. They are the only link between the easterners and the west. We are trying to get motion picture producers to produce more plays in which missions will figure as a background. The producers are willing, but the plays are hard to obtain. They should be worked out so as to have a certain amount of historic interest.

"I have made a careful study of the subject and I find that tourists want to see the missions in photo-plays and we want also your support in the preservation of the crumbling

Will Wed Today Plans Honeymoon

MISS KATHERINE MILLER.

Miss Katherine Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Miller of Rosal avenue, and John A. Freitas of this city will be married at noon today in St. Francis de Sales Church. Rev. Father Murray will officiate at the ceremony. Only the members of the immediate family will attend.

Both the bride-elect and the bridegroom have resided here a number of years and have many friends in the district.

The announcement of the wedding has come as a surprise and the young couple have received numerous gifts and congratulatory messages.

Immediately after the wedding, they will leave for Sacramento, where they will pass their honeymoon. Upon their return they will make their home in Oakland.

STEEL BUYING IS MARKET FEATURE

Few Price Changes at Closing of the New York Exchange.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The close of the market today found practically no price changes from the figures at last week's closing, the average closing price today of twenty-five normal railroad stocks being the same as on last Saturday.

Good buying of steel common today was the most important feature of a week of dullness. The market marked time, pending announcement from the interstate commerce commission of the rate decision and some decided turn in the Mexican mediation process.

The undertone, however, was good and the tone of the market particularly optimistic toward the close today. Announcement at Washington that President Wilson wishes to push through legislation was about what was expected, and already had been discounted as a speculative factor.

While no pronounced improvement in market conditions is expected within the near future, the general dullness this week was due largely to the failure of the rate decision to arrive.

WHEAT IN SLUMP; CLOSING IS LOW

Chicago Exchange Sees Steady Drop in Prices During Week.

CHICAGO, June 20.—Wheat slumped gradually all week, and the close today found July 2c and September 1 1/2c under last week's closing price. Reports from the Oklahoma and Kansas fields that the crop being harvested is holding up to expectations induced selling. The knowledge that Europe will demand large supplies of wheat from this country in the coming year is checking the downward tendency to a considerable extent.

Corn moved in a narrow range all week, closing today a shade to 3/4c lower than last Saturday. Estimates that the reserves now in the hands of the farmers are extremely small helped the bulls. The action of James A. Patten in selling 300,000 bushels on Thursday inspired the principal decline.

Oats, too, moved in a narrow range. Heaviness in the other grains offset reports of damage to the growing crop and the close today found July 3/4c under last week's close and September 3/4c above.

Provisions were but little affected by the week's trading. Generally provisions futures advanced 5c to 12c during the week the only exception being July pork. The price for July pork was merely nominal, but was lower than in last week's trading.

CHECK PASSER IS TRAILED IN HOUR

Fugitive Gets From Merced to Turlock Before Law Catches Up.

MERCED, June 20.—One hour after he had passed a worthless check for $45 here, W. H. White, alias L. R. Johnson, was arrested at Turlock and was returned to Merced by Sheriff T. A. Mack and Deputy Wilmer Cornell.

White appropriated the name of L. R. Johnson, county auditor, in signing a worthless check which he gave S. Hartman & Son in payment for $35 worth of clothing, receiving $6 in change. White previously had deposited two checks, one for $190 and one for $60 in the Merced Security Savings Bank, for collection. One check purported to have been issued by the California State Bank of the John Gamble, a Merced rancher. Both checks, upon inquiry by telephone, were found to be forgeries.

After passing the check at Hartman's, White boarded a train with a ticket to Sacramento. Sheriff Mack notified the Turlock officers and White was taken from the train there.

PASTORS SHOULD SHOOT STRAIGHT

Learn From Sailors in Navy, Is Bishop's Advice to Them.

SACRAMENTO, June 20.—Ministers should learn a lesson from the achievements of the American navy, the members of which "always hit the mark," said Bishop William M. Bell of Los Angeles, at the session of the California Conference Church of the United Brethren in Christ.

The bishop declared many ministers were failures in that they failed to "hit" their parishes, talking either above or below the heads of their congregations.

MUST BLAME THEMSELVES. Speaking of men who fall in life, the bishop declared they had only themselves to blame. There is no power outside the man, he stated.

He advised that men secure an intelligent understanding of their own environments and to study each other from a psychological standpoint.

The annual report of Conference Superintendent H. H. Haller was read, as were also reports from pastors.

Tonight's session will be devoted to a discussion of home missions.

"LOCAL 507" IS STRONG UNION ORGANIZATION

Local 507, Steam and Operating Engineers, which this week entertained Congressman Joseph E. Knowland at its banquet and unanimously endorsed his candidacy for the United States Senate, is known in union circles as Local 507.

By a typographical error it was mentioned as Local 509 in a recent account of its social affair. The union is one of the strongest steam engineers' organizations about the bay, although comparatively new, having been established only two years.

Wouldn't you like to drop business affairs for just one afternoon and steal away with the kiddies for a good, old-fashioned country picnic?

Wouldn't you like to forget that there are such things as household cares, and rest drowsily under a spreading tree with the merry voices of the children ringing in your ears as they disport themselves near at hand?

Perhaps you have not had time for a summer vacation yet, and perhaps you haven't decided just where you will go or for how long you can be absent. Maybe you feel that the country is too far away and that you can't spare the time. Why not make up your mind now to take a half holiday on June 30th and spend it at Idora Park with the merry throng that will take part in a memorable picnic there? It will be TRIBUNE DAY and it will be well worth while.

Idora is not like the ordinary, base amusement park. There is no touch of nature to offset the brilliant glare and raucous cacophony of closely-packed concessions. There are stretches of greenward, there are nooks of forest and boscage, there are flowers in profusion. It is a bit of rus in urbe, and yet it offers all the modern attractions for a frolic. No better place can be found for a day of fun for the kiddies.

June 30th has been selected by THE TRIBUNE as the day on which it will play host to all of its readers and hold open house at Idora Park.

Girl Is a Prodigy Graduates at 11

MISS CLEMENTINA WEBB.

Miss Clementina Webb, daughter of Mr. Edmund Webb of 318 Twenty-first street, graduated from the Durant School of this city, the youngest of a large class. Clementine is only 11 years old. A native of Buffalo, N. Y., she has lived there all her life, until coming to Oakland with her parents last fall.

She has never had a coach, nor does she devote much time to study outside of regular school hours. Her skill with the needle is evidenced in her graduating dress, in which her picture was taken, and every stitch of which was made by herself, under the supervision of the domestic science teacher of the Durant School.

Until entering the Durant School, Clementine was a pupil of the "Holy Angels" School of Berkeley, where she began in the kindergarten class before the age of 4 years.

With Clementine in the graduating class was her sister Isabelle, not yet 13. The two children are nieces of Father Charles Webb of Tewksbury, Massachusetts.

NEWLYWEDS TO RESIDE IN OAKLAND ON RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Ismert (Miss Anna Hogan, now on their honeymoon, following a pretty home wedding Wednesday night, will soon return to make their home in Oakland, according to news received yesterday by their friends. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, at 1570 Ninth street, Rev. Father Barry officiating. The bride was attended by Miss Madeline Holtz and her brother, Sylvester Hogan, gave her away. Elywin Mullally was ring bearer. Frank Ramos acted as best man.

PANTHER TRACKS WOMAN AND CUB

Killing Young Beast, She Is Compelled to Seek Shelter.

BLOCKSBURG, Cal. June 20.—Had a motion picture camera been available, Mrs. J. E. Heston of Larabee Valley would have last week become the heroine of a "thriller" which would have made the manufacturers of pictured melodrama turn green with envy. The cast for the unrecorded drama was composed of Mrs. Heston, a dead panther cub and the latter's mother, very much alive.

During the early part of the week Mrs. Heston's husband left for a trip into the southern part of the county, and Mrs. Heston was left to guard the flock of goats. On the three nights following the departure of the husband the flock was attacked and several of the goats killed.

AND GOT RESULTS. doing the damage, Mrs. Heston placed a number of traps and awaited results. On the day following she arose early, and was making the round of the traps when, to her intense surprise, she discovered that a yearling panther had been trapped during the night.

Mrs. Heston shot at the animal with the 22-caliber rifle she carried and wounded the panther. The pain of the wound caused the panther to struggle, and it managed to extricate itself from the trap.

Several shots, however, prevented it from fleeing far. After having assured herself that the animal was dead, Mrs. Heston threw the body over her shoulder and started for home.

She had proceeded only a short distance when, glancing backward, she discovered that she was followed by a huge female panther, the mother of the cub. The panther was quietly creeping up toward Mrs. Heston, its teeth shining fiercely.

Mrs. Heston immediately dropped the cub and ran at top speed toward her father's place, two and one-half miles distant. The panther did not follow, remaining with its cub. When Mrs. Heston, accompanied by her father, returned to the scene, the body of the cub remained where it had been dropped, but the mother panther was nowhere to be seen.

LOS ANGELES FACING DEATH THROUGH BANDIT

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—That two Los Angeles missionaries, one of them a young girl, are at missions in Kan-Su province, China, the death district now menaced by White Wolf, the Chinese bandit who has slaughtered thousands of men, women and children, was the news made public today by members of the Los Angeles Bible Institute.

Miss Edna Alger, 24, the first Los Angeles girl to enter the Chinese field four years ago, is at the Shuntou mission, directly in the path of White Wolf and his band of brigands.

Hans von Kitzling, who left Los Angeles only eighteen months ago, is now fleeing from the Sho-Ho-Dun mission in the Kan-Su district, which he left when White Wolf and band were but two miles from the mission gates.

FEAR FOUL PLAY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—The police are searching for Walter Starr, who may have met with foul play on the San Francisco coast. He is employed by Gus Goldstone at 38 Third street, and was given $50 to go to the bank and get change. He has not been seen since.

Knowland, of California, who has represented the California District in Congress for years, and who has during his career in the House of Representatives always shown himself a friend of the Grand Army of the Republic, and the Spanish war veterans, has secured his candidacy for the Republic of California to succeed a senator who is not a candidate for re-election and whose term expires in 1915."

CHARLES A. STRONG WHO IS CANDIDATE FOR ASSEMBLY FROM THIRTY-SEVENTH DISTRICT.

Charles A. Strong, candidate for the Republican nomination for assemblyman from the thirty-seventh district, has lived in that district since the close of the Spanish-American war, in which he served with the Minnesota volunteers. He is a resident of Piedmont, and for a number of years was city justice of that city. He is a practicing attorney and is a member of the Bar association. He is also a member of the Commonwealth club and has written a number of papers for that organization. He is now acting on its committee on delinquency, engaged in making a study of county jail conditions and the treatment of adult misdemeanants with particular reference to providing outdoor employment for prisoners.

Strong said: "The legislative mill grinds out considered and poorly drawn laws on every possible subject, until the country is hampered by a mass of inconsistent laws, under which an army of ineffectual officials, many of whom are appointed without regard to training or efficiency, are let loose after the manner of grasshoppers to devour the harvests of industry."

He said that he could carry on an enterprise without coming in conflict with some of the new and badly framed laws adopted at the behest of theorists utterly ignorant of the business with which they are interfering. Men who have failed in other undertakings are frequently put in office to supervise those who have built up large and successful enterprises by real ability, skill, industry and integrity. I am for progress but am unable to see that legislation which results in making the road which men of enterprise energy and means have to travel as rocky as possible, causing them to retrench, if not entirely to go in the line of progress. One of the most serious consequences of such legislation is the attack upon the payroll, because in every enterprise where labor is employed the first step in retrenchment or curtailment is the discharge of employees."

NEW COSTUMES ASSAILED

Women's Clubs Have Started Big Fight

NEW YORK, June 20.—There's really nothing new, excepting the details in this fight that is being brought to a climax against styles in women's dress. The new details, according to Mrs. Austin M. Palmer, president of a club opposed to present indecency in dress styles, are merely extra displays of bust and leg by low cut waists or thin overdress and absence of underclothing. Mrs. Palmer is heart and soul with the fight the General Federation of Women's Clubs made on present dress styles at their recent convention in Chicago. The only thing Mrs. Palmer criticizes about the Federation's fight was that they didn't fight hard enough. Mrs. Palmer showed how she felt in telling the best way to fight them.

All the man-made or woman-made laws in the world she believes, would not make a change. Women, she declares, know best how to discipline other women. Social ostracism is the answer. "IMMODEST" HER CHARGE. "The clothes worn by many respectable women today," said Mrs. Palmer, "are outrageously immodest, outrageously indecent, outrageously impossible to distinguish between a fast woman and a virtuous woman—except that the latter sometimes outdoes the fast woman in impropriety of her costume. Many decent women do not recognize limits respected by the other kind whose appearance is their stock in trade. "Never until this spring have I seen such low-cut dresses in street cars and on the streets. "Modern man is certainly to be pitied. Wherever he goes he finds women exposing their bare flesh and the lines of their bodies in a way designed to attract masculine attention. Yet, if he makes the slightest response, if he even looks longer than he ought to, he gets his face slapped and is arrested as a white slave. If women do not want their bodies stared at, they should keep them better covered."

FUND FOR HERO'S SURVIVORS.

There's a lot of honor—two of them really, one on either side of the stairs—at the entrance to police headquarters, where are gathered the names of those young heroes who have died "in performance of duty" while protecting the peace of New York. This testimonial to the bravery of New York's hero-police is a grand affair. It is a memorial to the police. It is a memorial to the police. It is a memorial to the police.

considered and poorly drawn laws on every possible subject, until the country is hampered by a mass of inconsistent laws, under which an army of ineffectual officials, many of whom are appointed without regard to training or efficiency, are let loose after the manner of grasshoppers to devour the harvests of industry."

He said that he could carry on an enterprise without coming in conflict with some of the new and badly framed laws adopted at the behest of theorists utterly ignorant of the business with which they are interfering. Men who have failed in other undertakings are frequently put in office to supervise those who have built up large and successful enterprises by real ability, skill, industry and integrity. I am for progress but am unable to see that legislation which results in making the road which men of enterprise energy and means have to travel as rocky as possible, causing them to retrench, if not entirely to go in the line of progress. One of the most serious consequences of such legislation is the attack upon the payroll, because in every enterprise where labor is employed the first step in retrenchment or curtailment is the discharge of employees."

568-572 FOURTEENTH STREET Toggerly CLOAK & SUIT HOUSE NEXT TO TAFT AND PENNOYER

M. ZAHAROFF IS RIVAL TO JOHN D.

He Gives Huge Sums With Little Regard for His Coin.

PARIS, June 20.—Bazil Zaharoff, who recently gave $100,000 to organize a worthy French representation at the Olympic games in Berlin, is a man of enormous wealth in a way quite unknown outside America. Born of a French father and a Greek mother, he has always had the greatest veneration for the Hellenic race. Some years ago he had occasion to seek information at the Greek legation in Berlin. He found the office small and inconvenient, quite unworthy of the country to which he owed his mother, and being a man of prompt decision, he at once asked the Greek government to permit him to provide suitable premises and installations for all the Greek legations in Europe.

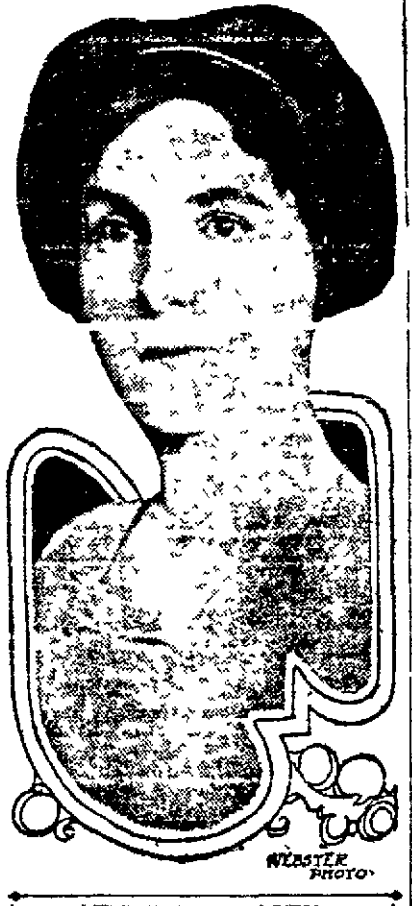

GAVE WAR FUND.

During the last war, as a mark of respect and affection for his mother's country, he paid $200,000 a month to the Greek war chest as long as the conflict lasted. It is to him that the Sorbonne owes its chair of aeronautics. One day he presented himself at the Sorbonne and told the janitor that he desired to found a chair of aeronautics, to whom should he address himself? That official thought he was a lunatic and offered little encouragement. However, by persisting, M. Zaharoff finally got to see M. Liard, the rector, who listened to him with astonishment and incredulity. He remarked that the cost would be very great. "How much?" "Bit by bit, the millionaire dragged from him a number of figures. Added up they amounted to $140,000. "Was that all?" Without adding a word, M. Zaharoff pulled out a check book, wrote a check for the amount stated, handed it with a bow to Rector Liard and quietly withdrew.

PAGEANT TO SHOW HISTORIC PERIODS

Six Hundred Children Will Appear in July Fourth Celebration.

DeFremery park in West Oakland will be the scene of a historical pageant July 4, to be given by the boys and girls of DeFremery, Poplar and Tompkins playgrounds, under the auspices of the Clawsom Mothers' Club and the DeFremery Women's Outdoor Club. Six hundred young folk will take part in the enacting of some of the well-known periods of history. This includes an Indian scene, in which the Indian braves capture a white man, after a stirring fight and do their war dance about the captive. About 200 girls and boys will take part in this dance. This will be followed by the coming of the Spaniards and the founding of the missions and a Spanish dance, in which 100 girls from Poplar playground will take part. The next scene will be symbolic of the occupation of America by the Dutch, including a wooden shoe dance. This will be followed by a tumbling act by the boys from the Y. M. C. A. A colonial dance will follow by the Bonita and Gals Club girls. The finale will be a little skit known as "Betsy Ross' Dream." In this skit Miss Alva Rasmussen will take the part of Betsy Ross, Miss Margaret Mow of the Fairy Goddess and James Feneran will appear as George Washington.

WOMAN WILL FIGHT TO GAIN STATE REGISTRY

SACRAMENTO, June 20.—Mrs. Gertrude E. Kane of this city, whose application for a nurse's state license was denied two days ago by the license department of the state board of health, is dissatisfied with the decision rendered and has announced that she will appear before the state board of health at its regular meeting of July 1, and would prove her credentials showing that she was a graduate nurse of a graded college for nurses in Washington, D. C. She claims a gross injustice has been done her in refusing to accept her application, and she expects to institute a probe into the whole affair. She believes that some letters have been kept from her and she insists upon knowing their contents. The license was refused for the reason that Mrs. Kane was not a graduate of a training school connected with a standard hospital of general reputation in either county or state. Mrs. Kane was a graduate from a private hospital, but not one that was rated with the state board of health or nursing within its rules.

COMPANY MUST BUILD STATION IN TURLOCK

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—The Railroad Commission today issued an order directing the Southern Pacific Company to present for its approval within sixty days plans for a passenger depot to be erected at Turlock, in Stanislaus county. The station building is to be constructed on the site of the old depot, and is to be of lathe and plaster or brick construction, costing not less than $10,000. The order also provides that the company shall effect a separation of the passenger and freight facilities.

NEW PLAYGROUND TO OPEN TODAY

Golden Gate Park Will Be the Scene of Many Sports.

The newest city playground, Golden Gate, opens today at Sixty-second street and San Pablo avenue. The Mothers' Club, Boys' "Quercuili" Club, and others have been working and waiting for this playground and are now enthusiastic boosters for it. Every School of July 4th on the new grounds. Some of the features of this will be baseball, basketball, swims, hikes, soccer, volley ball, track, handball and games of all kinds. The girls will have folk dancing, recreation ball, volley ball, basketball, games and stories. Although the grounds are yet incomplete, there is a large play field, and the apparatus in the Day School grounds across the street will be available. For the boys there will be baseball, basketball, swims, hikes, soccer, volley ball, track, handball and games of all kinds. The girls will have folk dancing, recreation ball, volley ball, basketball, games and stories.

WOMEN'S CLUB, ALSO.

But the young folk are not to be the only ones who will get the benefits of Oakland's newest recreation center. A women's outdoor club is being organized. There will be a men's athletic club. And there is some talk of a social club for men and women together. The supervisors in charge of the Golden Gate playgrounds are C. W. Washburne and Miss Findley. Washburne was formerly in the schools and playgrounds of Tulare, and in Los Angeles city playgrounds. Miss Findley has been director of athletics and folk dancing in the Castilleja Girls' School of Palo Alto. Both are working hard to make the Golden Gate playground one of the liveliest in the city.

ARMED AND ARRESTED.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Mrs. Jennie Gonzales, wife of John Gonzales of 678 Grand street, rushed and informed Patrolman Charles Loftgren that her husband was threatening to kill her. She pointed out Gonzales, who was later taken into custody. The police found on his person a loaded revolver and charged him with carrying concealed weapons and threats against life.

EFFICIENCY IN CITY AUTO SERVICE

System of Merits and Demerits for Drivers Is Under Adoption.

Through the establishment of a system of merits and demerits in the city's automobiles, the efficiency of the city auto service has been increased over fifty per cent. Only one day was lost in the mileage per day for the automobiles, but also an increase in the mileage per gallon of gasoline, and a reduction in the cost of upkeep, due to the careful driving.

The average mileage on one gallon of gasoline of light runabout autos in the city service was from 14 to 16 miles before the new system was put in effect. Within two weeks the mileage has been raised to from 19 to 24 miles.

In the heavier cars the average has been raised from 10 and 12 to 14 and 16 miles.

MANY AUTOS IN USE.

The checking system involves a card of merits and demerits for each driver. There are about thirty-five automobiles in use at the present time in addition to those of the police and fire departments, which are not kept in municipal garage.

Preparatory in putting in the efficiency system, the records of the city's automobiles were compiled for some time, and were compared with the records made by privately owned cars. An allowance of 4,500 miles is given the average life of a tire, and this is to be given for each 100 miles over the average.

Demerits against the driver will be given in the penal column for driving the car on car-tracks, there-injuring the tires, for speeding, for driving the car over rough and improved streets, for reckless driving, for leaving the car unattended, for leaving the car with the motor running, for leaving fenders, for an unusual number of punctures and for any infraction of the rules of the garage.

RISKS HIS LIFE TO SAVE LITTLE GIRL

Rust Shoemaker Stops Runaway and Rescues Child.

RUST, June 20.—Risking his life to save ten-year-old Bernice Carpenter from serious injury or death, James Hoffman, a shoemaker of this place, rushed in front of a runaway horse this morning on Lexington street, grasped the bridle with both hands and was dragged twenty-five feet before he succeeded in bringing the frightened animal to a standstill. Hoffman had a narrow escape from injury as the horse reared and tried to strike him with its forefeet.

The horse was attached to a delivery wagon driven by Miss Antonia Ortiz, proprietress of a local grocery store. Bernice Carpenter was riding with Miss Ortiz and while the latter had gone into a residence on Lexington street near Richmond avenue to deliver some packages, the little girl was playing with a ball. A passing automobile frightened the horse, which started to run blindly down the street.

Hoffman was walking along the street with a bundle of repaired shoes in his hand, when he heard the screams of the little girl who had been struck by the horse and struck the horse across the eyes with the shoes, then dropped the bundle and grasped the bridle with both hands. Clinging with a vice-like grip to the bridle, he was dragged over twenty-five feet before the horse gave in and came to a stop.

The hike will be undertaken early in the fall. Already work on the "suffrage" capes to be worn has begun.

KROENLAND'S CAPTAIN REFUTES MRS. F. KELLY. WASHINGTON, June 20.—A letter was made public today by the House Merchant Marine Committee from Captain P. H. Kriebel of the American steamship Kroenland, denying statements made before the committee last March criticising his judgment and seamanship and the discipline of his crew.

When the Kroenland rescued eighty-eight passengers and crew of the burning steamer Volturino last October, Captain Kriebel wrote that he just read the testimony of Mrs. Florence Kelly and that her statement that "one of the boats was the captain's gig" was untrue, because the Kroenland does not carry a captain's gig, all the boats being regular life boats.

"Instead of only twenty-six men to handle my thirty-four boats," he added, "I wish to say that I had approximately 300 seamen in my crew in all departments, all drilled in handling lifeboats, and most of them responded at once when I called for volunteers to stand by the lifeboats. We were ready to offer more men and lifeboats if necessary, but other ships were soon upon the scene and promptly and bravely contributed their quota."

Assistant Secretary Newton of the Treasury Department today authorized them and Surgeon General Rinehart immediately for examinations to prevent the spread of disease in interstate traffic by the use of contaminated water.

SMOOT'S TARIFF THEORY DISPUTED

His Assertion of the Cause of Trade Balance Starts Big Senate Debate.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Senator Smoot took on several Democratic senators today in a brief prosperity debate before the Senate got down to work. Exhibiting treasury statements for May, the Utah senator called attention to what he declared was a balance of trade against the United States, and continued exportation of gold. He declared the tariff was responsible.

"The exportation of gold is due to foreign distrust of American stocks, induced by the collapse of the New Haven and the St. Louis and San Francisco railroads," replied Senator Hollis, Democrat.

Senator Owen, Democrat, declared responsibility for present conditions were to be traced to three groups of men in New York, he said, controlled nearly all the railroads and industrial in the country.

That countries are reaping the benefits we are losing, he demanded Senator Thomas, another Democrat.

"The treasury statement does not show," returned Senator Smoot.

OFFICERS IN SEARCH OF TOOTHLESS BURGLAR

STOCKTON, June 20.—Deputy Sheriff Henry Orschler is looking for a burglar who is minus a set of false teeth. Orschler has the teeth in his pocket and feels confident that he can convict the man whom they fit.

Some time Tuesday night a burglar ransacked the tent of A. W. Robbins in Bide-a-Wee Park and when Orschler was detailed on the case yesterday morning he went to the tent and then drove toward the Searchlight addition. He had not gone far when he found a badly torn pair of trousers, a half-empty flask of whiskey and a set of false teeth. The trousers were claimed by Robbins, but no one would own the teeth or the whiskey. Another pair of trousers were found a short distance farther along the road. These were also claimed by Robbins. Orschler feels certain that the burglar lost his teeth, and that he probably lost them while choking on the whiskey.

"GREAT MONUMENTS OF WORLD" MUSEUM TOPIC

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Over one hundred stereopticon views will be used to illustrate the lecture on the "World's Great Monuments" at the Affiliated Colleges museum on Sunday afternoon. Assistant Curator E. W. Gifford will speak on this topic at 3 o'clock.

The links which connect the savage's monument of simple unhewn stone with the Statue of Liberty will all be shown in the pictures, while the psychological motive, which operates in the mind of man, be he civilized or savage, and causes him to erect monuments, will be explained by the lecturer. No part of the earth will be missed in the display of pictures, and the audience will be acquainted with the wonderful monuments of mankind as they can be seen at this day in North and South America, the islands of the Pacific, Europe, Asia, and Africa.

The weekly exhibit to be displayed at the museum consists of a new accession to the collection in the shape of a fine series of prehistoric California Indian basketry. This unique collection was obtained in a cave in the mountains of Santa Barbara county, where it had been safely stored away for many centuries.

Judges Differ in
Their Methods
Of Winning Votes

THE KNAVE

Late T. H. Goodman
Was Confere
Of Railroad Kings

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Chief Justice Beatty shakes his head sadly when discussions are in progress as to the campaign to succeed him on the bench. It is his proud tenure as Chief Justice and the many conventions and campaigns in which he figured, he never once asked a delegate to support him or a voter to cast a ballot for him on election day. A victory under such conditions was something to be proud of, whereas the way the place is being sought for now is a bitter commentary on the "reform" politics that have ousted the old-fashioned methods. The consensus of opinion with two leading lawyers with whom I have talked is that the higher judges should be appointed.

Everyone must lament the way the judicial ermine is being dragged in and out of barrooms, political gatherings, mass meetings and every other place where voters congregate, and it is too bad that upright judges such as the incumbents of the Supreme Bench who are at present making campaigns, should be compelled to resort to what is little more than "pothouse" politics. Those who favor the appointive system for judges can certainly find most potent arguments for their cause in what is going on in California during these days when the selection of a non-partisan judiciary is at issue.

Judge Bradley Sargent, or "Brad," as he likes to be called during these campaign days, is making his fight along lines that bring out very vividly the necessity for instituting some kind of real reform in the selection of judges. He does not hesitate to include the "cocktail route" in the rounds he feels it necessary to make, and the spectacle of a judge distributing his own cards is enough to make men ween, as well as angels.

Some of the judicial candidates are even resorting to lining up attorneys in their fights, and when it is remembered that these same lawyers are practicing before them and in many instances even have cases pending in their courts, such tactics are deplorable in the extreme. In this connection credit must be given Senator Frederick S. Stratton, Alameda County's representative on the judicial ticket. He has absolutely refused to make his fight in other than the "Beatty way" and though his failure to go down the line may lose him a vote here and there, the net result will prove that his policy is the correct one, for it draws to him all those who decry the vote-seeking judge who with glad hand and gladder smile lurks on the highways and byways, casting his net for all that comes his way.

Incidentally I might mention that your own superior court judges stand high over here.

Rolph as Speculator

The close political relations existing on the part of Mayor Rolph and Attorneys Matt Sullivan and Theodore Becka, respectively chief adviser and Police Commissioner, are common knowledge. But ever hear of their business deals? A fuel oil investor of much success was telling me last night this trio, together with Mr. Hind, an old business partner of the mayor, have been in two big oil land propositions during the past fourteen months. One of the transactions he knows little or nothing about. He thinks it promises well, however. Their other deal affected oil lands in the lower section of the San Joaquin Valley. My authority for this business tale has it that on a contract to purchase certain oil lands and with only a modest first payment to bind the bargain they have cleaned up a total profit for the four of over $100,000. This authority thinks the quartet made a splendid deal, particularly in view of the small part payment they made and the quickness with which they turned the transaction. Sullivan, it is said, has not fared so well in other oil deals he has been in before but this latest turn has pleased him immensely and has encouraged him to want to try other oil land manipulations with the same associates.

Of the Courtly School

Courtly in appearance and manner and considerate of all with whom he came in contact was General T. H. Goodman, who died the other day at the good old age of 83 years after a long and splendid career as a railroad general passenger and ticket agent. Years ago before the death of his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Goodman were prominent and permanent guests at the Palace. In those days General Goodman made it a practice at many a Christmas to get sixty or eighty two and a half dollar gold pieces and quietly distribute them among the bellboys and other hotel help with whom he had come in contact during the preceding year. The Southern Pacific retired him on a pension in 1905. In the late nineties E. O. McCormick, now vice-president in charge of traffic, was brought out here from Cincinnati as the company's passenger traffic manager. The road then had offices at Montgomery Point and Market. Goodman being in a roomy corner office on the second floor. He wanted to surrender the office to McCormick.

"No, Mr. Goodman," was the reply. "I'll take one next to you. You grace this place very well." Goodman continued to occupy his old office in the corner for a long while and he and his many friends never forgot the gracious remarks and thoughtful attitude of McCormick.

The late Collis P. Huntington always entertained the optimistic idea that he was going to live to be a hundred years old, and during the later years of his life was very sensitive on being alluded to as an old man. Goodman, like J. C. Stubbs, never gave a thought about how long he would live. One day happening to be in New York, Goodman was given an invitation to a dinner along with Stubbs and Huntington. The host was P. U. Henderson, who was at that time not nationally famous. Among the guests was Levi P. Morton, who had been a Vice-President of the United States. He had a seat at the table close to Goodman and Stubbs. During the quiet conversation of the evening Morton remarked to them:

"I have been in many companies of great men, but none was so distinguished as this in the matter of finance and business, and that old man there,"—pointing to Mr. Huntington—"is about the ablest man present."

Both Goodman and Stubbs considered it a very fine compliment coming from a man like Morton. So one of them—I forget which—told Huntington about it.

"Did he call me an old man?" asked Huntington with some show of anger and warmth.

Mr. Goodman said he had done so, illy concealing his surprise at Huntington's tone and manner.

"Why didn't you knock him out of his chair?" demanded the still impatient magnate.

Huntington was at that time over 70 years of age and but little older than Goodman.

Business Secret May Open

Some weeks ago Mrs. Helen Beryl Wheeler, a daughter and third child of the late capitalist, Joel Parker Whitney, commenced an action to break the terms of his will. Mrs. Wheeler wants her mother given half of the estate as community property. She then seeks to have the remainder divided among the three children, giving each about $300,000. The three trustees of the estate, who include Mrs. Wheeler's two brothers, filed an objection to her suit. The litigation will soon come to trial in Judge Coffey's probate department. The Whitney business block on Geary street, between Grant avenue and Stockton street, is a large and valuable possession of the estate. The rental income of this building will be brought out in the evidence. Such figures in connection with any large business building are always of much interest and as a general rule are known to but few people. There is a mortgage of $500,000 on the structure. In the way of tenants it has a waiting list. It is said it will be brought out at the trial that the building receives in gross rents per year $84,000. After deducting all expenses, including insurance and interest on the big loan, the profit annually is placed at $27,000. This is considered a fine financial record for a San Francisco business structure.

Three Times—Then One?

So the former Aimee Crocker of Sacramento and this city has her fourth husband. From all accounts he is a Russian nobleman, Prince Alexander Misknoff by name. R. Porter Ashe and Harry Gillis of San Francisco were the first two husbands in the order named. Jackson Gouraud, who died several years ago and who was often alluded to as "the best dressed man in New York," was the third husband. It was while married to him that the former Californian bought her present fine mansion at La Muette, a fashionable quarter of Paris. Since the death of Gouraud, the New York and San Francisco papers have often printed rumors about her fourth engagement and prospective marriage. Prince Misknoff, who has finally married the western heiress, has figured in these rumors several times. Once it was said to be Jacques Lebaudy of Paris, who has been styled the "Emperor of the Sahara." In denying the latter engagement, Mrs. Gouraud was quoted as laughingly remarking over a year ago: "Three times are enough for any woman to be married."

A large volume, an interesting one, too, could be filled with the exploits of this former Sacramento girl since her first marriage in 1882 at Martinez, this state, for she is one of the most daring and original of women and has had so varied an experience as to include devotion to pleasure in all parts of the world. At one of her famous entertainments in New York and while still Mrs. Gouraud, I remember one of the eastern papers had a long account of it, saying in part:

"A little later Mrs. Gouraud, alive with the abandon of that dear Paris, twined round her neck a twelve-foot living cobra and danced and danced. Frankly the guests were afraid of the cobra, even if Mrs. Gouraud was not. They backed away from its emerald eyes and its darting fire-like tongue. But when the lady of the house patted the cobra on the head and told it to behave they drew near and asked questions."

"It's as gentle as a powder puff," exclaimed Mrs. Gouraud, in disgust. "Isn't um, muzzer's darling, angel child?"

"She finally handed her twelve-foot pet to an agitated footman, saying, 'Put him to bed, Henry. And be sure you wrap his silk comforter around him this cold weather.'"

Truthful, But Misleading

That's a clever remark attributed to George X. Wendling, lumber king and one of the financial backers of Klamath Falls, Ore., with offices on the top floor of the Flood building above the 3000 clerical force in the Southern Pacific general offices. The lumber baron was talking at the club the other night with several gentlemen, including a stranger or two. As the hour of 11 p. m. approached one of the party concluded it was time for him to depart.

"What's your hurry?" observed one.

"Well, I've ninety men and women under me and I make it a point to always appear at the office fresh and prompt at 8:30 a. m.," was the reply.

"As there are 3000 men and women under me, I think this about time for me to go, too," put in Wendling.

Impressed with this observation but too polite to show inquisitiveness, it was two full days before the strangers understood and enjoyed this bit of the Wendling humor.

Soft Answer, No Wrath

John A. Sampson, "Uncle John" as his friends long loved to call him, is a family character and attache of the United States Customs Service at this port for years. He passed away at San Diego last week. Sampson's quaint humor and original views of life and society greatly endeared him to the late United States District Judge Hoffman, whom McKenna, now a member of the United States Supreme Court, succeeded. Up to that time McKenna had been a capable Congressman from this State. Sampson knew a young and distant relative of Judge Hoffman who never appeared to hold for any length of time any job he was given. In his financial straits at times Sampson used to help him out. By some means Judge Hoffman heard of the matter and remonstrated with Uncle John, telling him to send the young fellow to him the next time he asked for money. Sampson did so. It was on a Saturday just before the noon hour. The young man was both surprised and delighted to learn that his austere, judicial relative wanted to see him because he had thought for some time Hoffman was very angry with him. He caught Hoffman just as he was closing his chambers in the Federal building and was invited to walk up the street with him. Reaching Market street and starting out that thoroughfare at the Saturday noon hour, Judge Hoffman remarked to his companion in the most affable way: "Will you take my arm? It may at least give you some standing in the community to get another job instead of pestering Sampson and some of my other friends for loans."

Crestfallen over this rebuke, the pleasant appearing and careless fellow walked off without more ado and was never seen afterwards by Hoffman or his friends.

Berkeley Artist Recognized

A clever young artist of Berkeley, Worth Ryder, has been given, I am told, a commission to paint three California scenes which are to grace the new building of the California Academy of Sciences in Golden Gate Park as mural paintings. Work on the structure is progressing rapidly and its new museum director is to be Dr. B. W. Everman, formerly the head of the Bureau of Fisheries in the national capital and a co-worker and author on scientific publications with Dr. David Starr Jordan. The paintings are to be typical California scenes. There will be a fine picture of one of the old California missions, also wild mountain scenery and an ocean view. Ryder was a scholar of note at the University of California and has studied art at Munich. He is recognized as true interpreter of Pacific Coast scenery and has wandered much among it, studying to the full its epic beauty so as to catch and record the message of the spirit beneath and interpenetrating the outward shapes. A mystic, if you will, this artist has the reputation of delightfully bringing out in a harmonious whole both the real and the ideal. So the Academy of Science people and Ryder's friends are anticipating a work splendid in its power and vitality, its absolute realizing of the thing that is painted.

Dr. Jordan Continues Balkan Study

After meeting with an encouraging reception in Australasia in the promulgation of his propaganda for the abolition of war, I am told Chancellor Jordan of Stanford University has returned to Europe and gone to study in detail the situation in the Balkans. Norman Angell of Paris and London, another world figure in the international peace movement, the author of "The Great Illusion" and an old friend of Jordan, is accompanying him on this tour to the Balkan region. Much has been printed about the frightful loss in life and property when Greece, Servia and Bulgaria fought with Turkey and subsequently some of her allies turned on Bulgaria because of a quarrel over a division of territory. Jacob Gould Schurman, former president of Cornell University and one of the first American commissioners to the Philippines, was the American minister to Greece and Montenegro when the Balkan flame broke out. He has given Jordan, it is said, a mass of valuable data on war's ravages in that section of Europe. This is said to explain why Jordan desired to make a close study on the ground himself. He is expected to return to Palo Alto at the end of the year.

Apropos of Jordan's return home, a Stanford University trustee tells me that he is of the opinion President Branner will stick to his original intention when he succeeded Jordan to retire at the end of the 1915 college year. In that event, Jordan and Branner will be consulted early in next year by the trustees about a new man as the third president of the institution.

David Warfield Invests in "Movies"

I was noticing A. L. Mohler of Omaha and David Warfield of New York on Market street the other day, two men who have made big successes in life and yet who have not been spoiled by their positive achievements. Warfield, the actor, is visiting his old San Francisco home. In recent years he is said to have averaged over $1000 for each performance. So he's rich now, very rich as actors go. As the gossip runs, he has been investing his money in the moving picture business, by which he has derived a fortune on the side.

Mohler is the president of the Union Pacific Railroad, having climbed from the bottom as did Warfield in his work. It is said Mohler gets an annual salary of $40,000. All branches of the railroad business are familiar to him. He knows the coast like a book, for he was long in charge of the Harriman lines in the Pacific Northwest, with Portland as his headquarters. He is fond of pool and billiards for a diversion and recreation. Mohler never aimed at being a champion or fancy artist at the game. He likes to play as a mental rest. Warned is fond of the good old card game of pinocle. He knows all its winning moves, too, and has been known to get up at 2 in the morning to play it with some familiar night prowlers.

Mrs. Darling's Diary Basis of Book

After a long absence in Europe, friends are greeting the return home of Mrs. Clara L. Darling, one of the dowagers of San Francisco society, who knows the bay societydom like her alphabet. Several years ago she told me one evening in a short chat that she had about finished in manuscript form a book she intended calling "My Society Reminiscences." I wonder if she has completed it and if it will ever see the light of day. Mrs. Darling has had a quiet but eventful experience and is possessed of a wonderful memory for names and social incidents and happenings. The basis of her proposed book is a diary which was regularly kept for many a year. One of the six children of Judge Hastings, who founded the law college of that name, only two are now alive, she and her sister, Miss Ella Hastings. The trust is to expire and the estate be divided on the death of these two children. At present there are eight or nine grandchildren and several great grandchildren. Ella Hastings, one of the two surviving children, was never married. One of the grandchildren is Elizabeth Parker Hastings of London, whose stepfather is James W. Daniell, sometimes alluded to as a London barrister and supposed by other people to be a detective in the employ of Scotland Yard. The British courts have held her competent. Under the California law the young woman is considered incompetent and there is a guardian for her rich property holding. Mrs. Darling has fought successfully to maintain this legal status of her niece, being always fearful that the stepfather would get hold of the property. Daniell made a strong fight to have his stepdaughter declared competent here, but Mrs. Darling and her lawyers proved too much for him. And yet the London heiress sides with her stepfather against her own father's relatives. She was the daughter of Robert Hastings.

Anna Held Loves "Eagle" Dearly

There is no denying the fact that one or two professional men in San Francisco were both surprised and disappointed to learn through the cable news the other day of the engagement of Anna Held to Prince Paul Naklioff of Russia and of her prospective retirement from the stage. No, they were never seriously inclined towards her. They simply liked her as a companion and dearly loved to entertain her when she came to town. They always imagined the fair Anna would make up with Flo Ziegfeld and remarry him. They were disabused of that thought some months ago, however, when Ziegfeld took to wife Billy Burke. No doubt they will be disabused again over her retirement from the stage when she marries the Russian nobleman. Anna's love for the great American dollar is most pronounced, and, without sickness, or a great accident, its call is likely to prove irresistible to her. Under Ziegfeld's management, Anna Held got rich in this country. He made her a barrel of money, so she told her several intimate men friends here. That is why they thought she would go back to him. Probably she would have done so but he would have no more of her. Anna always found American men "easy." I presume she included in this generalization her San Francisco men friends. Many were the presents she got from them. She took them all as a matter of course. She even looked for more and was not disappointed. Such was the power of her fascination.

Women Loom Largely in Campaign

Glancing at the political activity in the State, one sees how the women after having the ballot conferred on them are either to go on the hustings or are prepared to seek office, state or local. And I voice no objection. In Colorado, Helen Ring Robinson is a state senator, the only woman of that position in the country. Mrs. Gertrude A. Lee of Denver is chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee. We haven't gone that far yet. But we will some day. Already the Democratic State Central Committee has Mrs. Grace I. Caukin as its secretary. She is proving efficient, too. Mrs. Knowland, the wife of Congressman J. R. Knowland, has already begun a tour for her husband. She will address the women in the different communities on behalf of her husband, who is seeking the senatorial toga at the hands of the Republicans. Much interest has been aroused by Mrs. Knowland's decision and she is sure of a cordial welcome and splendid audiences wherever she speaks. She knows political life and the problems uppermost this year. But to return to women seeking office or those being urged to do so. Mrs. Helen

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING FOR COMING EXPOSITION

Activities of Auxiliary Bodies Outlined and Scope of Participation Defined

(By BETTY MARTIN.)

"What women are doing for the Panama-Pacific International Exposition." That is the self-explanatory title of an interesting pamphlet recently issued, and which many not actively participating in the work have received. But for one to whom the mail carried this interesting folder, there are nine, at the most conservative estimate, who know next to nothing regarding what some of the women of California are doing to make the fair exceed all expectations.

For example, the average woman has not yet clearly defined in her own mind what the Alameda County Auxiliary is, and this auxiliary does not differ in kind from any other of the auxiliaries, unless the difference lies in the personality of its members.

Presently engaged in appointing chairmen in every city and town in the county of Alameda.

The plan of organization gives a chairman to every one of the 58 counties in California, and a sub-chairman in every city and town. Membership in the auxiliary, primarily California, is open to any woman in the world who cares to avail herself of the privilege. To become a member all that is necessary is to go to the official pin. After these formalities have been completed with a few words of congratulatory which will entitle its owner to the privileges of the auxiliary.

PIN, BEAUTIFUL SOUVENIR.

The pin, the seal of the Woman's Board of the Exposition, is interesting in itself. It was designed by Lucia K. Matthews. Red, blue and gold, it is voted by enthusiastic women as a beautiful souvenir of the coming exposition. This pin, the possession of which means so much to the proud owner, is not to be had except through becoming a member of the auxiliary.

California's join through their county chairmen, but women outside the State may enjoy a similar privilege by simply sending the $2 check or money order to the Women's Board, 702 Exposition building, corner of Pine and Battery streets, San Francisco. The membership card and pin are forwarded promptly, so the assurance is given that every woman who joins will have a personal and exceedingly convenient connection with the exposition. In the first place, their names will be entered before they arrive, and while the California Host building will be an fete and occupied all the time, the auxiliary rooms just at hand will always be quiet and ready. If we are to place implicit faith in the circular.

A carefully thought out plan places the auxiliary rooms in the Exposition building, the county exhibits and the California Host building together so placed with relation to each other as to make a most attractive whole. In this arrangement a convenient space has been set aside for the use of the auxiliary to the Women's Board.

AIMED AT PERMANENCY.

When the call to organize was first given, the women were asked to have in mind a permanent organization that would continue to work for the betterment of California with the opening of the Panama canal.

In connection with the Travelers' Aid Organization is so comprehensive that it includes all the Women's Board had in mind in the original county organization.

This means that travelers "irrespective of age, sex, race, creed or class, may be met when they arrive, and that they will receive all information, and when necessary, full guidance and protection."

In every essential, the California Travelers' Aid Society has been modeled after that of New York, with which it will officially co-operate.

Mr. Otis C. Baker, the general secretary of the New York Travelers' Aid Society, came to California through special invitation of the Women's Board of the Exposition, and assisted in the formation of the Women's Board.

Co-operating with the Travelers' Aid Organization, through their combined agencies the Information Bureau will be managed.

Listed with the Exposition Department will be all the restaurants and hotels that do not intend to raise their menu during fair time, and the Travelers' Aid Society.

END OF CHERRY SEASON AT HAND

Last Shipments Will Place Total for Year at 180 Cars.

SACRAMENTO, June 20.—The cherry season is practically ended. A few scattering cars may go out during the next few days from Santa Clara county, but the late shipments from that section will not aggregate more than two or three cars. The total for the year will be approximately 180, against a total last year of 220. Shipments recently were: Cherries, 14 cars; apricots, 53; peaches, 84; and plums, 80; a total of 704 cars for the day, and 102,241 for the season, against 477 on the like date last year.

"River shipments are running large at present, and probably will increase, for the Bartlett pear season will open in two weeks," said H. W. Adams, one of the California Fruit Distributors.

Yesterday, 16,683 packages were received at the local wharves, mostly plums. The crop this year from the river section probably will equal that of last year, when 1248 cars were sent out.

Prices on the Eastern markets showed little change. In Chicago the market was weak, with Royal Anne cherries selling at $1.20, Bings $1.25, Republicans $1.20, Royal apricots 80c, Climax plums $1.15, Tragedy $1.70, Burbank $1.10, Abundance $1.15, Trufruit peaches 90c, and Alexander 75c. In New York prices were about 50c higher on cherries and plums and somewhat above those of California on plums. Philadelphia ranged half way between the two.

'SEPTEMBER MORN' CREATOR COMING

Paul Chabas, Artist, to Seize First Opportunity and Visit America.

PARIS, June 20.—Paul Chabas, the artist, intends to seize the first opportunity to visit the land where his "September Morn" aroused such interest.

"I shall not go simply for pleasure," he says. "I mean to spend a season in New York painting. I am anxious to study the peculiar intensity of New York life, of which I have heard so much, and to see something of America's art and architecture. I cannot now fix a date for leaving, but shall not regret before I finish some twenty-five portraits on hand, as well as two large panels, 'Mornings' and 'Evenings' in 'September Morn' style, for Prince Jacques de Broglie. These are to decorate the grand salon in the prince's Paris mansion.

"I appear to have acquired a reputation for depicting America. When I sold 'September Morn' over the head of an American newspaper proprietor, who offered me a lower sum than the figure I placed upon it, I received a letter from him stating he understood I refused the offer because I was unwilling to let my pictures go to America, adding that he could not understand my attitude.

"I am now engaged on a picture of 'September Morn' in that it was my wife's favorite picture. Therefore, on giving a price for the sale, I was unwilling to let it go to America, as it is customary before the exhibition, I named a higher figure than I expected any one would pay—namely, $10,000. The newspaper proprietor's smaller offer was automatically refused.

"Another offer of Leon Mankoff of St. Petersburg reached the price named; therefore, to my wife and my own regret, the picture was sold.

"I hear no grudge toward Americans for taking advantage of the lack of copyright on 'September Morn,' but it has taught me a lesson. I have taken out copyright on 'The Fishers of the Morn,' a picture now being exhibited in the salon, and will do so on future work.

"For example, the average woman has not yet clearly defined in her own mind what the Alameda County Auxiliary is, and this auxiliary does not differ in kind from any other of the auxiliaries, unless the difference lies in the personality of its members.

"DIGNITY DESMOND" HAS SUDDEN, SUDDEN SPRAWL

SACRAMENTO, June 20.—The dignity of the meetings of the city's governing body has been rudely shattered and City Clerk Michael Joseph Desmond, who for sixteen years has carefully nurtured that dignity is downcast.

Without any announcement and with a suddenness that startled a big gathering in the city council, Michael Joseph did a circus stunt, ending disastrously, and Michael feels he is in disgrace.

Michael has a big, easy pivot chair near his desk in the council room, in which he rests during extended discussions. He found occasion to use it yesterday while the building ordinance was being argued.

To say that he went to sleep might be stretching the truth; call it "forty winks." Michael was oblivious to the laws governing the center of gravity as he leaned far back in his chair near a window.

The chair gently leaned to stern, balanced a moment and then shot suddenly backward. Michael's feet were thrust suddenly skyward. In trying to recover he turned the chair on its pivot and was precipitated to his hands and knees on the floor.

Declining the aid of newspaper men who rushed to his feet blushing profusely, the commissioners and attendants at the meeting stifled their mirth.

Michael cleared his throat, readjusted his eye glasses and immediately became busy with his notes. It will not go down in the minutes of the city commission that Michael Joseph Desmond was guilty of a breach of dignity.

STOCKTON PIONEER SUMMONED BY DEATH

STOCKTON, June 20.—Mrs. Margaret C. Morrell is dead here at the home of her son, J. Pierce Morrell, on East Wyan-dotte street. Mrs. Morrell would have been 82 years of age.

She had had a sick day in her life until six weeks ago when she fell and fractured her hip bone. The shock and the failure of the bone to heal told on her and impaired her strength.

Mrs. Morrell was one of the pioneer women of the state and one of the last surviving members of the earliest stock of people who came to San Francisco at the time of the gold discovery. She had been a resident of Stockton for 34 years and had endeavored herself to a large circle of friends.

Coming to San Francisco in 1849, she is survived by two sons—J. Pierce and Ralph P. Morrell—and three grandchildren—Mrs. A. W. Pettenger, Frank Morrell and Raymond Morrell.

WOMAN HUNTS IN 'DARKEST AFRICA'

Mrs. Ida M. England Facing a Perilous Adventure in Search of Big Game.

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—Following the trail of Roosevelt in the darkest jungles of Africa, Mrs. Ida M. England of Los Angeles is facing perilous adventures and wild animal search of same.

Mrs. England is the latest American woman to pursue that dangerous pastime. With her husband, G. H. England, she left San Francisco early in the spring to cross the Pacific. On her roundabout way to Cape Town, the headquarters of the hunting trip, Mrs. England has made one of the longest journeys that an American woman has ever taken in pursuit of big game.

Leaving San Francisco in the latter part of January, the Englands went first to Hawaii, where they visited all the islands, and then to the Philippines.

From there they stopped successively at Japan, China, Philippine Islands, Rangoon, India, Tibet and Ceylon.

IN AFRICAN JUNGLES.

India's chief and most picturesque cities were viewed, including Calcutta, Darjeeling, Benares, Cawnpore, Agra, Delhi, Jaipur and Bombay. The party is now lost to sight in the depths of "darkest Africa."

In the storied India and Tibet, immortalized by Kipling, they were awed time and again by the sights that confronted them on their way to the extreme south.

SCENE AFTER SCENE UNFOLDS.

"The most glorious sight of all," writes Mrs. England, "was to see five sun rises on Mount Everest, the highest mountain in the world. We arose at 5 o'clock in the morning and saw the first rays of the sun rise over the snow-capped peak. The moon was shining brightly and occasional lights glimmered in the village below. When we reached Tiger Hill the moon was setting in the west, but before us was the first streak of dawn, and as we watched the east grew pinker and pinker, the mountain tops began to glow. Until finally the sun came up and touched each peak and at last reached Mount Everest in the distance. Certainly a glorious spectacle."

Scene after scene of wonder and world fame were unfolded to the Englands and the hunting trip, Mrs. England has made one of the longest journeys that an American woman has ever taken in pursuit of big game.

At Amber the famous Amber palace, in Ceylon the tropical loveliness that was reputed to have been the location of the Garden of Eden.

The Englands expect to spend a long period in the jungle before returning home to Los Angeles.

CANADIAN STRIKERS MAY SOON MAKE PEACE

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 20.—Early determination of the strike was forecasted last night at a mass meeting of the striking miners at Nanaimo. Robert Foster, of District 23, United Mine Workers of America, addressed the meeting and told the men not to be surprised if payment of strike benefits was stopped at any time, as the funds of the organization have been depleted through paying $15,000 weekly to strikers on Vancouver Island and $35,000 weekly to men on strike in Colorado.

Seed Sown on Stony Ground.

For years the newspapers of the land have been telling their readers of the methods employed by sharpers in fleecing victims of money on various pretexts. Yet every once in a while one reads the story of loss sustained and is tempted to inquire into the psychology of the circumstance. One of the most recent happenings is related in the following:

J. Ellison Hess, a substantial farmer of York, Pennsylvania, past middle life, went to Philadelphia on his way to Atlantic City, where he purposed visiting a son, a teacher in a high school. While in Philadelphia he asked a stranger the way to Independence Hall. The end of the acquaintance thus begun was that Hess hastened to York and obtained a cashier's check for $10,000. With this he returned to Philadelphia and secured the cash from the Corn Exchange Bank. The cashier showed a disposition to be inquisitive and was snubbed. Hess turned the money over to a man introduced on the street as the bookkeeper of a poolroom. Of course he never saw it again and his descriptions to the police

York, Pennsylvania, is the center of an intelligent community. It is close to Philadelphia and in addition to getting daily papers from that city has some good ones of its own. There is no doubt that all these journals have from time to time exposed the work of bunco men, and Hess, being a man of means, presumably an intelligent person and no doubt a reader, must have read the various stories. In the face of this presumption, what is the explanation?

One of the most successful bunco men on this coast, now operating somewhere in the east, used to say his victim was a man equally guilty with himself. "He thinks up to the very last minute that he is going to get my coin; he is anxious to get it and his belief that he is going to trim me is the result of the talk either I or one of my partners have given him. He forgets all that he has read about people losing money to confidence men and remembers nothing save that which some of us have told him. And right down to the last second he is a worse sinner than I am, because he is willing to take a supposed advantage of me and take my money, but afterwards he always hollers."

While not desiring to be understood as endorsing the sentiments of the person quoted, it looks as if in the peculiar philosophy he advances as if a partial explanation at least might be found. For there is no use in an intelligent man, a newspaper reader especially, losing a cent to a sharper in the light of the publicity such losses are always given. A moment of thought would settle the question without disastrous result.

Training People to Eat Fish.

The United States consul-general at Munich, Germany, reports an interesting state of affairs in Bavaria, it being nothing less than an effort on the part of the government to decrease the cost of living by teaching the people to eat fish. In July of 1913 the Bavarian Department of the Interior made an agreement with the state fisheries at Hamburg that a propaganda for increasing the consumption of sea and lake fish be undertaken in all Bavarian cities of 15,000 or more inhabitants. Cinematograph lectures showing the importance and nutritiousness of fish diet were held and special cooking courses were given, the result being that in nineteen cities the consumption of fish has largely increased.

The government is so pleased with the experiment that it has been decided to continue it in smaller towns. As an instance of interest awakened it is related that the moving picture lectures were attended by more than 17,000 persons of both sexes and that the 310 fish cooking courses attracted 10,159 women and girls, all eager to learn how to prepare this staple article of diet.

Mount Lassen continues to be an attraction; the latest eruption is reported as having sent up a column of fire, rocks, scoriae, dust and other things to a height of ten thousand feet. Come west, young man, and see a real volcano.

Latest reports from Washington are to the effect that Hope is still being entertained by Mr. Bryan.

In the current issue of the Dispatch-Democrat, Senator John Bunyan Sanford announces that owing to his unfortunate accident of last January he will not be able to make two campaigns for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, hence he withdraws. But not a word does the "Gray Eagle" have to say about that appointment as registrar of the land office cutting any figure in the transaction.

Huerta's conduct indicates that he is not a man of retiring disposition.

California Wine Men Win Victory.

Secretary Houston, head of the Department of Agriculture, has made a decision defining wine as "the product of the normal alcoholic fermentation of the juice of fresh, sound, ripe grapes, with the usual cellar treatment."

The decision prohibits the addition of water to grape juice in making wine, and in cases where water is added to pomace of grapes provides:

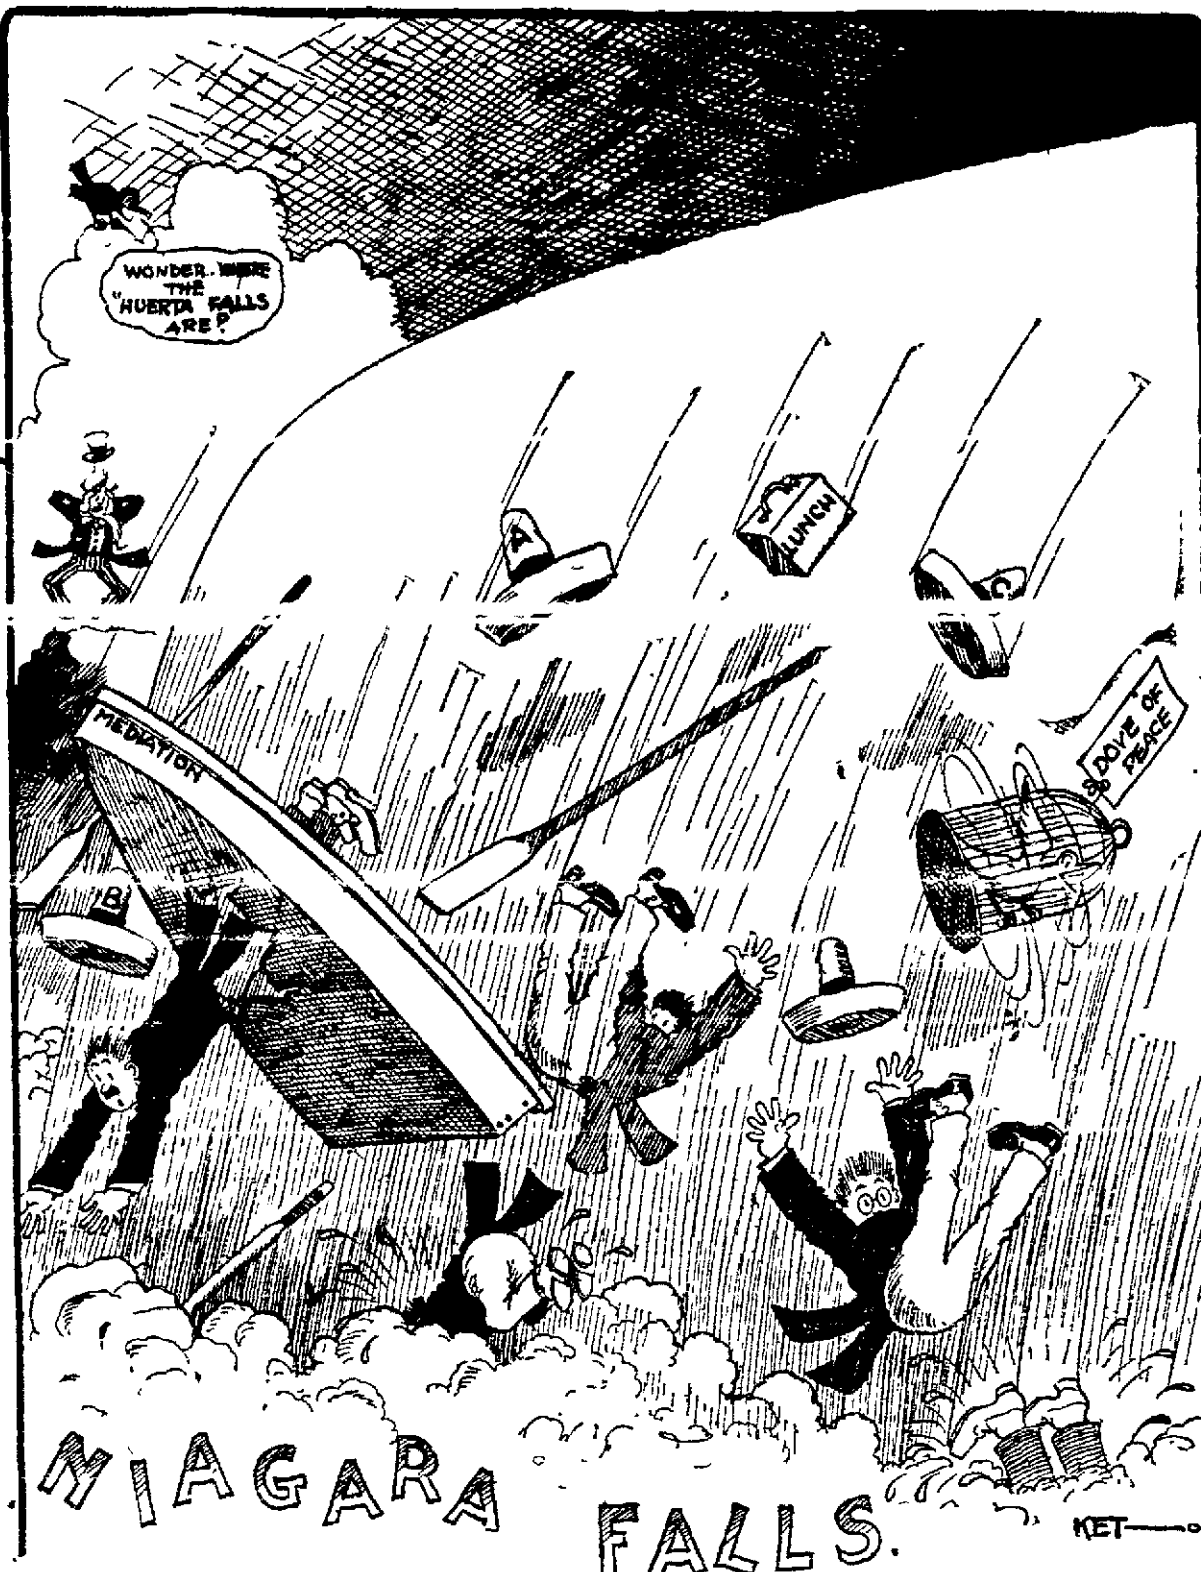

"A product made from pomace by the addition of water, with or without sugar, with any other material, is not entitled to be calculated wine. It is not permissible to designate such a product as 'pomace wine' nor otherwise than as 'imitation wine.'"

In view of the fact that the juice of grapes in eastern sections is either too acid or too sweet to make wine, the decision permits correction of the natural defects by the addition of certain chemicals enumerated.

The decision is a complete victory for the California wine men who have been fighting the adulteration of eastern wines, and the making of so-called wines from pomace and in the language of the department is made because it has been concluded that "gross deceptions have been practiced under food inspection decision No. 120."

Inasmuch as the imitation wines have competed with the California pure wines in eastern markets, it is fair to assume that as

Mere Man Cannot Learn Dancing.

Recently Mlle. La Gai, Parisian danseuse, was engaged to teach students, lady students, at the University of California, dancing, the course being limited to the summer session. Mlle. La Gai came heralded as a mistress of the science of reducing motion to poetry and her advent was the signal for extensive publicity.

Everything was going along in fine shape until Prof. Charles Daniel, Berkeley dancing master, disturbed the serenity by applying for admission as a student of the latest methods. He appealed to Dean Rieber and was denied, then to Mlle. La Gai, where he met with a similar refusal. Whereupon Professor Daniel grew wrath and issued the following ukase:

If they are teaching dancing as an art, why should they exempt men? One of the aims of the dancing department of the university is to fit its pupils to teach dancing, and surely men should be allowed to give such instruction as well as women. While I have been fitting young women for the last twenty years, I am anxious to learn Mlle. La Gai's methods and her dances. I believe that the Pacific Association of Dancing Masters, of which I am a member, will back me in an effort to have men admitted to these classes as pupils.

Somehow we feel to agree with Mr. Daniels. While most of us are willing that the girls shall have the best of everything, even to being exempted from paying poll tax and getting seats in street cars while the sterner sex hangs on to straps, why should man be barred from learning the science of twisting and convoluting, whirling and whirling, circling and sinuating? This looks like class legislation in education, so to speak. If dancing is an art, why should it not have its artists as well as its artists?

I. W. W. Advocates Sabotage.

Questioned before the Federal Industrial Commission in New York City during an investigation of the strike in the silk mills of Paterson, New Jersey, Edward Zurcher, secretary of the Industrial Workers of the World, made the following statements:

"The I. W. W. does not advocate arbitration, mediation and conciliation. These methods have been rejected by the workers and have never proved to be a success."

"When a hand wants a day off and cannot get it, he drops a screwdriver into the machinery."

Comment on such methods is unnecessary. It is a poor cause that will not admit of intelligent discussion and a poorer one that stands for destruction of property at the whim of an individual. Such conduct if universally persisted in would mean endless confusion and the ultimate wreck of all industries making for the betterment, the convenience and the happiness of humanity. Small wonder the I. W. W. gets little encouragement at the hands of intelligent organized labor and intelligent men of means, who are engaged in an effort to bring about amicable adjustments of differences in a manner calculated to benefit both sides to controversies.

Billy Sunday's choirmaster having lost a $20,000 damage suit to a young woman who alleged he broke his promise to marry her, is doubtless singing, "Yet drops of grief can ne'er repay the debt to love I owe."

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad having announced it will arrange to give hogs in transit baths, it is fair to presume the most seat variety will be included in the ablutions.

Announcement is made that the first baseball game was played sixty-eight years ago last Friday. Yes, and Oakland has one of the original teams.

Twenty Years Ago Today

There is a statue of Justice above the south wing of the County Court-house. It is of that yellowish corn color, that pervades a long worn linen collar. The color that loyal Spaniards named "Isabella" for the queen, who vowed that she would not change her linen until Gibraltar was recaptured from the British. She wore that linen until her death. Of the four altars erected to the worship of this Goddess of Right, three are abandoned. But one of her precepts remains true to the faith and ministers unto those who bow before her: that she may declare the right. Judge Gresham is at Sacramento. Judge Greene is at Sacramento. Judge Ogden is at Sacramento. Judge Ellsworth alone keeps alive the flame upon the altar of the Goddess. The doors of the other courts are long before her; that she may declare the right. Judge Gresham is at Sacramento. Judge Greene is at Sacramento. Judge Ogden is at Sacramento. Judge Ellsworth alone keeps alive the flame upon the altar of the Goddess. The doors of the other courts are long before her; that she may declare the right.

The bitterness of the contest over woman suffrage is illustrated in the fact that one of the Kingston delegates to the Populist convention, Editor Brown, who strongly opposed the extension of the suffrage to women, was met at the depot on his return by a delegation of woman suffragists and sympathizers and was taken from the side of his wife, clothed in a Mother Hubbard dress and sunbonnet and compelled to march through the streets behind a brass band.

F. H. O'Donnell, instructor in the Duff and Duff Institute in Berkeley, accompanied by his wife, will soon leave for Europe.

The will of the late Dr. John W. Hood of Hayward was admitted to probate. The doctor handles his enemies without gloves in his last testament. Max Popper, chairman of the Democratic State Central committee, was appointed to act as executor without bonds.

M. M. Estee of Napa received the Republican nomination for governor. Samuel G. Hibborn of Oakland was nominated for congressman.

Ousting.

The discovery of the Harrison, N. J. board of health that the family bathtub is a menace to health because of its promiscuous use will have momentous consequences. Social workers devoted to the uplift of other people have for years complained that dwellers in poor tenements use the bathtub, when there is one, for a coal bin. Here is another instance where the instinct of the plain people is a surer guide than the fine-spun theories of specialists. A bathtub filled with coal is not transmitting disease, and it may help the family postpone the payment of winter prices for fuel. A bathtub filled in May, the revised proverb may run, is worth a load of hay; a bathtub filled in June, only a silver spoon. "The great unwashed" was once a term of reproach. Will it now be proudly worn as a proof of the most advanced sanitary practice?

It is the custom in the British navy of traveling Britons, when each man took about with him a little tin tub of his own? Are not inventors equal to the task of devising a folding bathtub of paraffined paper, to be burned after use? If individual drinking cups are to be compulsory, why not individual bathtubs? The Harrison board of health recommends a shower bath instead of the fixed tub. But it is just as well to take no chances. By the time a family has paid the money it plumber for changing the tub to a shower, some investigator will discover that the shower bath is doubly deadly. Coal is always used. New York World.

"THE GREAT STABILIZER"

"If we are faithless, He remains faithful, for He cannot be untrue to Himself."—2d Timothy, 2:13.

How like the experience of the aviator is the course of our daily lives. We run into invisible air holes and pockets and currents that confuse, baffle and dishearten us. Sailing along at a fair rate, serene and seemingly well balanced, suddenly we drop sheer into some dark and mysterious, invisible pit. Happy are we if we can manage to get the controlling levers well within the grasp and right our frail aircraft of the spirit before we make irretrievable wreck of life.

At such times how relieved we would be if there were available some fool proof adjustment to life's delicately balanced machinery. Well, here we have it in the old-fashioned notion of God's faithfulness to Himself and His task. He never has defaulted on a contract; He has never broken a compact. "If we are faithless," How many of us have "made shipwreck of the faith!" We entered into a covenant with Christ. We would give Him His way with our spirit life. He should rule in the heart, whence purposes into terms of character. We would commit to Him the all but impossible task of creating within us an eternal life principle. The spirit that we had sacrificed, or were in danger to sacrifice to the lusts of the flesh and the pride of life, should be committed to Him for salvation and restoration. All was going well, it was comparatively clear course sailing, when suddenly we found ourselves on the swift decline toward the depths; we were headed for the pit. Such is the experience of all the aviators. A brief career of thrilling hairbreadth escapes, the seeming conscious mastery of the world and a growing self-confidence, increasing risks and reckless abandon, then the irretrievable crash earthwards. Something unseen, unexpected, something that could not be forewarned, encountered there in the solitude of the upper air, then a few swift futile tugs at the unanswerable levers—then silence and the dark.

GUSTS OF PASSION. There are the fierce and often unheralded gusts of passion, like the squalls that speed down from the low hills across the "finger lakes" of New York state. Unhappy the craft that is caught unprepared in their path. Motor craft, sail craft, canoe or row boat—it is all the same. When we least expect it, down swoops the hurricane of lust and lost is all our fancied self-control. "We are unfaithful." We fall into the depths of sin. How many a heart has felt the cold despair of unfaithfulness to Him who is faithful and who cannot be untrue to Himself, or we were caught in the maelstrom of ambition. These principles hindered our aspiring pride and greed. We were "envious of the workers of iniquity." We wanted the easy livelihood; we envied the man who seemed so self-sufficient in the possession of great wealth. We lusted for the red lintel of entrance within the charmed circle of a certain set. The scruples of our faith set as a bar in our way. They seemed insurmountable hurdles in the race. We spurred them aside and went in the way of transgressors. Well, we find it true now that "the way of the transgressor is hard." We have not even been gratified in the experience that we sought. Bitterness eats out our hearts. We have made refuse of the pearls of great price in life, and its gaudy shams and worthless truses fret our peace and gall our souls to anguish.

Hear it you friends in business who have sold your self-respect, your fine sense of honor, your moral balance for naught; hear it, my friend, you, "O noble woman, nobly planned," who has sold your wife's sympathy, your motherly care and that sweet neighborliness for the pretense of a social position: "How like a raging demon in the heart rules the unrelenting ambitions? Let him but once play the monarch and his haughty brow glows with a beauty that o'erpowers thought and de-thrones peace forever." Before the swift gale of ambition we have lost not only our balance, but our bearings.

CONTROL OF LIFE. Yet, most of us miss our reckoning and lose control of life in the numbing atmosphere of indifference. We find ourselves sitting or standing amid a wreck of hopes, purposes, resolves and dreams and wonder how it all happened. We have taken one false step after another until these successive steps have led us far into a desert life we but half consciously chose. We made no decided effort to go wrong. We just drifted with the current, and here we are in the desert and solitary place—wrecked and with God alone. These lines occur to us, over and over again: "I never found it in my heart to play so ill a part." But evil is wrought by want of thought as well as by want of heart.

BRIEF SPECIFICATIONS. There is no need in even briefing the specifications. "All we like sheep have gone astray. We have turned every man into his own way, and Jehovah hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." Broken faiths lie all about us. "The all I have—Smoke failure, folded endeavor, coldness and doubt, and palsied lack." Ours was a noble undertaking, but friends the birds will not cover the cost. We cannot fulfill the contract. Let us "look unto Him who is the architect and finisher of our trust." In contrition and resignation let us yield all the plans and specifications to Him who completely fails because He cannot be untrue to Himself.

My friends, we are racing through life amid the vapors of the upper air. Our craft is frail and unstable. All the virtuous aeronauts that have preceded us have left no track, no chart, no compass. We must face alone all the uncertain perils of the trackless air—uncertain only in the sense that they are utterly unknown as to their suddenness, power or the quarter from which they come. "For our wrestling is not against flesh and blood, but against the principalities, against the powers, against the world rulers of this darkness, against the spiritual hosts of wickedness in high places." We shall be wise if we take up with us the stabilizing power of the faith of Christ.

LONDON FOLLOWS WOMAN'S EXAMPLE

Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's Plan
Is Taken Up by the Britishers.

(By ED L. KEENE.)

LONDON, June 20.—The movement started in the United States by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont to interest the public in the proposition of municipal lodging homes for poor working-women attracts attention to the work being done in England by the National Association of Women's Lodging Homes, of which Mrs. Belmont is a member, and the Duchess of Marlborough is president. Since its organization five years ago this association has seen the establishment of a municipal hotel for women in Manchester and recently the city of Bristol has decided to build and equip a similar institution.

The success of the Glasgow women's municipal lodging-house, the first to be established in the British Isles, in 1912, has provided the Duchess and her co-workers with a the system throughout the country. In this institution the women are charged from 6 to 8 cents a night for board. The building cost $50,000, and the enterprise not only proved self-supporting from the time of its inception, but in recent years has earned a profit of from 4 to 5 per cent on the investment. The Manchester hotel, which cost $55,000 and which has been in operation only three years, also gives promise of being self-supporting.

Inspiration for the founding of the National Association of Women's Lodging Homes was furnished by Mrs. Mary Higgins, a leading social welfare worker, who became its secretary. She has disguised herself as a poor seamstress and slept in poor lodging-houses, and the casual words of poor-houses, where she obtained at first hand material for her book, "Glimpses into the Abyss," showing up the terrible evils of these places for women and girls.

Russian exiles in England are complaining bitterly of the espionage to which they are being subjected by the British government through the agency of Scotland Yard. It has been known for some time past that the Okhrana, or secret police, has been maintaining an active bureau in London in connection with the Russian embassy, but only recently was it discovered that Scotland Yard is co-operating with this notorious institution in a manner similar to that employed by the police departments of France, Belgium and other continental countries where Russian political refugees have sought asylum. It is known that Scotland Yard has now on file a complete list of all prominent exiles living in London and elsewhere in England, and it is reported that the Russian minister has read over her copy and declared that it was without a single omission or mistake.

LOS ANGELES LEADS IN DOGS AND FINES

SACRAMENTO, June 20.—Los Angeles has more pet bow-boys than any other city in California according to figures furnished by State Controller John S. Chambers. In fact, there are so many blue-blooded aristocrats in the southern metropolis that one-third of the total revenue collected in all the cities in the state under the title of dog licenses comes from Los Angeles. San Francisco has no reputation as a dog center and is far behind Los Angeles. The total dog license tax collected in 1913 was $90,955. Of this sum Los Angeles was responsible for $73,900. The city of Los Angeles has a population of 379,000. Los Angeles also leads in the collection of court fines. The total fines and penalties in 1913 was $406,250. Of this $338,584.40 was collected by Los Angeles and $44,665.60 by San Francisco.

PLASTERER, RUPTURED, FINDS STRENUOUS WORK EASY NOW

Grand Rapids Man Tells How
Both He and Young Son Were Swiftly Cured by Wonderful Invention.

Plasterers do strenuous work. They have to work in all kinds of trying positions, in cramped corners and on dizzy scaffolds. They have to work fast.

Edward S. Dickerson of Grand Rapids, Mich., is an expert plasterer. For years he was handicapped in his work by a serious rupture. He tried all kinds of trusses and rupture devices.

"Each one proved worse than the one before," said Mr. Dickerson. Finally he tried the Schulling Rupture Lock.

"From the first moment it was put on I was relieved," he wrote. "It held the rupture as nothing before had done. It pressed a little firm the first day, but I took it off and adjusted the straps to decrease the pressure, and say, it felt just right."

"I felt perfectly safe at all times, worked as hard as I wanted, for I am a plasterer by trade, and that is work where you get in all kinds of positions, and it never shifted out of place once."

One Month's Trial Free.

The Schulling Rupture Lock will be sent to any rupture sufferer for free trial for 30 days. That shows our confidence in it. It is simple and easy to wear. It has no insensate steel springs, stays, elastic, leg bands or complicated and dangerous attachments. It is a perfected device.

Our free book on rupture will interest you and explain in detail the workings of the Schulling Rupture Lock. Send for the book now. Just write a letter or postal asking for the book, giving your name and address clearly—or fill out and send to us the blank form here:

YOUNG WIRELESS WIZARD IS INVENTOR-OPERATOR

Roy Weiffle, Versatile Lad, Among Youngest Experts

Roy Weiffle, who is one of the versatile wireless operators of Alameda county, has received and sent messages to Alaska, Honolulu and other points within the radius of 2000 miles.

Young Weiffle has one of the finest equipped wireless stations in the bay region and is one of the youngest operators. He has already applied for a first-class license to operate. Weiffle is an inventor and has made the rotary spark gap, loading coils and various parts of the wireless apparatus, which he uses.

Many lads of this city have wireless stations, which they have erected. Among them are Ellery Stone and Anson Bilger, son of Frank M. Bilger of Verona, N. J.

In the Lafayette School of this city a number of the pupils are studying the enjoyed sending them. Many have secured the "pilot's license," and they have passed the wireless examinations at Mare Island.

MT. DIABLO TO BE WIRELESS STATION

The Contra Costa Chamber of Commerce Endorses Scheme of Oakland Secretary.

Wireless messages may flash from the summit of Mount Diablo before many months if the scheme of Secretary A. Denison of the Chamber of Commerce meets with the same encouragement that has been accorded it for the last few weeks. The plan has been endorsed by the Contra Costa County Chamber of Commerce and other commercial organizations of both counties are urging Congressman Charles F. Curry to introduce a bill to secure the necessary reservation and appropriation.

Situated as it is in the central commanding point of the bay region, Mount Diablo offers an ideal site for transmitting and receiving station. The altitude of the station would insure its freedom from interfering electrical currents in receiving messages from great distances and the sending range would be greatly increased. The south peak of the mountain, where the station would probably be located, is 3345 feet in height. If there should be objections rise to the selection of this spot on account of the influx of tourist travel that is anticipated when the new road and hotel are completed, the north peak could be utilized. This is 3563 feet high and is more isolated in situation.

The Chamber of Commerce also favors the establishment of a weather bureau station on the mountain, but so far has been unable to secure the co-operation of the United States department of the interior. The station would be of special value to the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys, as the mountain dominates the lowland section in a manner that offers exceptional opportunities for the collection of data.

SOCIETY WOMAN SHADOWS HUSBAND

And Obtains Divorce on Evidence Which She Collects Herself.

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—How a fashionable society woman played detective and after tracing her husband to a hotel room through peculiarities in his handwriting, surprised him in company of another woman, was told in the divorce court here.

Her work was rewarded with a divorce, custody of four pretty daughters and property of great value.

Mrs. E. E. Bumiller, a woman and society favorite, was the detective.

She was given a divorce by Judge Monroe from Joseph P. Bumiller. The other woman was declared by Mrs. Bumiller to be Miss Mathies.

Bumiller, who is a wealthy real estate man, member of the Bumiller family, prominent for many years in California, was ordered to pay his wife $250 per month alimony, transfer to her immediately the family home at 111 South Hampden street, one other piece of real estate and three-fifths of his holdings in the San Vicente Land Company.

Bumiller has five shares in the company, Mrs. Bumiller declared. Mrs. Bumiller and a private detective who assisted her were the ones who collected the evidence.

present. Mrs. Bumiller said: "When I suspected Mr. Bumiller was unduly friendly with Mrs. Mathies I engaged a private detective to inform me of anything that he should learn concerning them."

"February 21 of this year he informed me that Mr. Bumiller had been seen with another woman."

TRAPPED BOTH.

"I visited hotels with the detective and found on the register at a hotel on South Spring street a style of handwriting with which I was very familiar. The detective told me the room taken by the man who had signed the register and stood outside the door to see what would happen. I had stood one hour and ten minutes by my watch when the door opened and Mr. Bumiller emerged. The private detective ran into the room and I heard a woman exclaim, 'My heavens!'"

"I asked Mr. Bumiller to give me the key to the house. He did so and we separated."

The private detective told a similar story, saying that Mrs. Mathies was in the room when he entered.

The children, whose custody was given to the mother, are: Josephine, 15; Caroline, 12; Dorothy, 10, and Elizabeth, aged 7 years.

GIRL WITH SPINE CUT, SURVIVES OPERATION

SAN DIEGO, June 20.—One of the most unusual and successful operations in the medical history of the Pacific coast was performed June 10 on Miss Adelle M. Daus by Dr. H. C. Oatman of this city.

According to several local physicians Miss Daus had been a sufferer from a fibrous tumor pressing upon her spinal cord for the past seven years. She was removed to the Agnew sanitarium and operated on by Dr. Oatman.

It was necessary to cut away the skin and then by means of an electric saw remove several pieces of Miss Daus's spine, leaving the spinal cord exposed. After several days' rest the patient was again placed on the operating table and the tumor removed. Within several days Miss Daus was able to move and is declared to be in perfect health today.

Dr. Oatman refuses to comment on the operation but his fellow physicians declare it to be one of remarkable success.

FRENCH SCANDAL ENDS IN MURDER

Secrets of Crooked Powder
Concern Cost Holder
His Life.

PARIS, June 20.—"The Cadou mystery" is still puzzling the French police and civil authorities. M. Cadou, who was the head of a manufacturing firm in the south of France, was found murdered some time ago. An engineer named Pierre was arrested on suspicion, but was afterwards released.

A judicial investigation revealed the fact that the murder was connected in some way with the manufacture of powder for the French government. M. Le Grand, ex-mayor of Landernau, founded the Grand Palais company in 1907 with capital furnished by German cotton merchants.

A German army reserve officer named Greiss was placed at the head of the factory as technical engineer. The company was entirely German, with M. Le Grand as its French cover. Its chief and practically its only customer was the French war department.

EXPOSURE FOLLOWS DISASTER.

When the disaster to the battleship Lafayette followed the explosion on the cruiser Leven the powder used on both vessels was held to be responsible for the two disasters. One result of the investigation that followed was to draw attention to the essential German character of the Palais company. The company was thereupon prohibited from making tenders for war office contracts.

The chief German stockholder then withdrew his capital from the firm and M. Legend recognized the company and asked M. Cadou, deputy from Morlaix, to suggest a new president for the company, and named M. Cadou, who was appointed. A French engineer named Pierre Greiss as technical engineer.

This change allowed the company to again bid for supplies for the war department, but M. Cadou was soon found guilty of extending by obtaining pay for greater quantities of powder than had been distributed to the war department.

MYSTERIOUS "PULL" FINALLY FAILS

Cadou continued his practices for two years, thanks to a mysterious "pull," but at the end of 1912, after an official investigation, both he and his factory were definitely excluded from war office contracts.

Just about this time M. Le Grand on the opposite bank of the River Elorn, near the Palais company, was found guilty of the same crime, in which several

ALONE IN WORLD, SHE SEEKS REFORM

Not Even Dishonest Marriage,
Declares Girl Now on Probation.

LOS ANGELES, June 20.—Deluged with all sorts of advice, with offers of homes, friendship and marriage, given in letters from all over the country, Miss Helene Young, heroine of one of the most dramatic stories of the local courts, today took her first step in a new life she is determined to lead.

She obtained permission from the court to return to Chicago if she finds it necessary to leave Los Angeles, where she is on a term of a year's probation.

FOUGHT FOR SISTER.

Miss Young was released on a year's probation after pleading guilty to the charge of passing bad checks. Before being tried in this city she was arrested in Chicago, where the courts stayed the hand of the law for two months while she made an unsuccessful fight for her sister's life.

Miss Young does not want to leave Los Angeles. But unless she can find work she will have to. She has received $500 letters from persons all over the country offering her everything but work, she said today, with a rueful smile.

MIGHT HAVE MARRIED.

"I have had plenty of chances to obtain lifelong support by marrying men I have never seen, but I won't marry for a living," she said today.

"I am going to start my life anew and my plans for my future do not include compromising with my self-respect, even for a home. That is what I should have to do if I accepted any of these offers that have come to me from men I have never seen."

"I am unafraid of work. In fact, now that I have not the fear and responsibility which hung over me while I had my dying sister to care for, I am not afraid of anything in the world."

BUT I WANT WORK. In all the offers I have seen none proposed honest work with a living salary attached."

Miss Young is at present staying at Ocean Park with two girls, friends of her dead sister. They will not let her work now, but have insisted on her passing long days on the beach where sun and sea air have roared her from her recent strain, have rounded out her cheeks and touched them with pink of a sea shell.

HONESTY ALWAYS.

"I cannot continue to accept the kindness of these friends much longer. I have given myself two weeks as a time limit for finding work in Los Angeles. When that time expires I shall go to Chicago if I haven't found it."

UNSIGHTLY 'ECZEMA' BURNED AWFULLY

On Baby's Face, Head, Chest and
Arm. Was Disfigured. All One
Crust. Cuticura Soap and Ointment
Completely Cured.

R. F. D. No. 1, Box 72, Dumbarton, Ohio.
—"My baby was two months old when the eczema started to break out on her face and head and a little on her chest and arm. It broke out into pimples and it must have itched and burned awfully badly because the child would do nothing but scratch. I had to keep her hands wrapped up and when she scratched it would get sorer and unsightly. She was disfigured. It was all one crust. Her clothes would be sticking to the sores on her arm and chest. She was always getting worse."

"I tried — and it did not help her. I used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and the first few days I used them I could tell she was feeling better. I used these remedies of Cuticura Soap and three boxes of Cuticura Ointment. I washed her with the Cuticura Soap and then dried her and I would take my fingers and put the Cuticura Ointment on the sores. In three months she was completely cured." (Signed) Mrs. Mary Taylor, June 7, 1913.

To ridy itching and irritation of the eczema, remove crusts, scales and dead skin. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are most effective, agreeable and economical. Sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 23-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

NEW YORK MAY REFORM OWN STAGE

Breach of Promise Heroines No More Are Hits of the Drama.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Even in wicked old New York folks won't stand for everything and anything. The last straw was placed on the complacent camel's back by the recent breach of promise and heart-balm suit against the indirect multi-millionaire who was grabbed up as a headliner at a local show house which for years has depended on principals in the sensational and sordid happenings in the metropolis for its big acts.

The breach of promise suits, sensational murder trial, courtrooms and at exits of chambers where lust divorce proceedings were being heard, to snatch one or more of the principals as a headliner. After the second Thaw trial the sordid portion of the public including many who resent that appellation, was given an opportunity to see the "New York Times" by this enterprising management. After a young husband for artists in the altogether and sundry spiv actions, this same management a series of so-called "new pictures" that was absolutely nothing the not to commend it. The woman didn't even have a good figure.

THEN THE END. A little later an admitted woman of the "low-down" who had inveigled the son of an extremely wealthy man high in exclusive New York and Newport social circles, into marrying her, sued her youthful husband for maintenance. The papers "played up" the risqué details of the suit, and when the woman lost she was "taken on" at this theater. There are dozens of other similar cases. The one which finally sickened the public, however, was the employment of a young woman who recently sued a fabulously wealthy man for heart-balm because of stopped paying her some $50,000 a year to keep up the handsome apartments she lived in in Riverside Drive. The young woman had never seen a stage except from the audience side of the footlights. The "act" she had to "fame" was her admittedly shady relations with the millionaire. She had received much publicity in the newspapers, however.

The first few nights the usual crowd of morbid and curious flocked to see the "woman of the hour" and "act" but New York has tried. The crowds have stopped going. It is to be hoped they treat the next "act" of this kind in similar fashion. One doesn't have to go far to find reasons for the 1912-13 and the 1913-14 theatrical seasons, and for the more mediocre success that has marked most of the new productions that were put on. The last issue of one of the best theatrical publications of New York—a publication that is the unofficial organ of the theater—has been devoted to the length of some 4,000 words to admit that two things are chiefly responsible for the present state of affairs in theaterdom. They are the movies and the cabarets.

ONE WORTH WHILE. The movies are offering really wonderful "values." The cabaret of the stars who perform for the film companies, taken as a whole, has been vastly superior to that of the theater folk who have not acted before the camera. Add to this the ten, twenty, thirty admissions and the fact that the movie audience can see more action in less time than the theater audience, and the answer is easy. But the movies are not doing all of the value offering. The cabarets are and keep with the movies when it comes to giving the price value received. There are a dozen palatial places in New York where you can, by paying a little more for your food, get a mighty enjoyable vaudeville show thrown in. Then toward midnight enters the tangy temptress, in which she shows the still has little old New York at her feet.

And the cabaret manager who hasn't a new stunt for the edification and amusement of his guests at least once a week is indeed rare. Sometimes the stunts prove too popular to be superseded by another within a week. Such is the case at the New York Roof, where such a little thing as "routinette dancing" draws great crowds nightly. The New York Roof has its dance floor chalked off into circles just large enough for a couple to stand in, provided they stand close together. These circles are numbered. On the wall is a large wheel divided into many numbered segments as there are circles on the dance floor. While the dance is on, a whistle suddenly blows. The music stops. Every couple is supposed to jump into a numbered circle. The head waiter, at the blast of the whistle, starts a pointer in the roulette wheel spinning. If, when it stops, it points to a number corresponding to the number of the circle on which you stand, you win a prize. Some of these prizes are mighty attractive, too. They may be a vanity box, a cigarette case, a cigar holder or lighter. The scheme has proven so popular that dozens of dance-hall managers have stolen the idea. Thift of an idea in this town is proof of its popularity.

STRANDED SHIP WILL BE LEFT ON ROCKS

GLASGOW, Scotland, June 20.—The British admiral decided today to abandon the hospital ship Maine, presented to the British nation by American donors during the South African war, which went ashore on June 17 in the Firth of Lorn on the west coast of Scotland. It was the opinion of the officials that the cost of the salvage and repairs of the Maine would be more than the value of the vessel.

DRIVE AUTO TO MT. LASSEN CRATER

Maxwell Car Party Has Thrilling Trip to Volcano

Starting out with the object of seeing just what Mt. Lassen, the latest acquisition to California's gallery of natural wonders had to offer the adventurous motorists, a party of ardent automobilists set out last Saturday night for the crater region, determined to see for themselves the inspiring sights of this steaming mountain.

In a trip which took four days and four nights to make and which carried them over six hundred miles of roads, which brought them from the torrid heat of the summer Sacramento Valley, to the snow-capped peaks of the upper Lassen country, C. H. Gascon, factory expert of the Maxwell company, Burling Davidson, publicity manager of the United States Rubber Company of California, A. C. Scouling Nordell and Harry Collier, in a Maxwell 25 equipped with "Nobby tread" tires, succeeded in getting right into the heart of the volcano, disturbed mountains placing their car where an automobile had never been before.

Arriving in Red Bluff Sunday at eleven o'clock, after a dash up the valley, the party made all haste to get away from that city so as to cover the fifty six miles that intervened between Red Bluff and the Divide—the point determined on for the permanent camp of the expedition.

In Red Bluff the rumors of volcanic activities, the tales of hardships and the dangers endured by those who had tried to climb the mountain, were coming in thick and fast, and the quiet town was in a ferment over the unusual disturbance of Lassen sixty miles away.

From Red Bluff, the road to Mt. Lassen leads over a rough country to Payne's Creek, 24 miles away, after which the real grind of climbing into the hills started in earnest.

The next point reached was Mineral, 20 miles further on in the foothill country. It is about a mile from Mineral where the Mt. Lassen Forest Reserve station is located. The first evidence of danger came to the attention of the motorists two miles below Mineral where, the party encountered a family of summer sojourners, hastily packing up getting ready to leave. With baggage piled high on a big motor car they were just about to take the road back to Red Bluff and warningly told the Maxwell "Nobby Tread" party not to go further in as the mountain had been pronounced a real live volcano by authorities of the University of California.

On to Morgan Springs, six miles away, and then another six miles of dangerous, painful toiling brought the party to the Divide, where permanent camp was pitched. Sunday evening at six o'clock one of the big eruptions of the crater took place and the members of the expedition witnessed a spectacle, which once seen can never be forgotten. The camp was approximately 13 to 15 miles from the crater and from this distance the sight of immense columns of steam and smoke, rising into the evening air was sublime and impressive, filling the beholders with a sense of its awe inspiring grandeur. Steadily without a sound the plume of steam which streamed from the water would alternately flash up and die down as each successive eruption took place.

After a night spent out under the stars at the base of the mountain—early on Monday morning the party prepared to make the dash for the nearest possible point to the crater.

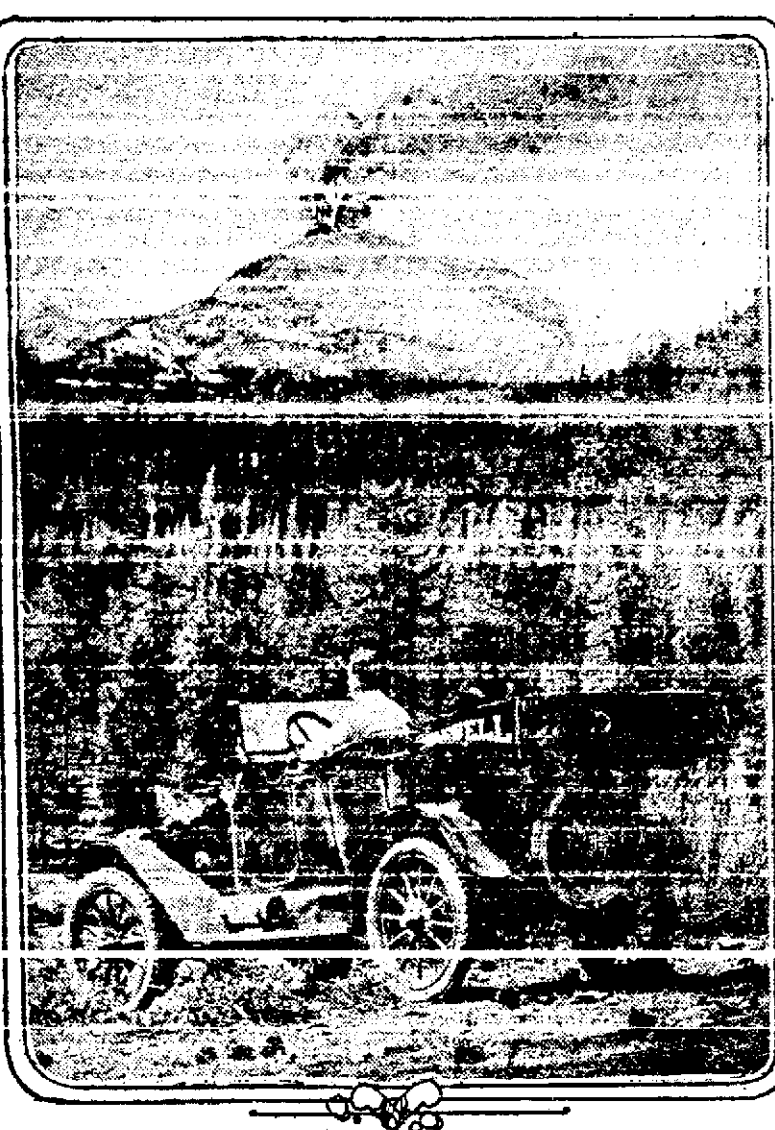

The work of clearing a path for the car over the ridge was such, that but a few miles could be made that day. The

CADILLAC OWNER PLANS BIG TRIP

To F. E. Hise of Pasadena will belong the honor of carrying the first "400-Mile 50,000-Mile Club" plate across the country. He received his badge of honor last week from the Pasadena branch and will leave in two weeks for New York.

Hise is one of the most enthusiastic tourists in California and gets real enjoyment out of his cars. He began his long-distance touring with a 1912 Cadillac. He spends part of his time in Mendocino Lake, and three times has made trips from Pasadena to Vancouver and return. On his next long trip across the continent he expects to follow the Santa Fe trail, but may decide to take the central route. He expects to cover 15,000 miles before returning to the coast.

MAXWELL "25," EQUIPPED WITH "NOBBY TREAD" TIRES, AT THE BASE OF MT. LASSEN, SHOWING THE ACTIVE VOLCANO IN THE DISTANCE.

night the party worn out with shoveling and wearisome trudging over the rough mountains returned to camp and spent the night on the Divide. Tuesday morning with the aid of shovels, axes, crowbars and a block and tackle, the party were able to advance to a point along the backbone of the ridge leading up to Mt. Lassen. From here they secured many fine views of the rugged old volcano and it was here that the country became so rough that nothing short of a steam derrick could put a machine any further up. Leaving Nordell with his camera at the car at this point, Gascon, Davidson and Collier proceeded on foot towards the crater, getting within a short distance of that spot, after painful climbing and some progress over lava boulders and snow-covered ridges. Nothing can adequately express the sensations of one who stands far up on the rasped and jagged sides of Mt. Lassen far above the snow line, watching the grim rim of the crater above, and momentarily expecting an eruption. Realizing the utter hopelessness of escape, in case of an explosion, the feelings of the motorists high up on the sides of the volcano, was one that never could be forgotten. Rapidly descending the mountain to where Nordell and the car had been left, the whole party then returned to camp—a comparatively safe distance from the menacing crater on the top of the grim old mountain. On Tuesday more pictures were taken and that evening about six the start back to Red Bluff was made. The work accomplished by the "Nobby Tread" Maxwell, never showed to better advantage, than during this punishing drive down the mountain side, and demonstrated conclusively the staying qualities of both. After a harrowing ride to Red Bluff they set out for San Francisco, stopping that night at Woodland, and on Wednesday continuing on to the city, via the road to Winters through Pleasant Valley and Vallejo and thence by boat to San Francisco.

Summing up the trip—undoubtedly one of the most hazardous as well as the most tollsome ever taken by any party of motorists in California—it can be said, that for those who want something different in motor touring, the sight of something sublime in natural phenomena, and something real exciting in accomplishment, the trip to Mt. Lassen, the only real active volcano in captivity in the United States has no peer as a tour.

G. A. MORRILL EN ROUTE EAST AS LODGE DELEGATE

G. A. Morrill, Oakland manager for the Chandler & Lyon Company supply house, left last Tuesday for Columbus, O., as a delegate representing the grand lodge of California at the five-day annual convention of the supreme council in Columbus.

During the absence of Manager Morrill in the east, L. L. Lockhart of the company's San Francisco interests will be in charge of the Oakland branch store.

John F. McLain, head of the John F. McLain Company, Northern California distributors of the popular Franklin line, has returned from a trip throughout the east. Primarily McLain went east to attend a conference at the Franklin factory in Syracuse, and en route stopped off at Chicago, Indianapolis, Pittsburgh and New York, where he made a careful study of business conditions in general and the automobile industry in particular. McLain reports business in the leading

KAHN'S TRUCKS USING DISTILLATE

Approximately 5,000 packages delivered, the cars totaling 7500 miles, and we averaged 12.76 miles per gallon of distillate. "We have had all our cars equipped with hot-air pipes on the exhaust, so while we start on gasoline, we run on distillate. We get more mileage and lower our cost considerably. The cost of fuel last month was less than $3 per car." "When you take into consideration all of these cars averaged 1250 miles in twenty-six working days, and at the very low cost of less than $3 per car for fuel, it certainly speaks a great deal for the economy of operating Willys utility trucks." A 116-mile sociability run to Kewanee was recently made by the Motorcycle club of Galesburg, Ill. In a recent fuel test at Omaha, Neb., "Doc" Diamond rode his motorcycle 191 beg to say that last month there were gallons on a gallon of gasoline.

USING DISTILLATE

Technically the largest individual users of trucks for delivering packages on the Pacific Coast are Kahn Bros. of Oakland, Cal., says J. T. Barnes, Oakland manager of J. W. Leavitt & Co. "The company is now operating a fleet of six Willys utility trucks in the general delivery department. The following report was made to us recently by the above company: "In reply to yours of the 11th inst., beg to say that last month there were gallons on a gallon of gasoline."

The Strict Maintenance of this Price is Your Guarantee of Security

THIS list price is established and maintained all over the country. It makes no difference whether you purchase your Overland in New York or New Mexico—this price never varies.

Recently, ten friends decided to each get an Overland. They went to an Overland dealer in a body—said they would take ten cars on the spot if he would give them 5% off. He refused. They argued that his neighboring competitor had already offered them 10% off on the car he represented. The Overland dealer then replied that if they would wait a few days longer the man next door would probably give them 20% off! They did wait a few days—then bought ten Overlands at the full list price.

Now—these men bought the Overlands, not because they knew so much more about the car, but because they had complete confidence in the Overland dealer who had the one fixed price and absolutely no confidence in the competing dealer who had a variety of prices.

It does not take any great amount of intelligence to see through the weaknesses, drawbacks and insecurity of a cut-price car proposition. Either the car, or the factory behind it, or the dealer, or all three cannot be relied upon.

Remember—that in purchasing an Overland you get a great deal more than just the best car for the least money; you get service that is dependable, permanent and international.

That the public has firm faith in the Overland is amply evidenced by the following record breaking figures:

Up to date we have delivered over $42,000,000.00 worth of nineteen fourteen Overlands. Right now the public is investing over $250,000 a day in Overlands.

If we did not out-class (both in car value and service) those who are continually cutting their price how could we continue to get the greatest volume of business?

The Overland is a larger car, a more powerful car, a more comfortable car, a more complete car and a more thoroughly made car than any other for the price.

And it costs you 30% less than any other similar car.

Why don't you have an Overland demonstration?

TEACHES SCHOOL IN AN OVERLAND

Australian School Master in Car Travels to Pupils in Country.

Australia has a pedagogue who teaches a school several thousand miles in diameter. He conducts his class in a district of Queensland, where a ranch of 25,000 acres is considered small. In order to gather enough pupils to fill a one-room schoolhouse it would be necessary to draw on the entire country within a radius of 500 miles.

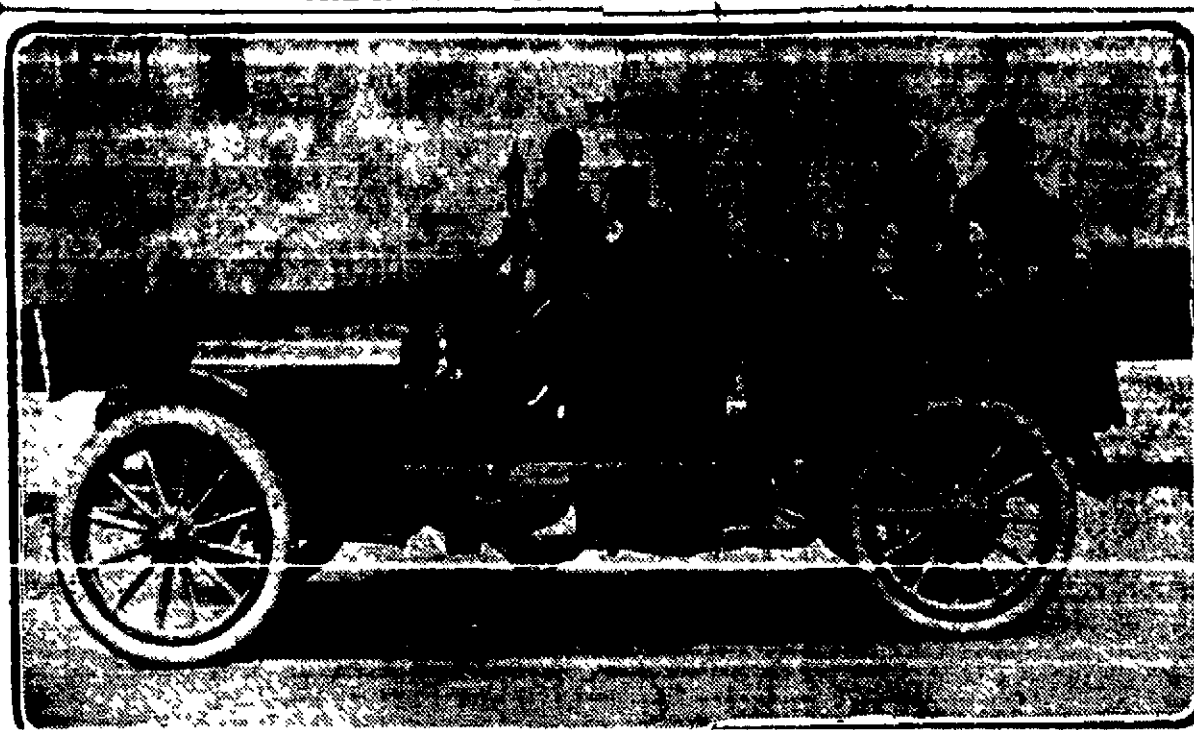

On instead of competitive a number of struggling educational institutions in semi-populated localities, the Australian government engages an itinerant schoolmaster, who is an expert motorist and a hardy tourist. For his use they have purchased an Overland automobile from the Willys-Overland dealer in Queens-

In his car the traveling teacher goes from ranch to ranch, making stops of two or three days at each, distributing books and mapping out a course of instruction by which the youngsters can easily teach themselves. The pupils are treated to lengthy vacations every year, as the school terms are curtailed by heavy rains that sweep Australia during the spring and often continue through the summer. During these seasons the streams are flooded and the roads are impassable for all vehicles.

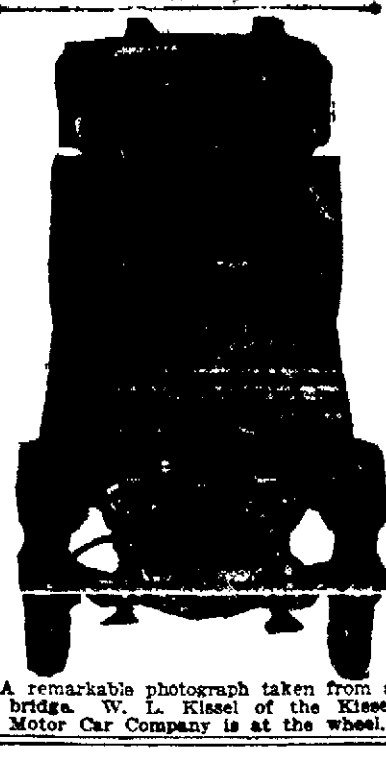

Besides the lone tourist, the car carries sixty gallons of gasoline, ten gallons of oil, thirty gallons of water and 150 pounds of school books. During his first term the schoolmaster covered more than 4000 miles and did not see a railroad track for six months.

Heads of the police department of Buffalo, N. Y., have recommended that at least 20 more motorcycles be purchased for the use of patrolmen.

1915 HAYNES AUTO ARRIVES ON COAST

Better Autos for Less Money
Is Slogan of Pioneer Factory.

In line with the policy of the automobile department of THE TRIBUNE to keep the public of Oakland fully informed as to the news of the various new model cars on the market, it is with pleasure that we introduce the 1915 Haynes machines to the motoring public this morning.

The new Haynes cars will be known under the new series as the models "31" and "32." They are built on the same substantial lines as the Haynes cars of former series, superbly finished and luxuriously equipped with a wide range of body styles and in both four and six-cylinder types. Owing to the increased factory capacity of the Haynes plant this season these cars will be possible to the public at a much lower figure than heretofore, according to Phil Cole, the Oakland branch house manager of the Haynes car interests. The new models have already been received and have caused considerable favorable comment from the local motoring public.

NEW KISSEL CAR HERE THIS WEEK

Two-door Model of the 1915
Vintage to Be Shown in Oakland.

One of the cleverest cars of the 1915 season will make its appearance in Oakland this week when the widely heralded two-door Kisel Kar will be on display at the saleshome of the Oakland house of the Pacific Kisel Kar branch, according to Manager Ben Hammond of the local branch house.

The Kisel Kar is proving very popular with the motoring public here. Hammond reports the following purchasers of the Kisel lately:

F. O. Becker 8-50 Oakland A. Christensen 4-40 Alameda V. Smith 4-40 Oakland G. W. McNear 4-40 Oakland, I. H. Ball 4-40 Oakland Gov. W. McNear 4-40 Oakland A. H. Brandt 4-40 Piedmont H. P. Bancroft 8-40 Oakland F. T. Malley 6-48 Oakland W. A. Newson 4-40 Oakland H. T. Birr 4-40 Oakland A. Somersett 6-48 Berkeley.

In making the two-door model, Hammond says:

"For some months the Kisels have been building this body type on special order, and with such increasing success that it was decided to manufacture it in quantity."

"The two-door body is very handsome, giving the car a notable distinction as well as grace and smartness. It is a perfect, unbroken stream line from the bow of the bonnet to the midships. Both driver and passengers enter the tonneau from 25-inch doors set at the rear on either side of the car."

The front seats are individual and between them is an eight-inch aisle, permitting free passage from the rear. Both a four and a six-cylinder model is offered, the rear seats in the four-passenger being separated by an arm.

By those who want how completely and quickly the introduction of the four-door type supplanted the old "open front" automobile, a repetition of history is predicted. It is pointed out that while the four-door model is a success except to beautiful lines of the car, the two-door style offers improved comfort and convenience as well as a better appearance."

PEACOCK TOURS VALLEY IN MERCURY CYCLECAR

George Peacock is back in Oakland after a six days tour of the interior valleys in a Mercury cyclecar, during which time he covered over 800 miles and never made an adjustment on the Mercury, according to his statements. "The car is a wonder," Peacock reports, "and demands for the cyclecars in the Fresno territory."

OVERLAND BOOKLET.
The Willys-Overland Company has issued to J. W. Leavitt & Co. a most interesting pamphlet on the Overland car, entitled "How to Know You Are Getting More for Your Money." All prospective buyers would do well to read this pamphlet before they purchase a car.

A Studebaker "Six" was the pathfinder car for the Philadelphia Inquirer's recent Atlantic City run. This car, driven by H. E. DeForest, also acted as pilot car for the tour back, and participated in the contest.

HUDSON SIX 40

New Price $1550

1915 Model Ready Now

Why buy a '14 Model when the New HUDSON will be Available in a Couple of Weeks?

The HUDSON Six-40 for 1914 was 3000 cars oversold. Not in years has there been such a new-car sensation. In lightness, beauty and price not a quality car could compare with it.

And motor car buyers, almost as a unit, now demand smooth-running Sixes, when they pay more than $1200. At a higher price, Fours are ridiculous.

Now a Bigger Sensation

Now comes a new HUDSON Six-40—lighter than last year, lower in price, and with 31 distinct improvements. The HUDSON engineers—48 of them—have spent a whole year on refinements. And on nothing else, for last year's model, in a mechanical way, was perfect.

To meet the demand the output has been trebled, thus reducing the cost immensely. The new price will be the lowest price ever quoted on any type of high-grade car.

Come and discuss it with us. The first of the new models arrive late this month. If you want it, we'll save one for you. Today we can put you very close to the top of the waiting list.

By all means don't at this time pay more than $1200 for any other car. You would surely regret it. We promise you, in this new HUDSON Six-40, the greatest new-season attraction.

JEFFERY FACTORY AGAIN BREAKS OUTPUT RECORDS

Thirty-five cars per day, or a total of more than 900 for the month, was the record of the Jeffery factory during the twenty-five working days of May.

New men are being added to the Jeffery force every day, although the working time is now thirteen hours, and the schedule for June is 1200 cars.

The ideal of the Jeffery, has always been to manufacture a limited number of cars machining and building as accurately as possible. About 25 per cent of the Jeffery output is the Sixes, and the remainder is the light Four, in which is embodied a high speed, high efficiency European motor.

A Fourth of July endurance run to Madison and return is being planned by members of the Sheboygan Wis. Motorcycle Club. About 100 riders will participate.

Richard Strauss, of Berlin, son of the composer, is an enthusiastic motorcycleist. He says that in many respects he prefers American motorcycles to those built on the Continent.

ANNOUNCES 1915 HUDSON SIX CAR

Larger Output, More Machine for Less Money, Trend of Factories.

Realizing the trend of a big portion of the present-day automobile industry is the car's announcement of the model. The annual announcements of the prominent motor car manufacturers are always looked forward to with a great deal of interest by motor enthusiasts and prospective buyers as these announcements always show the advance being made by the American manufacturers of automobiles. It is the importance attached to these forecasts that serves to attract attention to the new models of Hudson cars which have just been announced.

The Hudson, as a manufacturer of six-cylinder cars, has always been a leader in the design and equipment and according to the announcement of the 1915 models of this car, the company will again prove a big factor in the automobile industry.

models is the fact that there has been a substantial reduction in price and at the same time thirty-one new features have been added.

AUTO ROUTE MAPS GIVEN AWAY FREE

One of the most comprehensive automobile touring maps that has been compiled for some time is being given away to the motorists by Chanslor & Lyon Co., L. L. Lockhart, manager of the company's Oakland store, during the absence of G. A. Morrill, in speaking of the map, says:

"This Tahoe Tavern map is one of the best that we have ever seen. I have yet to find an error in any of the markings. Distances, and directions are correct and the colored routes make it exceedingly easy for the motorists to follow.

"The map is divided up into six colored markings, there is the Lincoln Highway and the Lincoln trail, the Yosemite tour, the Sportsmen tour, which is up into the Klamath Falls and McCloud river country, the Lake Tahoe tour, which makes the trip from Sacramento via Truckee, Reno, Carson City, Tallac, Placerville and Folsom, the Lake County tour, that goes by way of San Rafael, Santa Rosa, Placerville to Clear Lake, thence returning by way of Lower Lake, Middletown, Colusa and Benbow, and ending at Oakland, and a general main highway marking of the whole of California, western Nevada and Oregon south of Portland.

"These maps are given away free."

GOODYEAR TIRES ON RECORD TRIP

Helped Baker to Break Time Between Oceans With Indian.

Dodging sharp cactus plants through the terrific heat of a thousand-mile stretch of desert sand, over the rocks of four mountain ranges, through 200 miles of mud and sixty miles on railroad ties, yet the tires that helped Baker slash all world's records in the recent coast-to-coast tour show little wear. The trip was made in eleven and a half days. This is nine days less than the previous transcontinental record. The tires were not only taken from stock, but had been ridden nearly 100,000 miles previous to the

RECORD CLIMB MADE WITH ASSOCIATED GAS

When wild Bill Turner made his sensational onslaught against time records in climbing Mt. Hamilton recently he used Associated gasoline, according to reports received here during the week.

Turner, with his Maxwell car, made the sensational record of 43 minutes and 32 seconds from the San Jose Country Club to the Lick Observatory on Mt. Hamilton, establishing a time record that will in all probability stand for all time to come. The best previous time was 1 hour and 5 minutes, as was told in last Sunday's issue of THE TRIBUNE outing section.

To show the manufacturer how his tires stood the most wonderful test of endurance ever held Baker shipped the tires to the Goodyear factory in Akron. A wire from the record-holder upon his arrival in New York follows:

"Transcontinental record—11 days 12 hours 10 minutes. Had seven nails in the tire in eighteen miles. Changed same to play safe. Outside of that, no trouble at all. Tire in fine condition."

The Extra Millions Spent on Goodyear Tires Let No Man Charge You Higher Prices For Tires Not Made Like These

For many years we have had scores of experts working to better No-Rim-Cut tires. They are in our Department of Research and Experiment. Their efforts have cost us, in your behalf, $100,000 yearly.

Every No-Rim-Cut tire gets our extra "Go-Away" cure. This is done to save the countless blow-outs due to wrinkled fabric. It is done by no other tire maker.

This single extra process costs us $250,000.

We create in each tire, during vulcanization, hundreds of large rubber rivets. This is done to combat tread separation—to reduce the risk 60 per cent.

The simple rights to this method cost us $50,000.

Another costly, exclusive feature makes rim-cutting impossible. No other satisfactory way is known.

And these tires alone have our All-Weather tread. That's a tough, double-thick anti-skid. It rides as smooth as a plain tread, yet it grasps wet roads with countless deep and sharp-edged grips.

These efforts and features have cost us millions of dollars. They have saved tire users tens of millions, perhaps. And not one of these four—the greatest features in tire making—is found in any other tire.

THE GOODYEAR TIRE & RUBBER COMPANY, AKRON, OHIO

This Company has no connection whatever with any other rubber concern which uses the Goodyear name.

Any Dealer can supply you Goodyear Tires. If the wanted size is not in stock he will telephone our Local Branch.

Note the Result

Goodyear tires have come to outsell any other tire in the world. And this year—after millions of these tires have been tested—our tire sales jump 65 per cent. Never before have so many men discarded other tires for Goodyears.

Sold at Prices Others Cannot Meet

But these costly tires are this year selling below 16 other makes. Many tires cost one-fourth to one-half more.

Not an extra-price tire exceeds the Goodyear in any way whatever. Not one embodies any of our four exclusive features. Not one has attained, in the test of time, such prestige and such sale.

Our lower prices are due to mammoth output. They are due to efficiency, to modern equipment. They are due to low profit. Our last year's profit averaged 8 1/2 per cent.

Every dollar of higher price means extra cost per mile.

Don't pay it. You will get in Goodyears all the value that anyone can give you. And any dealer will supply them if you say you want Goodyear tires.

Tom Hughes Says "Roll Over," and the Tigers Roll Seals' Nose Out the Oaks in Tempestuous Ten-Inning Struggle

PAPRIKA SERIES NOW 3-2, OAKS LEADING Tobin's Double in Tenth, Puts Skids Under Christians

[By BILLY FITZ.]
LITTLE JOE TOBIN, born and bred in the heart of Oakland, unclothed a double in the tenth round and the Oaks disconsolately trudged off of overcast field 3-2 losers. It was the third extra inning struggle of the week and as fruitful of fireworks as a Mexican election. Red' Held's burnished copper headpiece was not any hotter than the tempers of the tolling athletes. Peter O'Leary demonstrated the Kickapoo crawl in the third inning talked in five different languages at the same time and was thrown out by the bosom of his pants. Jerry Downs, who is usually as tractable as a mountain mule in January, did a Mad McCulloch stunt at the end of the sixth frame and Tim station with Rabbit Munder and station Cartwright at third. Christian and Quinlan tried to climb McCarthy's frame work, but the ump, sprinted out of their way.

Through it all, a typical San Francisco baseball congregation sang an accompanying prelude, interlude and postlude. The crowd rose to its hind legs occasionally and called "Red" Held everything in Webster's unabridged, going over the litany several times to make sure they hadn't overlooked anything. The amusing part of it all was that the only real umpirical bloomer poked by the majority, while the minority just dutifully silent as it happened to be that the Oaks were the ones to suffer. With the fifth, Zacher threw a hard bouncer to Cartwright on third, and the Oaks were around to try and get Quinlan as the latter was sliding past him into the bar. Cartwright touched Quinlan's left foot, McCarthy overtook entirely, and the fact that the Seal's leader touched the runner with his gloved hand while he was holding the ball in his right hand, sent two feet away from Quinlan.

It was at this juncture that Christian and Quinlan rushed in pursuit of the umpire, but McCarthy was already on the run for the other side of the diamond and the Oaks abandoned the pursuit.

The altitudinous Mr. Prough, surmised Clinton topped over the first eleven Seals as they came up for air but in the fifth chapter, the Cook to Ness combination fell down on the ground. By the general direction of the North Pole, Gardner holding Charles at first by a Herculean effort. Corban, emboldened by this sudden turn of events, immediately put the out look grew dark, the complexion of the advancing batter, Christian, the gentleman in the black and African handpiece punched a single into left scoring Charles and advancing Corban down center. With many an out cheer the Oaks, flanking punter cleverly and Rubie Gardner, galloping in to the rescue, nipped the ball drastically in time, but they were not to be so easily fooled. The Seals' hitting was a single, immediately the out look grew dark, the complexion of the advancing batter, Christian, the gentleman in the black and African handpiece punched a single into left scoring Charles and advancing Corban down center. With many an out cheer the Oaks, flanking punter cleverly and Rubie Gardner, galloping in to the rescue, nipped the ball drastically in time, but they were not to be so easily fooled.

The Oaks having opened with a brace of tallies, the Seals tied it up in the seventh, when Cartwright, after passing the bat to the pitcher, scored on a screaming single by Corban into Middleton's territory. Middleton, who is now in Los Angeles, in the tenth when he opened the round with a vicious steamer to left good for a bag, but the Seals' hitting was a single, immediately the out look grew dark, the complexion of the advancing batter, Christian, the gentleman in the black and African handpiece punched a single into left scoring Charles and advancing Corban down center. With many an out cheer the Oaks, flanking punter cleverly and Rubie Gardner, galloping in to the rescue, nipped the ball drastically in time, but they were not to be so easily fooled.

The way the Oaks started in, it looked as though they had the season's run record and that the Seal infield was bent upon seeing the Oaks get what they were after. Corban scratched a single to Cartwright, who is now in Los Angeles, in the tenth when he opened the round with a vicious steamer to left good for a bag, but the Seals' hitting was a single, immediately the out look grew dark, the complexion of the advancing batter, Christian, the gentleman in the black and African handpiece punched a single into left scoring Charles and advancing Corban down center. With many an out cheer the Oaks, flanking punter cleverly and Rubie Gardner, galloping in to the rescue, nipped the ball drastically in time, but they were not to be so easily fooled.

Altogether it was a warm afternoon even for Ewing Field, the score: OAKLAND, 3; SEALS, 2.

CLAUDE WILLIAMS ENTERS TEMPLE OF FAME WITHIN ONE GAME

WITH STROUD
Southern Association Twirler Shuts Out Portland in Wolfstown.

SACRAMENTO, June 20.—For twelve weeks Sacramento fandom has entertained the opinion that Sailor Stroud was the only Sacramento pitcher who could twirl a shut-out game. Today Claude Williams, Southern Association southpaw acquired via the Detroit route, achieved the distinction of pitching the first shut-out game for Sacramento this year. Thanks to the inefficiency of Southpaw Evans, the Portland Beavers drew a 5 to 0 blank. The Wolves' fourth win of the series.

The game was won and lost in the second and third frames. Evans, who is now in Los Angeles, in the tenth when he opened the round with a vicious steamer to left good for a bag, but the Seals' hitting was a single, immediately the out look grew dark, the complexion of the advancing batter, Christian, the gentleman in the black and African handpiece punched a single into left scoring Charles and advancing Corban down center. Evans looked around again, saw that first was unoccupied and once again filled them up, walking Orr. Then for a second time he walked the bases loaded. ## INE OUTSTRIPS MODERN UTOPIA his dream of a socialistic state in "Modern Utopia," H. G. Wells imagines a system of governmental supervision so minute that the photograph and million measurements of each individual are kept in a vast central file. No millionaire can disguise himself as a shavel-headed tramp about the city in search of sociological data, no adventurer can pass himself off in society as an earl, because each must carry with him a card which corresponds with its duplicate on record in the bureau.

Such a system there are some men believe a century or more in advance of the world. Joseph E. Caine, managing director of the Commercial Club, goes one better—he is already carrying an indefinite future of Utopia. At one would think so, when a glimpse taken at the mail which reaches him is no uncommon thing for him to find a card addressed to "Mr. Caine, Utopia, Cal." The remaining directions of Caine's genial countenance are on the envelope. These letters go wandering about the city in search of their destination, but straightening pigeons to the Commercial Club may our remote Utopian descendant address their correspondence with a photograph and a record number, such as "2457652R." In the meantime Caine enjoys one of the privileges of his vast-grandchildren.

About fraudulent advertisers
Taken from Grand Rapids Furniture Record

Instances are unnumbered in which dealers in furniture have purchased a few samples at the exhibition, either in Grand Rapids or Chicago, and then gone home and announced the sale of the entire line of samples, or the complete output of the factory, or some similar false or misleading statement. Because of the known position which Grand Rapids holds in the trade and the established reputation of Grand Rapids furniture, the manufacturers there suffer more than elsewhere. They usually advertise that the purchase was made for 25 cents on the dollar. These statements are invariably misleading and generally false. These evils the associated advertising clubs are determined to destroy, and many states and cities have enacted very stringent laws against fraudulent advertising, which makes prosecution possible.
